

COURT DECREE PLACES LIMIT ON POLL-WATCHERS IN CHARTER VOTE

Effect of Ruling Makes Only Challengers Designated by G.O.P. and Democratic Chairmen Eligible.

The only challengers and watchers permitted at polling places in next Tuesday's charter freeholder election will be those designated by the Democratic and Republican party chairmen, under a ruling by Circuit Judge John K. Regan yesterday.

Action by the court was in the form of a declaratory judgment in a suit precipitated by Paul W. Preiser, one of 45 candidates for 13 places on the freeholder board, who had demanded that the Election Board permit his campaign committee to designate challengers and watchers in his behalf.

The Election Board then filed suit for the declaratory judgment since the law governing polling place challengers and watchers had been repealed by the Legislature and no substitute legislation had been passed.

In his order Judge Regan ruled that Preiser and his committee are not political parties within the meaning of the state election laws and hence are without authority to designate watchers.

Preiser argued that since freeholder candidates did not file as party members, the two political parties are not opposed in the election and hence have no particular reason to watch the vote-counting carefully.

On the other hand, he pointed out, there will be no persons in the polling places designated to protect the interests of particular candidates.

Ward leaders of both parties are expected to back slaves in opposition to the 13-member slate drafted by the non-partisan Citizens Charter Committee. Preiser, conceding it would be physically impossible for each of the 45 candidates to have poll watchers, pointed out that none of the other candidates had asked for them. He contended the denial of his request, coupled with the authorization to the political parties to have watchers, was a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment, which guarantees equal protection of the laws to all citizens.

The outcome of next Tuesday's election will determine whether the citizens or the political organizations will decide what features to incorporate in a new city charter, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker said last night. Urging voters to elect the slate of candidates supported by the Citizens Committee, Tucker declared that "the citizens alone should say what the powers of the elective office will be and which offices should be retained."

The group backed by the Citizens Committee represents the citizens' interests and not the politicians, he said in a 10-minute talk over television station KWK-TV. Politicians are anxious to get their candidates elected so they can "dictate to them," the Mayor added.

"The charter needs to be rewritten," he explained "to meet the changing times. In 1914, when the document was written, automobiles were a novelty and we had gas lights."

"Unrelated Things." "The old charter doesn't permit this city to form any new departments. As a result, the Department of Public Welfare, for example, has in its such un-

TOWN FED UP PAYING RENT OF ONE 'FATTE CALFE'

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., May 4—Mayor George Vergara disclosed yesterday that he has asked the Pell Family Association to relieve the city of its obligation to pay rent of one "fatte calfe" to the family.

"It is becoming increasingly difficult each year to come up with a fatte calfe even though the Pell family comes up with an heir or assign to plague the good burghers of the Queen City," Mayor Vergara told a family representative.

The agreement was brought to light six years ago and the city has been paying through the stockyard ever since. Mayor Vergara campaigned last November on a promise to do away with the rental.

ONE-STAR GENERAL NOW A ONE-STRIPE G.I. IN AIR FORCE

PROVIDENCE, R.I., May 4 (AP)—A one-star general became a one-stripe enlisted man in the Air Force reserve here yesterday.

Brig. Gen. Bruce Johnson of Warwick, R.I., who was forced by law to go on the retired list on his sixtieth birthday last Monday, wanted to stay active in the reserve. The only way he could do so was as an enlisted man. At stake is retirement pay, for which he needs four more years of service.

So he reported to the Providence Air Reserve Center and was sworn in as an airman third class—the equivalent of private first class—by Lt. Col. John P. McBryde.

Retirement pay was only a minor consideration in his decision to join the enlisted ranks, Johnson said. His big objective was to stay active.

CHICAGO HOTELS HOLD 11,825 ROOMS FOR DEMOCRATS

CHICAGO, May 4 (AP)—This year's Democratic National Convention will put a bigger strain on Chicago's hotels than the 1952 convention, the Chicago Convention Bureau said yesterday.

Executive Director Chester A. Wilkins said 11,825 rooms have been set aside in 46 hotels for convention participants, as compared with 9760 rooms used in 1952.

YOUTH ADMITS HE KILLED DRIVER IN $10 CAB ROBBERY

Police Acting on Tip Arrest Donald Wesley Edwards, 20, Get Signed Confession.

Donald Wesley Edwards, 20 years old, who has been arrested frequently since he was 15, signed written confessions last night admitting he shot and killed Malcolm E. Segasture, a LaCade Cab driver, in a $10 holdup April 18, police announced.

Young Edwards, who served a two-year term in the Intermediate Reformatory at Alcoa, was hazy about some details of the killing, police said. He and several companions, also under arrest, gave statements indicating he was drunk when he left a Hamilton boulevard apartment shortly before the holdup attempt.

Segasture was shot when he resisted and began grappling with Edwards, according to the confession.

The arrest of Edwards, who lives in the 2100 block of Salisbury street, was made at 9:30 o'clock last night by detectives of the Penrose street district "flying squad," who know Edwards well.

Detective Sgt. Charles Nash, in charge of the "flying squad," said the break in the Segasture case came yesterday afternoon. A boy being questioned in another investigation told detectives he knew of a youth who had knowledge of the taxicab killing.

An immediate search began for the youth and he was soon found. He was Guy Harold Fitzwater, 20, living in the 1400 block of Temple place, who gave police the first information about Edwards.

Edwards was found at the Salisbury street address and he and a 17-year-old girl, who was there with him, were taken into custody. A confession to police followed several hours of questioning. Edwards later made an additional statement to a representative of the Circuit Attorney's office, verifying the first confession.

In his confession, Edwards told of drinking for several hours at two taverns with a 19-year-old married woman the night of the killing. Shortly before midnight they went to the apartment of a 24-year-old divorcee in the 700 block of Hamilton. Fitzwater was already there, Edwards said.

After drinking more whisky, Edwards said, he left the apartment about 12:30 a.m., saying "I was going to get a drink."

NATO MINISTERS NEAR ACCORD ON GROUP TO PLAN WIDER ACTION

Proposal Said to Have Been Made by Dulles — Greater Political, Economic Functioning Sought.

PARIS, May 4 (AP)—Foreign ministers of the Atlantic alliance neared agreement tonight on the appointment of a two- or three-man group to map out greater political and economic co-ordination among NATO members.

NATO officials said the proposal came from United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. There was no hint as to who the two or three ministers might be.

Dulles told the NATO council these ministers should report back next autumn with recommendations on how to deal with the problems of peaceful coexistence in the coming decade.

Dulles made his statement at the opening secret session this morning of the NATO Council. The 15 foreign ministers of the member nations are meeting to map new strategy for the Atlantic alliance in the present period of transition brought on by the new Soviet policy of apparent friendliness.

Dulles exhorted his colleagues to show the same strength in the face of the new Soviet tactics that they did when Moscow policy was one of threats. He predicted that if they did, the West would then reasonably expect the Soviet Union to become an acceptable free nation.

Similar Views Voiced. Eight of the 15 foreign ministers spoke at the morning session. Most of them were reported as having views similar to those of Dulles.

Conference sources said they were agreed that there already have been changes inside the Soviet Union following the death of Joseph Stalin and the consequent policy of downgrading its importance. There was skepticism, however, that ultimate Soviet aims have changed with their tactics. The consensus was that, while there have been "important" changes in Russia, the West still must keep up its guard.

It was from this point of departure that the Foreign Ministers will attempt to chart the future course of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in the two-day conference being held in the Palais de Chaillot.

There has been general agreement that NATO must broaden its base from that of a purely military alliance into a political and economic field. The question in the present discussions is how to bring this about.

French Foreign Minister Pinet-Fraud was circulating a plan which would bring the United States and the Soviet Union into a new United Nations economic development agency to help underdeveloped areas—with the United States footing most of the bill. The United States has been questioning this plan, and Britain has been cool toward it.

Conference sources reported that Dulles warned in his address that the No. 1 Soviet priority appeared to be the development of superiority in modern weapons.

He said he felt the Russian tactics of smiles was aimed at disrupting the unity of the West and bringing under Soviet domination the newly-independent countries which make up one-third of the world.

The Soviet de-emphasis on force posed a serious problem to the West, the secretary said, but he added there was no reason for the West to be dismayed.

EISENHOWER DEFENDS U.S. AIRPOWER; SAYS CHOTINER DID NOT VIOLATE ETHICS

HE IS QUESTIONED ON HELP WHITE HOUSE AIDS GAVE NIXON ASSOCIATE

Cites His Rule to Throw Influence Operators Out—Sees No Reason to Condemn California Lawyer.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, May 4—President Eisenhower said today that he has no reason to believe that Murray M. Chotiner violated the rules of ethics which he has laid down for his Administration.

The President's comment was in response to a question as to whether he had reviewed the testimony given yesterday by Chotiner before the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee.

Chotiner, a Republican lawyer-politician and campaign manager in 1952 for Vice President Richard M. Nixon, disclosed that he had visited the White House in behalf of clients on two occasions and that staff members there had made telephone calls for him in connection with legal matters he was handling.

At the same time Chotiner denied flatly that he had ever used his association with Nixon or any other political influence to help him in cases pending before Government agencies.

The President said he had not reviewed the testimony but had read reports on it starting last night.

"Recipe for Ethics." Mr. Eisenhower was asked if he had any suggestion which "might be called a recipe for a code of ethics for people who have friends in government who deal with government."

"Now, first of all," the President replied, "I have given two specific orders, often repeated to the executive branch of the Government."

"First, any individual coming anywhere in this Government is first assured of courteous treatment. I will not tolerate any arrogance on the part of Government officials, and if anybody in this room, or anywhere, wants to come to my place, including my staff, say you have got a problem, they will, someone will, do his best to put you in touch with the right official."

"My second thing has been this: If anyone ever comes to me as part of this Government and claiming some privilege for even as low as introduction to an official he wants to meet on the basis that he is part of my family or of my friends, that he has any connection with the White House, he is to be thrown out instantly."

Mr. Eisenhower went on to say that as for Chotiner's action in contacting two White House aides, there is absolutely no grounds in these particular cases for believing that my two rules were violated.

"In both cases that this man (Chotiner) appealed he was turned down. He was merely put in touch, in one case, with the CAB to find out, I believe, when a decision was coming down, and it was against his client. It was — one of them was appealed, I believe it was again declined; the other one was appealed and is now in front of the courts."

"In no case did any connection he had with the White House benefit him one bit, and if it does, if ever I can't believe that anybody on my staff would ever be guilty of an indiscretion. But if anything came to my attention of that kind, any part of this Government, that individual would be gone."

Press Conference Invitation

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER in affable mood as he points to a reporter and invites a question at his press conference in Washington today.

'HAD TO SAY YES' REMARK WAS FACETIOUS, IF HE MADE IT, PRESIDENT SAYS

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP). PRESIDENT EISENHOWER was asked at his press conference today whether he had said last Feb. 29, the day he announced his availability for a second term, "I had to say yes because they told me they didn't have time to build up another candidate."

Mr. Eisenhower replied with a smile: "Why I have heard so many stories about my candidacy I couldn't possibly remember whether I ever said any such thing, and if I did I could have said it very facetiously. I certainly before this body testified time and again I think we have got a world of Republicans that are fully capable of carrying any responsibility in the country."

The Feb. 29 remark, reported as overheard as the President and others passed in a corridor, was quoted in a United Press dispatch, but was withdrawn before receiving wide publication, on the ground that it was not known definitely to what it referred or whether it had been made facetiously.

'NO' TO PICTURE OF EISENHOWER, HOOVER, TRUMAN

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP).—The White House has turned down a request that President Eisenhower have his picture taken on the Capitol steps with former Presidents Truman and Hoover.

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said he doubts there is much interest in such a picture. He added it would seem to be "an unwarranted inconvenience and an intrusion" on the time of the former Presidents to ask them to travel to Washington for the picture-taking.

Senator Henry M. Jackson (Dem.), made public Hagerty's reply to the suggestion, which came from Ralph Thieriault of Warren, Wash. Jackson had sent Thieriault's letter to the White House last week.

It was Thieriault's view that the country may never again have two living ex-presidents and that a picture of them with Mr. Eisenhower would be one "that might go down in history as of great value."

Hagerty's Announcement. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty earlier had asserted that there was nothing "improper" about Chotiner's visits to the White House aides. Chotiner testified about his visits before the Senate subcommittee earlier yesterday. The subcommittee is conducting a broad inquiry into alleged graft and corruption in the placing of contracts for military uniforms.

PRESIDENT CITES MEDIUM BOMBER FORCE, WORLD'S STRONGEST NAVY

Commenting on B-52 Lag, He Declares It Is Not Necessary to Match Russia in All Categories.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, May 4—President Eisenhower, commenting on evidence that the United States intercontinental bomber program is falling behind that of Soviet Russia, said today the country would feel a lot better when it hears the full story of America's airpower.

The President's thesis was that the United States has a large number of powerful medium jet bombers and the bases from which to launch them and has the world's most powerful Navy, featuring airpower, and that the country was not dependent on a single type of machine.

Mr. Eisenhower termed it vital that the United States obtain what it believes it needs in the way of airpower, but that does not necessarily mean more planes than a potential enemy. As to quality, however, he declared, we must not be behind anyone.

Production of the intercontinental B-52 jet bomber has been stepped up twice in his Administration, the President continued. He said he did not know what action the Defense Department would recommend next in this field.

Testimony of Gen. LeMay. In his answers to questions at his press conference, which was postponed from Wednesday so the Chief Executive could attend the funeral of Senator Albert W. Barkley of Kentucky, the President tried to put in perspective testimony given by Gen. Curtis LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command, before the Senate subcommittee investigating the adequacy of American air power. The subcommittee is headed by Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri.

Gen. LeMay said last Monday that on the basis of present plans the Soviet long-range air force is likely to have more striking power than of the United States sometime between 1958 and 1960. He disclosed that of 78 B-52s produced, 31 had been rejected by the Air Force because of a "serious" defect, which is being corrected.

The bulk of SAC striking power is concentrated in 1500 B-47 jet bombers deployed in this country and throughout the world at American bases. The B-47s carry any bomb yet invented.

Urges Broader Vision. The President said the public should broaden its vision when viewing the relative position of American airpower. He said it was disappointing that the B-52s have been held up but that this was the usual experience with "hot" airplanes. He recalled that during the war he had to set up a plant in England to modify American planes and make them combat-ready.

There is still much testimony to be heard in the Senate inquiry, the President said. No one has yet talked about the United States Navy, he continued. He noted that the medium bomber has advantages over the long-range airplane.

The President said that by the time the Defense Department finishes testifying before the subcommittee the country will see that a great body of men has not been idle with respect to planning American air defenses.

Mr. Eisenhower stressed that this country should have the number of planes of each type that it requires, but that that does not necessarily mean it should try to surpass the Russians in every category. As an example, he said the United States has not tried to match the Soviets in the number of ground troops.

Twining Expected to Testify. A future witness before the subcommittee is expected to be Gen. Nathan F. Twining, who said two months ago the Russians "have overtaken us or can overtake us in all categories of warplanes except the medium jet bomber." Last Tuesday Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson conceded the Russians were building intercontinental planes capable of carrying hydrogen bombs "at a higher rate than we are."

PRESIDENT SAYS FOREIGN AID WILL GO ON WITHOUT RADICAL CHANGE

Congress Leaders Agree on Over-All Review to Seek Improvements for Program, He Reports.

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Eisenhower said today no radical changes were planned for the United States foreign aid program and that our efforts would continue on a bilateral or association basis.

The President told his news conference that in his recent meeting with congressional leaders all were agreed there should be long-term planning for the economic aid to other countries and that a commission be appointed to study the world situation for a report by Jan. 20—when the new Congress convenes.

Emphasizing that the program now before Congress represents minimum requirements, he said the new over-all review, on an annual basis, would seek to improve ways and means of meeting the new Communist offensive.

Various Plans Discussed.

There has been wide discussion of various plans for the foreign aid program to meet the Kremlin's switch to economic and political penetration into underdeveloped nations. At a recent meeting of editors in Washington, Mr. Eisenhower suggested, in his off-hand remarks, "A sort of rotating advisory body of citizens" to devote their brains in partnership with the government.

Chairman Walter F. George of Senate Foreign Affairs Committee has advocated the appointment of an "outside" commission to study the problem. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has hinted that NATO might be used for economic and political purposes and others have advocated that more United States economic aid be distributed through United Nations agencies.

Should an outside commission report by Jan. 20, its recommendations, under normal circumstances, would not go into effect before 1958 and 1959 because of budgetary and Congressional routine.

The President said the United Nations was theoretically the agency for distributing aid throughout the world and that a good case could be made for that theory. We had shown our adherence to that principle, he continued, but it is doubtful whether international politics can be kept out of such activities.

Under Constant Study.

Asked whether the present American program was a stop-gap until better means could be devised, he replied that the program is being constantly studied in five ways to improve it. He said a committee headed by Joseph M. Dodge, former Budget Director, was studying it.

We cannot walk off and abandon our friends, he said, are going ahead in the way of enlightened self-interest.

The President said the Western world was disappointed because the U.N. disarmament subcommittee, which has met in London for seven weeks, had found no greater readiness on the part of the Russians to accept our idea of arms inspection as a preliminary to arms reductions.

Until we know more than we do about what is going on behind the Iron Curtain, he said, there can be no disarmament.

Asked whether he had tried to persuade Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther to continue as NATO supreme commander, the President said that he could have ordered him to stay in what he regarded as one of the most important posts in the world.

He disclosed that he had previously persuaded Gen. Gruenther to remain in Europe. He said he considered him one of the ablest and finest men he had ever met, a man of honesty and great integrity. He observed, however, that Gruenther was a soldier and a little tired and weary and deserved a rest.

In the domestic field, most of the questions were political or about the President's health.

Question on Nixon.

Mr. Eisenhower seemed slightly annoyed when asked why the timing had been changed regarding the announcement of his support of the renomination of Vice President Nixon. He told the reporters that he didn't know what change the reporter was talking about.

He recalled that he had said he would be very happy to have Nixon as his running mate this year, but that he still does not know what the Republican convention will do when it meets in August.

Another reporter wanted to know whether his present schedule of activities was the kind he was talking about in his February speech when he told a TV audience that his activities would be reduced because of his heart attack on Sept. 24.

He replied that his doctors had told him he could continue his present schedule indefinitely. He noted that he had eliminated some of the formal official functions, except the meeting of visiting heads of state. He said he expects to resume some of these affairs if he continues in office another term.

Speaking more formally, he said that as head of the Government he could not delegate his constitutional duties. He said, however, that he might tell some of his aids "you take the action—I'll take the gaff."

On Primary Spending.

Asked to give his views on federal legislation covering primary campaign spending, the President appeared to favor a constitutional amendment on this point. Pending on this subject are bills introduced by Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem., Missouri) and Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. Hennings would have a federal law on the subject. Johnson would leave it mostly up to the states.

The President said that, as he read the Constitution, the determination of state voting laws is left to the states.

Saying that he was giving only his personal views without consulting with anybody, he added that he thought if we could have comparable laws in all the states properly enforced, it would be a good thing.

Everybody of goodwill, he said, wants to take any possibility of corruption, graft and everything else out of politics—it is not easy and he did not know whether a federal law is the applicable thing.

Tax Limit Amendment.

Mr. Eisenhower observed that he was not a constitutional lawyer when asked about a constitutional amendment proposed by Republican Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois to limit income taxes to no more than 25 per cent, with a provision that Congress by a three-fourth vote could boost them another 10 per cent.

Remarking that he was "booting from the hip" because he had not heard the proposal discussed for a year, he said that anything so rigid, in the case of an emergency, might lead to the accumulation of great profits and the piling up of the national debt.

He said that American common sense ought to find a proper limitation or rearrangement of taxes so as to leave the states and municipalities the responsibilities imposed on them by the Constitution.

Saying that he firmly believed in decentralization of government, he added that there should be a maximum of local government and that if the Federal Government scrapes off all the available tax money it could destroy the ability of the state and local governments to perform their functions.

Pleased by Poll.

Mr. Eisenhower was pleased, and spoke at length, when asked about his "landslide victory" in a poll of high school seniors and juniors.

He said that he would have been less than human if he had not got a lift out of the report when it was brought to him. Amid laughter, he said he liked youngsters and probably trusted them more than lots of people do. He said the thing that impressed him about the survey was that the youngsters were taking an interest in government and the people trying to run them. He said he wanted to thank everyone of them who things he is doing O.K.

Replying to questions, he said he had not heard the reports that pressure was being brought on former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York to run for the Senate or that Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. had been conferring with Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas on ways to get that state to vote for the President's re-election.

The President's complexion today reflected the sun tan he has been getting this week on the Burning Tree golf course. It was darker than the previous pink. His manner was relaxed and his voice resonant.

Other Topics Discussed.

The news conference also dealt with the other matters.

Farm—Mr. Eisenhower's attention was called to the provision in a new farm bill passed by the House yesterday for price supports of feed grains—a proposed to be a good thing.

HAMMARSKJOLD IN ROME, TRUCE HINGES ON RIVER

He Is Questioned on Report Lebanon Agreed to Conditional Cease-Fire.

ROME, May 4 (AP)—United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold flew into Rome today amid signs the "unconditional" Arab-Israeli cease-fire pledges he announced are binding only as long as Israel lets the Jordan river alone.

The U.N. official appeared in high spirits after almost a month of discussions with Arab and Israeli leaders.

Newspaper men immediately pressed him about a report from Beirut indicating Lebanon had agreed to a cease-fire only so long as Israel did not resume diversion of the Jordan river, a power-irrigation project dormant for two and one-half years. The Israelis have threatened to start it again. Previously Syria and Jordan also had made their cease-fire promises conditional on no Israeli tampering with the Jordan.

Full Text Planned.

A spokesman for Hammarskjold said the Secretary General will prepare a full text of all assurances he has received from the Arab states and Israel. The spokesman said Hammarskjold will spend the next two days editing a report containing the assurances.

"They will answer that question by themselves," he said. "We cannot say anything more now."

Commenting on Hammarskjold's report of the unconditional cease-fire made public at U.N. headquarters in New York yesterday, a Lebanese official in Beirut had said: "I assure you Lebanon made a reservation concerning the river Jordan project." Syria and Jordan presumably made the same reservation, since Syria had three nations in the negotiations.

Hammarskjold's report to the Security Council made no mention of the Jordan dispute.

It said negotiations with Israel, Syria, Jordan and Lebanon for "reciprocal assurances" unconditionally to observe a cease-fire, with a reservation as to self-defense, have in all cases been concluded with positive results.

He said that any Israeli attempts to resume the river project would be considered an act of aggression—giving them the right under the U.N. Charter to take self-defense measures.

Israel halted work on the project in 1953 at the request of the U.N. Security Council. An Israeli spokesman recently said his government feels free to resume the project any time since the work would be carried on inside Israeli territory. The Arabs have rejected a United States-sponsored plan for joint development of the river.

The dispute over the Jordan river tended to obscure the main achievement of Hammarskjold's 25 days of personal diplomacy in the Middle East, the unqualified cease-fire between Egypt and Israel. It was shooting between these two adversaries which resulted in the Security Council sending the

CHINESE LEADER IN U.S. INDICTED IN PASSPORT FRAUDS

NEW YORK, May 4.—Sing Kee, operator of the China Overseas Travel Service and winner of the Distinguished Service Cross in World War I, was indicted yesterday by a special federal grand jury investigating passport frauds.

Sing Kee was charged with conspiracy in cases involving five Chinese who fraudulently claimed United States citizenship to authorities in Hong Kong. The five were attempting to gain entrance to the United States by claiming to be children of American citizens here.

The accused man is the only Chinese member of local Draft Board I, which covers Chinatown and adjacent areas. Assistant United States Attorney Gerald L. Goff described him as "very definitely the key man in a large syndicate bringing into this country hundreds and maybe thousands of Chinese illegally during the last 20 years."

Paul W. Williams, United States attorney, said that Sing Kee conspired to bring Chinese passports here by getting false passports and documents as evidence of citizenship.

Secretary General out, from New York.

The Israelis and the Egyptians not only agreed to an unconditional cease-fire, they also agreed to practical measures designed to enforce a peace along the border of the Egyptian-held Gaza strip, scene of most Israeli-Egyptian shooting. These precautions include location of posts for U.N. truce observers along the Gaza frontier and mobile patrols of observers moving up and down that border.

He gave no comment on the British-supported idea for a U.N. military force to patrol the Gaza area between Israel and Egypt.

Border Crossing Charged.

In Jerusalem, meanwhile, Israel charged that Arab infiltrators crossed the Jordan border into Israel last night. An Israeli army spokesman said an Arab was killed in the ensuing clash with an Israeli patrol in the Mount Gilboa area, east of the central Jordan river valley.

The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar said today the Arab peoples welcome Hammarskjold's report of his mission's outcome with "genuine gratification." The paper said the Arabs feel that the "threat of war, though not entirely eliminated, has at last become remote."

Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief U.N. truce supervisor in Palestine, was to join Hammarskjold here. They are expected to go over the specific measures for keeping alive the cease-fire pledges Hammarskjold obtained from Israel and its Arab neighbors.

Hammarskjold came here from Cairo, where he held a final conference with Egyptian Premier Nasser. No details of the 90-minute conversation were disclosed.

Hammarskjold expects to arrive in New York on Sunday. His final report to the U.N. Security Council probably will be circulated to Council members next week.

House Passes Soil Bank Bill 314-78 and Sends It to Senate

Measure Without Eisenhower's Pre-Pay Plan Is Approved After Six Hours of Bitter Debate.

The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The House passed a new Democratic farm bill setting up again a $1,200,000,000 soil bank late yesterday but denied President Eisenhower the power he sought to make advance payments to farmers this election year.

Passage of the second big farm bill of this session came on a roll call, 314 to 78. It was sent to the Senate after six hours of bitter debate and Democratic cries that the soil bank pre-payment was aimed at buying farm votes in the Middle West.

(The Associated Press reported Missouri and Illinois Representatives voted as follows: Missouri: Democrats for—Bolling, Cannon, Carnahan, Christopher, Hull, Jones, Karsten, Moulder, Sullivan. Republicans against—Short. Republicans paired against—Curtis.

Illinois: Democrats for—Bowyer, Boyle, Dawson, Gordon, Gray, Kluczynski, Mack, Murray, O'Brien, O'Hara, Price, Yates. Republicans for—Allen, Arends, Chipfield, Church, McVey, Mason, Sheehan, Simpson, Springer, Velde, Vursell.)

Strait Party Vote.

The amendment to pay farmers up to $500,000,000 on soil bank contracts for next year was defeated on a straight party line vote, 181 to 157. Only one Republican voted against the proposal.

As adopted, the bill represented a compromise by both sides. Republican leaders accepted a revised provision that would increase and make mandatory price support on small grain that the Administration had opposed. Democrats accepted an amendment to assure that the Administration can carry out its recently announced plan to give price support to corn farmers in the Midwest who disregard acreage controls.

The Democrats rammed through by a four-vote margin an amendment adding grazing land to the soil bank, a move the Administration protested could cut beef cattle numbers and increase the price of meat to consumers. A roll-call of 199 to 195 sustained an earlier standing vote of 103 to 66.

Republicans succeeded in turning aside a Democratic amendment to increase the price support on cotton by about $3.75 for a 500-pound bale. The roll-call was 208 to 186 after two earlier tallies had approved the price subsidy increase.

Fight Not Over.

Despite the House action, the fight over farm legislation appeared far from over. The Senate Agriculture Committee was expected to report its own bill rather than accept the House measure.

Congressional leaders said they hoped the Senate committee would act quickly, but acknowledge the prospects of another time-consuming Senate floor fight and another conference committee to reconcile

ARMS TALKS END IN FAILURE, SAY WESTERN POWERS

But Allies Believe Agreement With Russia on Disarmament Is Still Possible.

LONDON, May 4 (AP)—Western powers tonight announced failure of the latest East-West disarmament negotiations, but said they believed an agreement with Soviet Russia was still possible.

The five-nation United Nations Disarmament subcommittee, made up of representatives of the United States, Soviet Russia, Britain, France and Canada, ended in a deadlock the sessions which opened here March 19.

The Western delegations issued a declaration reaffirming their "determination to seek agreement on a developing program of disarmament in accordance with their mandate from the United Nations." They said the purpose was to promote peace, security and prosperity.

The final meeting was held this afternoon.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko headed the Soviet delegation in the seven weeks of talk in London.

The Westerners said a disarmament program "should begin without delay and should include measures under effective international control to end the present competition in armed forces and armaments of all kinds."

PRESIDENT MAY ATTEND SOUTH AMERICAN CEREMONY

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower is considering visiting Panama City June 25-26 to attend ceremonies marking the 130th anniversary of the liberation of several South American countries.

The White House said yesterday Mr. Eisenhower had been invited to the ceremonies by President Ricardo M. Arias Espinosa of Panama.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower "thinks it is an excellent idea" and "he would like to go." Hagerty added that the President was studying his schedule to see whether it would be possible.

REHIRING RETIRED TEACHERS OK'D BY COMMITTEE OF SCHOOL BOARD

They Would Be Hired as Substitutes to Meet Shortage With 60-Day-a-Year Limit on Their Service.

A bill to permit re-employment of retired St. Louis teachers as substitute instructors was approved yesterday by the Board of Education's legislative committee for submission to the full board.

If it is approved by the board, the bill will be introduced in the Missouri Legislature next year, Edward C. Connelly, chairman of the legislative committee, said.

The measure would allow retired teachers to be used as substitutes for a maximum of 60 days a year, to help meet the teacher shortage. Present statutes do not permit the rehiring of retired teachers.

The legislative committee also asked board attorneys to take steps toward the preparation of a bill to reinstate state financial support for the program of teaching children who are confined to their homes because of illness.

Dropped From Bill

Superintendent of Instruction Philip J. Hickey said that because of some misunderstanding, this state aid category was eliminated from a school bill passed by the Legislature at its last general session.

All school districts in the state were affected, he said, and most of them abandoned "home-bound" teaching. St. Louis, Hickey said, the program has been continued, but on a "not completely satisfactory" basis.

He explained that previously, teachers visited children at home during school hours, but that since the loss of state aid, the teachers have made their visits after school. The board, he said, could not afford extra teachers for this special work.

$16,000 a Year Loss

Other officials said the loss in state aid amounted to about $16,000 a year. The state paid the difference between the cost of teaching a child in school and the cost of teaching him at home, they said.

The committee agreed to study possible legislation to curb vandalism, after Hickey said he thought parents should be made financially liable for damage done by their children. Board attorneys said they felt such a law would have little practical effect in reducing vandalism.

The superintendent told the committee that one reason why vandalism has increased in recent years is that there is more valuable audio-visual equipment in the schools, such as radios and television sets.

LONDE, GIARDANO PICKED UP BY HOODLUM SQUAD

Isadore Londé, gangster and former convict, and Anthony Giardano, gangster official of the Anthony Novelty Co., were questioned last night about the $12,000 robbery last April 6 of Raymond C. George, financial secretary of the United Automobile Workers Union, Local 25.

Londé, who said he has neither home nor job, was arrested by two members of the police hoodlum squad as he was driving his 1956 Oldsmobile at Delmar and Goodfellow boulevards. Giardano was a passenger. Londé had $800 in his possession and Giardano, $1100.

The two gangsters also were being questioned regarding possible violations of Missouri's anti-trust law growing out of the business methods of the Anthony Novelty Co. It has been reported the company is attempting to establish a monopoly in the furnishing of coin-operated machines to retail establishments in this area.

3 TEACHERS SHOT, ONE FATALLY, BY HIGH SCHOOL BOY

Maryland Pupil Points Rifle in Classroom Door, and Fires—All Victims Are Men.

SEAT PLEASANT, Md., May 4 (AP)—A 15-year-old pupil went berserk with a rifle at Maryland Park Junior High School today, shooting to death one teacher and wounding two others.

The school was thrown into an uproar. It was closed immediately for the day, and instructors began helping hysterical, crying boys and girls into buses.

Frazier Cameron, 32 years old, was wounded fatally. Francis Daniel Wagner, 25, the athletic coach at the school, was shot in the chest. The third victim, Robert Hicks, 31, was shot in the hand.

Police are questioning Billy Ray Prevatt, 15, of Seat Pleasant, a member of the 8-B class, who transferred to the school on the outskirts of Washington last March from the Hugh Morison School in Raleigh, N.C.

One student, 13-year-old Robert Haywood, gave this version of the shooting: "I saw this boy walking down a third-floor hall carrying a bolt action .22 rifle."

Mr. Cameron was in his class teaching. The boy pointed the gun into the open doorway and fired, hitting Mr. Cameron.

"Then he ran down the steps to the principal's office on the first floor. He was going through the office door when Mr. Wagner walked into the hall. He was shot in the stomach, I think."

"About that time Mr. Hicks ran up and jumped on the boy, who fired again and shot him in the hand."

ARMORY GROUP'S ASSETS WILL BE GIVEN TO CITY

Assets of the St. Louis Light Artillery Armory Association will be turned over to the City of St. Louis and will be used for support of local National Guard units, under a decision handed down yesterday by Circuit Judge John K. Regan.

The association, which owns the Battery A Armory at 1221 South Grand boulevard, has assets valued at $167,446, including $22,000 in cash and $84,800 in Government bonds. It was formed in 1897 by St. Louis business men to perpetuate the first military organization formed west of the Mississippi river, a volunteer company of infantry raised in 1808.

The organization brought suit against the city to clarify its right to liquidate and to gain protection against any claims that might result from transfer of the assets. All the subscribers who bought shares of stock to finance erection of the armory have been repaid the original cost of their holdings except 39 shareholders who have not been found. A fund of $9967 is to be set aside for 10 years to cover these claims.

DANIEL CITES DISADVANTAGES OF SEPARATE CITY, COUNTY

Municipalities and unincorporated areas in the county and the city of St. Louis are not receiving organized and efficient distribution of public services because of administrative complexity and duplicity, H. Jackson Daniel, co-chairman of the Citizens' Committee for City-County Co-ordination, said yesterday.

Addressing the Downtown Kiwanis Club at Hotel De Soto, Daniel said residents of the city and county have certain problems in common, including police and fire protection and protection from disease. "It is the job of the government to provide these services at low cost and with efficiency," Daniel said.

Pointing out that no plan exists for a so-called merger of city and county, Daniel said the Missouri Constitution provides four methods by which public services could be improved: The city could be re-incorporated into the county; the city could annex adjacent unincorporated areas of the county; both governments could be united under the city government; and establishment of a metropolitan district or districts for the functional administration of common services.

POLICE BREAKUP ABORTION MILL IN WEBSTER GROVES

Patients Blindfolded to Protect Operators and Location—Two Women Arrested.

Break-up of an abortion mill that has been operating since February in a Webster Groves residential area was announced by St. Louis county authorities last night with the arrest of two women.

An average of 10 to 12 young women were taken weekly to a three-bedroom home at 415 Tuxedo avenue for illegal operations costing $125 each, authorities said. Extensive efforts were made to keep the young women from seeing who performed the operations or learning the location of the house.

The two women arrested said they were Mrs. Julia Rackey, 54-year-old widow living at 7932 Captain Conn drive, Affton, and Mrs. Fraulin Scown, 40, a divorcee, 404 East Big Bend boulevard, Webster Groves. Each is named in two warrants charging her with performing abortions.

Neighbors became suspicious from the time the home on Tuxedo was rented in early February. Their curiosity was aroused when the chief articles of furniture appeared to be four double beds and a single bed. A woman neighbor who dropped by to pay a friendly visit had the door slammed in her face.

When persons living nearby observed the arrival and departure of Cadillacs late at night and early in the morning. These activities were reported to Webster Groves police. A surveillance of the house was begun, with Police Lt. Emmett R. Potthoff in charge.

Potthoff, who lives only two blocks away, said that on several evenings a week, he would see a Cadillac arrive, with Mrs. Scown driving. As many as four young women would be passengers. The automobile would be driven into a basement garage and the garage door quickly shut.

Early the following morning, Potthoff and other officers would observe the young women being taken away.

In March, Potthoff went to the home in uniform, planning to question the occupants, but was unable to get anyone to open the door. He believes his small army of officers had been active for about two weeks.

Through persistent efforts, in which Assistant Prosecuting Attorneys David C. Godfrey and John L. Hayward participated, authorities learned the pickup points for the young women were at Chippewa street and Hampton avenue and at the Wabash Railroad station on Delmar boulevard.

After the operations, the women were taken to the Maplewood "loop" at Manchester and Yale avenues, where they were let out of the Cadillac.

As Mrs. Scown approached Webster Groves after making pickups at appointed times, she would give her passengers sunglasses with paper-pasted lenses, authorities said.

In the house, blindfolds were placed on the young women during all procedures of the abortion, but one girl slipped her blindfold long enough to identify Mrs. Rackey, the prosecuting attorney's office said.

Operations were performed in the kitchen in the early morning after the young women spent the night in bedrooms set up like hospital rooms, authorities were told. In a search of the Tuxedo house, no sterilizer or other sanitary equipment was found. In Mrs. Rackey's home, county police discovered medical books and forceps.

Mrs. Scown and Mrs. Rackey refused to make a statement for authorities. They were released on bonds totaling $20,000 for each. Mrs. Rackey is a sister of Mrs. Mary Vugrich, midwife who was fined $1000 on an abortion charge last Jan. 20.

3.2 BEER LICENSE REVOKED BECAUSE OF SALE TO MINOR

Floyd Barnes, operator of a tavern at U. S. Highway 67 and New Jamestown road, St. Louis County, was fined $50 and his 3.2 beer license was permanently revoked today by Magistrate Raymond I. Harris at Clayton.

The tavern operator pleaded guilty to a charge of sale of non-intoxicating liquor to a minor. It was the first case involving sale to a minor to be heard by Magistrate Harris since he warned tavern operators recently that sales to minor would mean permanent revocation of their licenses if they were convicted.

Barnes was arrested April 26 and charged with selling beer to three youths, 17 to 20 years old.

Oliver Littleton, bartender at a tavern at 10004 Grovers road, Affton, was fined $200 today by Magistrate Harris after he pleaded guilty of possession of liquor without a license. He was arrested last Monday by county police who reported they found four partly filled whisky bottles in the tavern, which has a license to sell 3.2 beer.

COUNTY MAN FINED $100 ON DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGE

Willard Buchanan, an assembler, yesterday was fined $100 and costs by Police Judge Morris Rosenthal, who found Buchanan guilty of driving when intoxicated.

Police testified the defendant, who lives at 1121 St. Cyr road, St. Louis County, was intoxicated when arrested last Jan. 23 following a collision at Glasgow and Natural Bridge avenues.

Dr. Edward U. Condon Named To Faculty of Washington U.

Scientist to Head Physics Department — Controversy Over Security.

Dr. Edward U. Condon, one of the world's leading scientists, has been appointed physics professor and department chairman at Washington University, Chancellor Ethan A. H. Shepley announced yesterday.

Dr. Condon will assume his duties here in the fall, succeeding George E. Pake, who has accepted a Stanford University physics professorship.

Credited by fellow scientists with shortening development of the hydrogen bomb by one year, Dr. Condon has been the subject of charges and countercharges since 1948. Then chief of the National Bureau of Standards, he was assailed by a House Un-American Activities Committee group as "one of the weakest links in our atomic security."

In the course of his career, Dr. Condon has been given security clearance by the Defense Department, Commerce Department and Atomic Energy Commission. His work here requires no clearance, the university said.

His most recent clearance came in July 1954 after more than a year's investigation by the Eastern Regional Security Board. He was then research and development director for the Corning (N.Y.) Glass Works, and his clearance was sought to permit him to work on Navy Department contracts.

Announcement of his clearance was not made until the following Oct. 19. One day later it was suspended amid charges that Navy Secretary Charles Thomas and Vice President Nixon had exerted "political interference" against him. Dr. Condon has been critical of methods of the loyalty inquiry. Nixon was a member of the House group that termed Condon a weak link in security.

Charges against Dr. Condon were based largely on his associations, which included acquaintance of Communists, it was alleged. Not given a chance to appear before the committee until 1951, Dr. Condon hotly denied the charges.

Schwimmer gave benefits to Connelly and Caudle in an attempt to influence their decisions as Government officials in connection with the Irving Sachs income tax case. Sachs, head of Shu-Stiles Inc., a shoe brokerage firm, was fined $10,000 but did not go to prison.

Young Motorist's Excuse, ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Stopped for making an illegal turn, an 18-year-old driver told police he had been reared in an isolated area and had never learned to read.

While we have had general agreement from County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews and Mayor Raymond F. Tucker on financing our portion of the study, it will be necessary to introduce appropriation bills in the County Council and city Board of Aldermen," Crowe said.

The Citizens Metropolitan Transit Committee will make immediate requests of St. Louis and St. Louis county for appropriations of $140,000 each to finance its study of transit problems in the metropolitan area, James E. Crowe, chairman, announced today.

Crowe made the announcement after the Missouri State Highway Commission agreed yesterday to finance an origin and destination study in this area at a cost of $255,000. This would leave the remainder of the cost of the citizens' overall study at $280,000, to be met in equal shares by the city and county.

The highway commission had been asked by the citizens' group to assume the cost of the study in an effort to reduce the burden of the citizens' survey on the city and county treasuries. The highway commission will use state and federal funds for this purpose.

Originally the citizens' committee had asked for an origin-destination survey that would involve interviews with 17,500 householders in the metropolitan area to determine their use of transportation facilities. An agreement had been obtained with Wilbur Smith & Associates of New Haven, Conn., to make the survey for $205,000.

However, the highway commission desired further information and agreed to pay $255,000 for the survey. Crowe said he believed this would expand the number of interviews to 21,000 homes and would permit a printed report desired by the commission.

Mrs. Jerome J. Spector, secretary of the citizens' committee, said the over-all survey would be in charge of the W. C. Gilman Co., and would include land use and population density studies, a review of the adequacy and efficiency of existing transit facilities, and the feasibility of some form of rapid-transit system.

Dr. Edward U. Condon, one of the world's leading scientists, has been appointed physics professor and department chairman at Washington University, Chancellor Ethan A. H. Shepley announced yesterday.

Dr. Condon will assume his duties here in the fall, succeeding George E. Pake, who has accepted a Stanford University physics professorship.

Credited by fellow scientists with shortening development of the hydrogen bomb by one year, Dr. Condon has been the subject of charges and countercharges since 1948. Then chief of the National Bureau of Standards, he was assailed by a House Un-American Activities Committee group as "one of the weakest links in our atomic security."

In the course of his career, Dr. Condon has been given security clearance by the Defense Department, Commerce Department and Atomic Energy Commission. His work here requires no clearance, the university said.

His most recent clearance came in July 1954 after more than a year's investigation by the Eastern Regional Security Board. He was then research and development director for the Corning (N.Y.) Glass Works, and his clearance was sought to permit him to work on Navy Department contracts.

Announcement of his clearance was not made until the following Oct. 19. One day later it was suspended amid charges that Navy Secretary Charles Thomas and Vice President Nixon had exerted "political interference" against him. Dr. Condon has been critical of methods of the loyalty inquiry. Nixon was a member of the House group that termed Condon a weak link in security.

Charges against Dr. Condon were based largely on his associations, which included acquaintance of Communists, it was alleged. Not given a chance to appear before the committee until 1951, Dr. Condon hotly denied the charges.

TRANSIT GROUP TO SEEK FUNDS NOW FOR STUDY

Committee Will Ask City and County for $140,000 Each to Finance Survey.

The Citizens Metropolitan Transit Committee will make immediate requests of St. Louis and St. Louis county for appropriations of $140,000 each to finance its study of transit problems in the metropolitan area, James E. Crowe, chairman, announced today.

Crowe made the announcement after the Missouri State Highway Commission agreed yesterday to finance an origin and destination study in this area at a cost of $255,000. This would leave the remainder of the cost of the citizens' overall study at $280,000, to be met in equal shares by the city and county.

The highway commission had been asked by the citizens' group to assume the cost of the study in an effort to reduce the burden of the citizens' survey on the city and county treasuries. The highway commission will use state and federal funds for this purpose.

Originally the citizens' committee had asked for an origin-destination survey that would involve interviews with 17,500 householders in the metropolitan area to determine their use of transportation facilities. An agreement had been obtained with Wilbur Smith & Associates of New Haven, Conn., to make the survey for $205,000.

However, the highway commission desired further information and agreed to pay $255,000 for the survey. Crowe said he believed this would expand the number of interviews to 21,000 homes and would permit a printed report desired by the commission.

Mrs. Jerome J. Spector, secretary of the citizens' committee, said the over-all survey would be in charge of the W. C. Gilman Co., and would include land use and population density studies, a review of the adequacy and efficiency of existing transit facilities, and the feasibility of some form of rapid-transit system.

While we have had general agreement from County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews and Mayor Raymond F. Tucker on financing our portion of the study, it will be necessary to introduce appropriation bills in the County Council and city Board of Aldermen," Crowe said.

EISENHOWER SAYS

Maxwell Rabb and Charles F. Willis Jr. Willis, former White House aide, has left Washington and is employed by the W. R. Grace Co. in New York. Rabb is President Eisenhower's assistant in charge of minority problems. Hagerty said he had not called the "CAB" for Chotiner and that Willis did not recall doing so but may have.

Meanwhile, Senator John L. McClellan (Dem., Arkansas), is preparing a letter to Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. asking for a copy of a purported memorandum sent to Department of Justice attorneys advising them to exercise "caution" if they had any dealings with Chotiner. McClellan, chairman of the subcommittee, said he had not seen the purported memorandum but that the committee had information from reliable sources that such a document was circulated.

Denies Using Nixon Name.
Chotiner, a Los Angeles attorney who has been prominent in West Coast politics for years, denied unequivocally that he had used the Nixon name or any other "influence" in his work for clients in trouble with the government, or that he had used Nixon's office as a "base of operations" in his contacts with any government agencies.

The question of the purported Justice Department memorandum came up when McClellan asked Chotiner if he had ever heard of it.

Chotiner said he had not.

Hearing Recused.
Later McClellan said, "We do have reason to believe that there was such a memorandum. I haven't seen it but I have information to that effect which I believe is reliable. It (the memo) came from the Attorney General's office, either from him (Brownell) or his deputy (William P. Rogers). We will ask for a copy."

After yesterday's hearing, the committee recessed to an indefinite date.

In his comment on the Chotiner visits to the White House, Hagerty said the lawyer saw Willis late in 1954 to inquire about a possible White House stand on a case involving North American Airlines, then pending before the Civil Aeronautics Board.

He said it was "quite probable" that Willis telephoned the CAB to inquire on the possible date for an opinion in the airline case. He added that the opinion came down last July and that it was unfavorable to the company.

Hagerty said Chotiner also had discussed with Rabb a project under which the California Central Airlines sought to extend its operation into Mexico. Hagerty added that though Rabb saw Chotiner he made no telephone calls for him and that eventually the CAB turned down the airline petition.

Nothing 'Improper.'
Asserting there was nothing "improper" about these visits, Hagerty added that Chotiner had not been in the White House for any reasons more than three or four times since Mr. Eisenhower took office.

The 46-year-old Californian emphasized several times in his testimony that he had never used Nixon's name in his business, never discussed his clients with Nixon and added:

"At no time did I try to use influence at the Justice Department or any other department in representing my clients."

Among other things, Chotiner testified he has had "no connection" with Nixon's office since 1952, but that he has been there and has seen Nixon, as recently as April 19. His earnings, he said, have successively declined each year of the Eisenhower Administration.

Highlights of yesterday's testimony.

Chotiner said that in 1954 he used Vice President Nixon's office in the Senate office building for political purposes in arranging a speaking tour but that whenever he had to make a business call he went to a pay telephone down the hall from the vice presidential suite.

William A. (Abie) Parzow, convicted in Miami Beach of attempting to bribe a juror, referred clients to Chotiner. These were identified as Marco Reginaldi, described by committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy as the "top" hoodlum of the New Jersey-Pennsylvania area, who has been convicted of offenses, including white slavery and larceny; Herman P. Kravitz of Atlantic City, a garment manufacturer who was convicted of theft of Government property, and Joseph (Joey) Abrams, who has been barred from getting Government contracts and is a target of the current investigation as one of the leaders of an alleged ring which obtained Government uniform business by bribing Government procurement officials and employees.

Chotiner declined to discuss in detail his dealings with Parzow, asserting there was a lawyer-client relationship involved which prohibited disclosure unless he had a "waiver" from Parzow permitting him to do so.

Conflict in Testimony.
Chotiner gave testimony, however, in direct contradiction of what he developed. Parzow had told the committee in executive session last Saturday. The lawyer said he had conferred with Parzow four or five times. Parzow had testified he had seen Chotiner only once and that was in a passing encounter on the street where they barely spoke.

serted that if he were not guilty of the charge he would say so instead of making "frivolous" use of the Fifth Amendment.

Canceled checks were introduced in evidence to indicate that Herman Kravitz had given Parzow about $72,000 between May 1953 and September 1954. Kennedy said it was the purpose of the committee to determine whether these payments represented a fund used for bribes. But Parzow remained adamant.

Identifies One Check.
He identified one check for $10,000 but asserted it came to him when he was trying to do a favor for a "friend" in discounting some notes at an Atlantic City bank. He declined, however, to supply any of the details of this transaction.

Testimony disclosed that Parzow referred Herman Kravitz and his father, Samuel Kravitz, owners of an Atlantic City garment firm, to Chotiner in May, 1953.

An accountant for Kravitz had testified previously he understood the Atlantic City garment maker hired the California lawyer in the belief that he could swing political influence in Washington.

Chotiner testified he wasn't altogether clear why Kravitz had hired him, since he already had several other lawyers, but that "in all candor I gained the impression" that he was recommended by Parzow.

The Kravitzes, according to Chotiner's testimony, paid him a $5000 "retainer" that month and that part of this was used by Chotiner for a trip east for conferences with his new clients. Later he was paid an additional $1000.

At the time, Kravitz was in trouble on charges that he had embezzled $13,500 worth of furs provided by the Government for use in making cold weather military clothing. Kravitz was convicted and fined $5000 on the charge in 1954.

Chotiner said his services for Abrams involved an income tax investigation. The Government was carrying out against Abrams and another situation in which Abrams was pressing a claim against the Government for $30,000 he said were due him on contracts.

Dismissing the investigation generally, McClellan said: "We've run into a group that has been defrauding the Government on quite a large scale for a long time and I am hopeful we can expose it and break it."

related things as the jail and the workhouse, hospitals and parks.

St. Louis is the only city in the state with two prosecuting officials and the charter requires the city to have four different offices for collecting taxes, he said.

"There is no successful business operating today under the same rules it had in 1914," he declared.

Red, white and blue sample ballots are being mailed to every registered voter in the city by the Citizens Committee. The Mayor explained. He urged the television audience to keep the ballots, using them as a guide at the polls.

Citizens' Slate.
Candidates supported by the citizens group are: C. B. Broussard, Negro, principal of Dumas elementary school; Frederick E. Busse, attorney; John F. X. Callahan, attorney and office manager; Major B. Einstein, banker; David M. Grant, Negro, attorney; Dr. Ralph A. Kinsella, physician; Mel H. Krah, sales engineer and former alderman; John J. Nally, union leader; Henry B. Pfleger, attorney; Mrs. Conrad Sommer, former president of the St. Louis League of Women Voters; George L. Stemmler, former city counselor; William A. Webb, labor leader, and Frank L. G. Weiss, hardware store owner.

The television time for Mayor Tucker's address was paid for by the Citizens Committee. Mrs. Edward M. Harrington, Board of Education member, and Mrs. Frankie M. Freeman, Negro attorney, co-chairmen of the Citizens Committee women's division, announced today they had recruited 700 women who have agreed to make 30 or more telephone calls apiece next Monday reminding voters to go to the polls Tuesday and urging them to vote for the committee slate.

About 23,000 telephone calls will thus be made, the co-chairmen said. In addition, the women volunteers agreed to write a total of 5000 letters to friends, urging votes for committee candidates.

Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell announced yesterday that uniformed policemen will get polling place duty for the first time at the Tuesday election.

In recent years policemen have been assigned full-time duty at voting places only for primary and general elections. This year the Election Board asked for this full-time protection also for the freeholder election.

Officers on such duty have time off only for meals and for voting. The 10 women will be detached from the juvenile division to provide relief for these purposes.

It will be a long day for all. The officers must make roll at 5:15 a.m., be at the polls by 6, remain until the ballots are counted after 7 p.m., and then escort the box to the Board of Election Commissioners—without overtime pay.

Further Backing.
The executive board of the St. Louis Small Business Council endorsed the Citizens Committee slate yesterday as "the only effective way of insuring only citizens that they will get the best possible charter written in the interest of all St. Louisans."

"We would have liked to endorse some of the other outstanding candidates, but in view of their large number we feel that in so doing we would only split our vote and cause the defeat of this independent, representative team," the statement said.

Lee J. Haines, council president, told the board that "a clear-cut challenge has been given St. Louis by politicians of both parties who seem to have joined forces with each other and other pressure groups in an unceasing effort to control the freeholder election."

Another endorsement for the Citizens' Committee slate of freeholder candidates came last night from the St. Louis Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers, which has about 300 members in the city.

The St. Louis League of Women Voters announced it is distributing more than 18,000 get-out-the-vote "flyers" at a large number of industrial firms and other business establishments.

The league has endorsed no slate of candidates, so the mimeographed circulars merely appeal to voters to "take the thought and time to look over all the candidates and be sure you are choosing wisely."

The Twenty-fifth Ward Regular Democratic Organization has gone on record in support of the Citizens Committee slate, it was announced yesterday. The action was on recommendation of Alderman William K. Gardner, of the Twenty-fifth, Mrs. Alice Rosenthal, ward committee woman, and John M. Bowlin, a precinct captain and a freeholder candidate. He was not endorsed by the Citizens Committee.

NATO MINISTERS
PLANNING GROUP

may be only temporary. He said it could turn again to violence and blackmail should the West lower its guard.

Session Is Secret.
NATO spokesman Geoffrey Parsons told a news conference the ministers agreed to keep everything said in the morning session "top secret," but conference sources leaked enough information to let reporters know what was going on.

Parsons said eight ministers spoke this morning, each giving his interpretation of Soviet policy in the last six months. He termed the discussion "the best the council had yet because it was their interpretation of a changed situation."

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd spoke first for 30 minutes. He said there was no doubt of a new development inside the Soviet Union, but the question was what course it would take. He said there appeared to be forces at work there which want more freedom. The question now, he said, was whether collective leadership could contain these forces.

He said the recent Bulgarian-Khrushchev visit to Britain did three things:

1. Gave the first personal contact with the new Kremlin leaders, who appeared to be relaxed and self-assured. He said they indicated that Russia wants a relaxation of tension in order to go ahead with economic plans.

2. Permitted a free exchange of views.

3. Gave the impression there was as yet little common ground between East and West.

Parsons said there was general agreement among the ministers on the British interpretation of the Russian leaders' visit.

In pre-council talks, Britain, the United States and West Germany agreed with a French plan to discuss disarmament and German reunification with Russia simultaneously, with final disarmament waiting on German reunification.

Pineau and Premier Mollet will take this problem up directly with Soviet officials when the French leaders visit Moscow May 14.

Pineau published a short statement today "clarifying" France's plans to link the disarmament and German problems.

In the first stage, the statement said, there would be real reductions of arms and men along with the establishment of control organizations.

At the same time the nations would study and "resolve" the international issues such as German unity and European security.

Then the Second Stage.
"The solution of these problems would lead automatically to the second stage which would consist of massive reductions in all spheres," it said.

The agreement would set out how troop levels could be determined.

Thus, it said, disarmament and unification would cease to be prior conditions for each other and "would permit reconciliation of viewpoints which have been divergent since they were expressed at the last Geneva conference."

appropriation bill yesterday, the House Appropriations Committee acknowledged that unless the United States stepped up aircraft production and expanded the size of its air force, the Russians would probably equal this country in offensive striking power "within a very few years."

The committee noted defense officials had advocated the maintenance of a sufficient air force equipped with the best aircraft to act as a deterrent to any possible aggression, rather than an air force numerically superior to that of the Russians.

U.S. AGENCY OUT OF FUNDS TO HELP SMALL BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)

Small Business Administrator Wendell Barnes reported today his agency is "completely out of funds" for loans to small business and is running out of money for disaster loans.

Barnes said in a television interview that last fall's floods in the Northeast and the winter rains on the Pacific coast had depleted his agency's revolving fund.

A $20,000,000 supplemental appropriation, wrapped up in a money bill covering various agencies, is tied up in Congress on issues not related to the Small Business Administration. Barnes said he was confident Congress would act soon.

TAVERN OWNER LEAVING AUTO ROBBED OF $1402

Forced to Drive to O'Fallon Park Where Money in Sack Was Stolen.

Clovis McCracken, a tavern owner, was robbed of $1402 today by an armed man who forced him to drive from East Grand avenue and Broadway to O'Fallon Park, McCracken reported to police.

McCracken had left his home at 1112 O'bear avenue a short time before the holdup and was carrying the money in a paper sack in his coat pocket. As he alighted from his parked automobile near the tavern, which is at 4562 North Broadway, the robber approached and pointed a revolver at him.

The robber, a Negro, ordered McCracken to get back into his automobile, McCracken related. At the robber's direction he drove east to Bulwer avenue, north to Adelaide avenue, west to Broadway, and then to the park.

About 100 feet inside the park, McCracken said, the robber removed the sack of money from his pocket. McCracken was warned to "watch the road, don't look at me," by the hold-up man.

McCracken was then pushed out of his machine and the robber drove away. McCracken walked to a business establishment in the 5900 block of North Broadway and called police, he related.

The automobile was found a short time later near the O'Fallon Park boathouse. Police said they believed the robber had made his escape in another machine which had been parked near the boathouse before the robbery.

Two confectioneries were robbed within an hour last night by men who ordered ice cream before pointing revolvers at their victims and announcing holdups, police reported.

Helmuth Meier reported he was robbed of $27 in his establishment at 4535 South Grand boulevard by two men, one of whom pointed a pistol at Meier and demanded money. After taking the money from a register, one of the men pulled the receiver of a public telephone from the wall. Both jumped into an automobile and drove off.

Salvatore Romano was robbed of $50 in his confectionery at 2909 Michigan avenue by three men who used the same routine as in the first holdup. Police said the ages and general descriptions of the holdup men in both robberies were the same.

MUSICIAN IS SENTENCED TO 4 YEARS ON DRUG CHARGE

Alonzo H. Martin, a musician of the 2300 block of Scott avenue, was sentenced to four years in prison by United States District Judge Roy W. Harper when he pleaded guilty of possessing and selling marijuana.

Narcotics agents testified they bought 110 grains of marijuana from Martin in March, making the last purchase March 28, the day on which the agents and city police raided his home and found 117 marijuana cigarettes. Martin is a Negro.

NIXON HONORS TEN HEROES OF SCHOOL PATROL

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Vice President Nixon thanked the nation's school safety patrols yesterday for sparing parents like himself a "lot of worry and potential grief."

Nixon presented gold medals to 10 youngsters who risked their lives to save others from possible death by automobile or train. He also handed out lifesaver certificates to five teenagers. The ceremony in the Senate Office building started off the twentieth school safety patrol assembly.

The 650,000 boys and girls who direct school children across streets throughout the country allow "parents of America to feel a little safer in their hearts," Nixon said.

First to receive a medal was

Richard Davis, 11 years old, of Kokomo, Ind., whose arms were broken when he pushed several children from the path of a speeding car. Gary Land, another Kokomo 11-year-old, was rewarded for getting other youngsters out of the way and aiding young Davis.

Additional medals were presented: Jack Fury, 10, Ecorse, Mich.; Marshall Moser Jr., 11, Harper Woods, Mich.; William Roun, 13, Millville, N.J.; Stanley S. Stasiowski, 14, Coventry, R.I.; Vincent Squegula, 13, Pelham, N.Y.; Martha Ruth Tapley, 12, and George Reddick Jr., 12, Atlanta, and Dennis Duman, 15, Johnstown, Pa.

STEVENSON SAYS NIXON SLANDERS HIS OPPONENTS

Asserts in California That Vice President Has 'Poisoned' Four Campaigns.

LOS ANGELES, May 4 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, campaigning in Richard Nixon's own backyard, today called the Vice President a slanderer and said "he has poisoned four successive election campaigns."

The contender for the Democratic presidential nomination told a press conference: "That distasteful technique has worked three times. It did not work in 1954 and it will not work in 1956."

Stevenson declined comment on the appearance before a Senate committee of Murray Chotiner, Nixon's 1952 campaign manager who was an attorney for garment makers involved in various Army uniform deals.

Then, he made his statement on Nixon, prefacing it with the comment "I do not feel Mr. Nixon enjoys the admiration and confidence of the country as he enjoys the admiration and confidence of the President."

In the statement, which he read aloud, Stevenson said in part: "Mr. Nixon . . . slanders and impugns the motives, even the loyalty, of those who oppose him and his party . . ."

The most recent illustration of his irresponsibility came just recently when he seriously aggravated the school desegregation problem by claiming the Supreme Court decision as a Republican triumph—which was a grievous affront not only to the nation and to the Supreme Court, but to another Californian for whom I share your very great respect—Chief Justice Earl Warren."

Nixon's home town is nearby Whittier.

Stevenson said that the four Nixon campaigns to which he referred were his congressional race in 1948, the Senate race in 1950, the 1952 presidential campaign and the 1954 congressional race. The Democrats carried Congress in 1954.

Regarding the farm soil bank program, Stevenson said he hoped it will work "much as I dislike the theory of scarcity—paying people not to produce."

He said the soil bank was proposed twice by Democrats last year and rejected by the Administration as impractical and too expensive.

"Now within less than a year," said Stevenson, "the Administration has made it the keystone of its approach to the farm program."

DEMOCRATS PICK STEVENSON IN CONGRESS POLL

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Congressional Quarterly News Features, a private news agency, said yesterday a poll it took of Democratic members of Congress showed Adlai Stevenson was a heavy favorite for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Congressional Quarterly said in a copyrighted story that it conducted the poll by mail among the 280 Democratic members and received 101 replies.

It gave these results: Stevenson, 63; Senator Stuart Symington, Missouri, 15; Senator Lyndon Johnson, Texas, 7; Senator Estes Kefauver, Tennessee, 7; Gov. Frank Lausche, Ohio, 5; and Gov. Averell Harriman, New York, 4.

"Stevenson, Symington and Johnson all showed strength in the South," Congressional Quarterly said. "Stevenson receiving 23 votes out of 45 cast, Symington eight and Johnson five. Lausche picked up four votes there. Harriman received all his votes from the northeast section of the country."

HEMINGWAY'S BIG CATCH
CABO BLANCO, Peru, May 4 (AP)—Author Ernest Hemingway landed a 750-pound black marlin yesterday as cameramen recorded the catch for the film version of Hemingway's book, "The Old Man and the Sea."

Hemingway landed the big marlin after a 45-minute fight. Later he said, "Next I'm going to catch one that weighs 1000 pounds."

HAROLD GIBBONS ASSAILS MEANY'S MERGER TACTICS

Harold J. Gibbons, president of Teamsters' Joint Council 13, criticized George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, on a television program on Station KTVI last night, saying he is "high-handedly" trying to force unions into compliance with merger plans.

"If the merger is to succeed," he said, "labor must resort to conciliation, not threats or censorship."

"It would be a terrible thing if the merger were to fail. But the very problems which made merger necessary, such as jurisdictional difficulties, are not being given the kind of study they deserve."

AEC ISSUES FIRST TWO PERMITS FOR NUCLEAR POWER

Private Plants Authorized to Produce Electricity for Commercial Uses.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission today issued the first permits for private construction of large-scale nuclear power plants that would produce electricity for commercial use.

The permits were issued to Consolidated Edison Co. of New York and Commonwealth Edison Co. of Chicago.

They authorize the two firms to build nuclear power reactors designed to "demonstrate the value of the facilities for commercial purposes."

Consolidated Edison will build near the village of Buchanan, N. Y., 24 miles north of New York City, a $55,000,000 power plant. It will use nuclear and conventional fuels in combination to generate 236,000 kilowatts of electricity. The atomic reactor is scheduled for completion Oct. 1, 1960. It will be built on a 350-acre site along the Hudson river.

Commonwealth Edison will build a $45,000,000 plant at the junction of the Kankakee and Des Plaines rivers in Grundy county, Illinois, about 50 miles southwest of Chicago. It will have a net generating capacity of 180,000 kilowatts and is scheduled for completion Sept. 30, 1960. It will be built on a 950-acre site.

The announcement said that the AEC made sure before issuing the permits that the two companies had submitted sufficient information to "give reasonable assurance that facilities of the general types proposed by the companies can be constructed and operated at the proposed locations without undue risk to the health and safety of the public."

The permits allocate special nuclear material to be made available as a reactor fuel over a 40-year period. Consolidated Edison will get an estimated 5699 kilograms (more than six tons) of uranium 235; Commonwealth Edison will get 8923 kilograms (about nine tons) of U-235 over the 40-year period.

A reactor plant to generate electric power for commercial use already is being built at Shippingport, Pa., but mostly by the Government in co-operation with the Duquesne Power Co.

The plants for which permits were issued by the Government today would be the first to be constructed privately. The AEC emphasized the health and safety factor in announcing issuance of the permits to Consolidated and Commonwealth.

It said that the permits will be converted to 40-year licenses subject to submission by each company of a final hazards report and to a commission finding that the final design "provides reasonable assurance that the health and safety of the public will not be endangered by the operation of the reactors."

5 FROM THIS AREA NAMED TO TRAFFIC SAFETY PARLEY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 4—Five persons from the St. Louis area were named yesterday by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly to take part in the Midwestern Regional Conference of President Eisenhower's Committee for Traffic Safety. The 12-state conference will be in Chicago May 23 and 24.

Those from the St. Louis area chosen by the Governor are Carl Major, a member of the staff of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat; Garth B. Smith, of the State Junior Chamber of Commerce of Festus; Luman F. Matthews, supervisor of St. Louis county; Police Judge Morris Rosenthal of St. Louis; and B. H. Sweeney, director of the St. Louis Safety Council.

Object of the meeting, one of four to be held in the nation, will be to stimulate promotion of traffic safety on the community level. "The continuing seriousness of the traffic accident problem points up the need for individual effort," Gov. Donnelly said.

TWO OFFICIALS GIVEN YEAR EACH IN FRAUD CASE

Defense Contractors Also Fined $2500 Apiece on Charges of Conspiracy.

Charles G. Emerling and Joseph M. Ebeling Jr., were sentenced to one year in prison and fined $2500 each today by United States District Judge Ruben M. Hulon on charges of defrauding the Government of about $10,000 on defense contracts and conspiracy.

Emerling, president of Production Engineering & Manufacturing Co., Pagedale, and Ebeling, manager of the Manchester Machine Co. in St. James, Mo., were found guilty by a jury March 23 on counts each of defrauding the government and one count of conspiracy.

Judge Hulon sentenced them to one year on each of the nine counts to run concurrently and fined them on the conspiracy charge. On learning that an appeal would be filed, the judge set bond at $5000 for each defendant.

Emerling's firm had a defense department contract for making mortar conversion kits and Ebeling's company did the work as the sub-contractor. Wesley C. Thompson, former assistant manager of Manchester Machine, a key government witness, testified Ebeling told him to make out invoices for about $20,000 worth of work that was not done. Thompson refused.

Emerling and Ebeling denied they had made any agreement to defraud the Government or gave orders to draw up false invoices. They also testified they could not remember whether certain parts for the kits, which they said were received by Army officials, were actually made by Manchester Machine.

The jury deliberated slightly more than an hour before returning its verdict.

he was "going out to make some money." He took with him a 22 caliber automatic pistol, which had been lying on top of a television set, and walked to Delmar and Hamilton boulevards.

Got Into Taxicab.

"I got into a Laclede cab on the southeast corner," Edwards said, "and told the driver to take me to an address in the 2000 block of Salisbury. He drove there. When he turned to me to collect the fare I drew the gun and told him it was a hold-up."

The cab driver grabbed him, Edwards said, and a struggle ensued. Edwards then fired, he said, and the cab driver slumped in the front seat. "I got around on the driver's side," Edwards continued, "and pushed him over. I drove about a mile. I wanted to get away from where I shot him so no one would see him. Then I drove into an alley, put the driver out of the cab and drove away."

Edward's account of the shooting did not jibe with information police obtained from witnesses shortly after it occurred.

The dying Segasture, shot four times, was found in an alley near Lee and Newstead avenues. A witness told police he heard four shots fired in the alley and then observed a Laclede taxicab being driven from the mouth of the alley at high speed.

Abandoned Taxicab.

Segasture's taxicab was found later abandoned in the 5900 block of Enright avenue. A woman living across the street reported looking out her window after hearing brakes applied sharply about 2 a.m. She said she saw four teen-age youths, dressed in blue jeans, hurry away from the vehicle. Questioned closely about these occurrences, Edwards insisted he did not recall shooting Segasture in the alley but acknowledged he could not remember clearly. He said he remembered throwing a box of 22 caliber cartridges and the keys to the taxicab on a lawn near where the taxicab was abandoned. He could not, however, recall what he did with his weapon.

Edwards said he went through Segasture's pockets and took $10 from a billfold. He over-looked $15 in a shirt pocket. Fitzwater told police Edwards returned to the Hamilton boulevard apartment after being gone less than two hours, and Edwards confided that he had shot the cab driver.

Fitzwater, who had lent his jacket to Edwards, then noticed blood on the sleeve. Later in the day he burned the jacket, he said. Police have recovered charred fragments of the garment from an ashpit.

Heavily tattooed on both arms, Fitzwater has crude lettering indelibly cut on the fingers of both hands, near the knuckles. The letters on one hand spell "love" and on the other "hate." The same tattooing was used by Actor Robert Mitchum when he played the part of the killer in the motion picture, "The Night of the Hunter."

Others Arrested.

Police arrested the two women who were with Edwards and Fitzwater at the apartment. Later they arrested another woman, also a companion of Edwards, and a man who identified himself as Donald Holcomb, 21, living in the 6500 block of Curtis avenue.

Holcomb, who has tattooed on his hands the blue slash marks of the so-called "Pachuco society," has admitted giving Edwards the pistol used in the shooting, police said. Holcomb has a record of previous arrests. Edwards was booked suspected of murder and the others were held for further interrogation.

Working with Sgt. Nash in clearing up the case were Defective Earl Wellington, Edward Longhette, Carl Wild and Charles Davis.

Segasture, 27, lived at 3322 Blair avenue with his wife, Virginia, and two children, Peter, 7, and Linda, 6. He had driven a Laclede cab for four years and previously worked for the Yellow Cab Co.

FIRST EXPLOSION OF NUCLEAR TEST SERIES IS SET OFF

sion of something less than 50,000 tons of TNT.

The test will be held on the island of Eniwetok, 20 miles north of Eniwetok island. The news and civil defense observers will see the blast from the deck of the command and communications ship U.S.S. Mt. McKinley.

New Facts on 1954 Fall-out.

In a briefing by Dr. Gordon Dunning of the division of biology and medicine, the Atomic Energy Commission has finally given complete details on the fall-out of the March 1954 thermonuclear test that liberally sprinkled the inhabitants of the Rongelap atoll and the crew of the Japanese fishing boat Fortunate Dragon. The dangerous fall-out actually covered an area of 25,000 square miles, instead of 7000 as reported 10 months after the event.

It was also admitted that the island of Rongelap is still too radioactive for the islanders to return to in view of the heavy dosage they had received and the criteria of safety used by the AEC.

Small Weapons Side Effects.

For the first time, also, it was admitted that the fall-out of surface bursts of small atomic fission weapons spreads dangerous radioactivity as far as 20 miles down wind from the blast. AEC has tried so hard to convince civilians near the Nevada test site that they were not endangered by fall-out from the tests, that their carefully worded statements gave the impression that the fall-out danger from these tests was negligible.

Adm. Lewis Strauss, chairman of the AEC, in a typical statement issued in Feb. 1955, said: "The highest actual dose of radiation at an off-site community has been estimated to be less than one-third the greatest amount of radiation which atomic energy workers are permitted to receive each year under the Atomic Energy Commission's conservative standards."

This statement is perfectly true, but misleading because it refers only to an "off-site community." The atomic test site is large enough so that dangerous radioactivity from the small explosions conducted there does not extend in dangerous amounts off the site. It does exist in dangerous amounts on the site.

The significance of this is that the use of small atomic weapons in war would cause dangerous radioactivity in considerable areas and this might occur over our own troops if the wind were in their direction.

Early Explanation Defended.

Dunning denied that the previous AEC release on the fall-out in March 1954 did not give full information, either as to the duration of radioactivity or as to the extent.

He said that all the information was furnished that was needed to calculate the duration and the wider areas of lesser radioactivity than were indicated in the AEC statement. The earlier statement said that 7000 square miles were contaminated to a degree that would make the area hazardous for long-term, unprotected occupancy.

Dunning's chart indicates that 25,000 square miles would have 50 or more roentgens of activity, 12,500 miles 100 or more roentgens, and 5000 square miles 400 or more. A roentgen is a measure of absorption of radiation.

A dose of 400 roentgens in a short period of time would be lethal to about half the persons receiving it. Doses of 700 or more roentgens over short periods would be almost 100 per cent lethal. A few become ill from a dose of 100 roentgens if they all continued to live in the areas and took no protective measures. Illness might be in the form of nausea or vomiting, lesions on the skin and lowered white blood count causing susceptibility to secondary infections.

Lesser doses of from 25 to 50 roentgens produce observable biological effects (changes in the blood picture) which are neither serious nor permanent.

Data for Ground Blasts.

These figures on fall-out apply only to explosions where the fireball touches the ground and vaporizes and draws up into the stem and cloud millions of tons of matter that attracts radioactive fission particles to it. The radioactive dust and heavier particles fall out, the heavier particles first and in large amount near the explosion and the lighter particles at greater distances. The smallest particles are drawn up into the stratosphere and are spread around the world as the winds carry them.

It is estimated, for example, that only one-third of the long-lived radioactive strontium-90 from all the thermonuclear explosions to date has fallen on the earth. Another 10 years will be needed for all of it to come to rest. Radioactivity, except for strontium-90, which has a half life of 27.7 years, decays very rapidly.

The amount of strontium-90 that has fallen on the earth is estimated to be about one-thousandth of the minimum level for safety. The AEC estimates that about 6000 times as much strontium-90 as now exists may be distributed worldwide without creating a hazard. The Marshall Islanders on Rongelap atoll received about 175 roentgens in two days, although they were about 100 miles away from the blast. This caused about two-thirds to be nauseated and about one-tenth to vomit and experience diarrhea during the first two days. The symptoms stopped after the third day and there was no recurrence. The white blood count rose for a few days and then dropped. It took five or six months to return to normal. The most severe burn back of one man's ear took six months to heal.

TEXAS TOWER RADAR ISLAND GOES INTO ACTION

TEXAS TOWER, Atlantic Ocean off Cape Cod, Mass., May 4 (AP)—The nation's first radar island went into action yesterday as a link in the chain of defense against enemy air attack.

The man-made island, launched less than a year ago, has started limited operation with the Eastern Air Defense Force.

Forerunner of a series of Atlantic radar islands off the East coast, the tower extends the nation's protective fence 100 miles eastward.

Two Starfire jets from Boston 160 miles away, posing as enemy aircraft, tried to race past the tower in a test mission. They were detected long before they reached the outpost.

An injured seaman from a Navy ship near the tower was flown to a base hospital by helicopter in an unscheduled feature of the first day's operation.

Harold M. Swisher, Jr., of Vienna, W.Va., cut his head in a fall aboard the De Loyd. A lifeboat from the tower took Swisher aboard and then boat, crew and patient were hoisted by derrick atop the tower nearly 100 feet in air. Next step, minutes later, was the seaman's transfer to a helicopter which took off from the tower for a hospital at Otis Air Force Base on Cape Cod 150 miles away.

Negroes Migrate From South At Rate of 300,000 a Year

Movement Expected to Continue as Long as Economic Conditions Are Bright in North.

By NIXON SMILEY
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch special dispatch. Copyright 1956.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 4 —Negroes are leaving the South at the rate of more than 300,000 a year.

Florida was the only one of 11 southern states that gained more people of all races than it lost between 1950 and 1954. During this four-year period, 10 southern states lost 1,250,000 persons by emigration, according to the federal census. Most of these, sociologists say, were Negroes.

In Alabama and Mississippi, both of which have large Negro populations, the losses have been greater than in other southern states.

Even with high birth rates among both races, Alabama is barely maintaining the population it had in 1950, while Mississippi has fewer persons now than it had in 1950.

Sociologists' View.
Sociologists believe the flight of the Negro from the South will continue as long as economic conditions are bright in the North.

The movement might be accelerated by the pressure being put on the Negro through the South's stubborn resistance to integration. But even if the present migration rate continues, 2,000,000 Negroes will leave the South in the period of 1954 to 1960, according to the best estimates.

The impact of the declining Negro population on the South will be felt more strongly during the next generation than now.

Most of the Negroes leaving the South are between the ages of 18 and 44. A large number of children, up to the age of 6, also are leaving. This might imply that the Negroes with children in school are reluctant to leave until their children have been graduated.

South's Mixed Feelings.
Southerners have shown mixed feelings about the Negro migration. Those who recognize the Negro's contribution to the South's economy look upon it as a great loss. Others figure the migration may ease the racial tension.

Will the moving by the Negro from the South actually lessen the racial problem? Maybe.

Some political experts think Dixie might feel more pressure from the Negro in the North than it would if he remained in the South.

The Negro vote in several large northern cities is 10 per cent or more of the total balloting. The Negro is becoming the most important minority in the North, and is developing into a militant group with voting power sufficient to throw an election either way.

LEGION EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE URGES OUSTING 40&8

INDIANAPOLIS, May 4 (AP)—The American Legion's national executive committee recommended yesterday that the subsidiary Forty and Eight group be ousted because of a "malicious" charge that a power clique runs the Legion. The committee asked that the Legion convention in Los Angeles next Sept. 3-6 withdraw recognition of the fun-making group unless the Forty and Eight retracts its charges.

The Forty and Eight executive committee last June charged: "It is common knowledge that the national organization of the American Legion is, and for more than the past seven years has been, under the domination and control of a small group of men."

Charles W. Ardrey, national secretary of the Forty and Eight, said the June charges could be withdrawn only by his organization's national convention. For the first time, the group is planning a separate convention this year, meeting in Indianapolis Sept. 28-30, three weeks after the Legion meeting.

DEMOCRAT TELLS OF APOLOGY MADE BY SUMMERFIELD

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Representative Louis C. Rabaut (Dem.), Michigan, said yesterday Postmaster General Arthur F. Summerfield apologized to him and two other Michigan

Democrats for "very ill advised remarks" made in their presence Tuesday at a Michigan Medical Society breakfast here. Rabaut said Summerfield praised the doctors for having contributed $75,000 to President Eisenhower's election campaign and for having helped in the fight "against socialized medicine."

"It was supposed to have been a nonpartisan gathering," Rabaut said, "and when it was over I remarked to some of the doctors that Summerfield's remarks were very ill advised. They agreed with me."

Later that day, at a congressional dinner for representatives of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, Rabaut said, Summerfield apologized to him and two other Democrats, Representatives Don Hayworth and John Dingell.

At the Post Office Department, reporters were not permitted to question Summerfield directly. An aid conferred with the Postmaster General and quoted Summerfield as saying he made no comment about any contribution or any reference to socialized medicine.

LABOR DISPUTE MAY BLOCK NEXT SEASON OF MET

NEW YORK, May 4—Labor trouble at the Metropolitan Opera may force cancellation of the 1956-57 season. The labor dispute is between the Metropolitan and the American Guild of Musical Artists, which represents solo singers, choristers and members of the ballet.

Among the demands that have caused a deadlock in the negotiations is one in which it is requested that chorus rehearsal rates be increased from $1.70 to $3 an hour. The Metropolitan is opposed to any increase in basic rates of payment, and is seeking a new two-year agreement extending to June 30, 1958.

A spokesman for the Metropolitan in New York said the situation was "very serious" and certainly if things were not straightened out by the first part of June there wouldn't be an opera season next year.

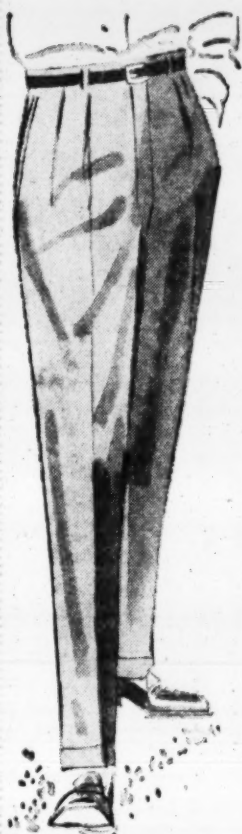

2 Egypt Missions to Russia. CAIRO, May 4 (AP)—The Egyptian government announced today that it would send two missions to Russia this summer, one to study the Soviet system of collectivized agriculture, under which the government owns the farm lands, and the other to study Soviet labor conditions and factory management.

CONTROL OF AIR TRAFFIC SAID TO NEED FIRM HAND

Problem Is Acute, Experts Agree — Solutions Available, None Is Decided On.

By DAVID R. WALLIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TULSA, Okla., May 4 — Air traffic control in the United States is suffering because of a lack of decisions as to which of a number of proposed solutions shall be used, J. Francis Taylor Jr., director of the Government's Air Navigation Development Board, said yesterday.

Taylor was one of four participants in a panel discussion of air traffic control problems that closed the Southwest Jet Age conference here. The meeting was sponsored by the Air Force Association and the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce. About 600 persons from a 15-state area were registered.

"We have plenty of solutions for the air traffic control problem," Taylor said. "There have been a lot of good engineers working on it for years, and they have come up with a number of proposals that would do a great deal to help the situation."

Another panel member, David D. Thomas, deputy director of the Civil Aeronautics Administration Office of Federal Airways, said he understood the development board had an automatic flight control system that could be produced immediately. Taylor replied plans had been drawn for one, but that he did not expect it to be manufactured or placed in use in the immediate future.

Urgency Stressed.
The urgent need for improvement of the present traffic control system to keep better track of planes flying the nation's airways was touched upon by virtually all of the 14 chief speakers at the conference. With the advent of faster jet airliners in the immediate future, they said, the present critical problem will become even more acute.

Clarence N. Sayen, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, outlined a nine-point program that would, in effect, require that all flights be made under instrument flight rules. It also would include a single navigation system with expanded radar coverage and centralization in the CAA of all jurisdiction over flights.

In reply to a statement from the floor that this would eliminate all light-plane private flying, Thomas said he was certain the lower altitudes normally used by such planes would not be covered by such restrictions. He said he agreed in general with Sayen's proposals and that it was his hope initial radar beacon installations could have units added later that would provide automatic identification of planes, their altitude and position.

Need Double Capacity.
"We need double our present control capacity right now," Thomas said. "By 1960 we expect an additional increase of at least 75 per cent in traffic, so we should have four times our present capacity by then. There have been suggestions that the SAGE automatic system developed by the military will give us this increase, but it may be a year before we know how well it can be adapted to civilian needs."

Sayen suggested that elements of the proposed new system which are agreed upon be installed within two years, rather than waiting for the five-year target date for the program.

"We're not handling our present volume of traffic under instrument flight rules, either economically for civil agencies or to meet the needs of the military," Sayen said. "We need full control of all traffic at all times. We can no longer maintain safe separation of traffic by the human eye. Air traffic control is now a critical national emergency problem."

'Safest Transportation'.
Jerome Lederer, director of the Flight Safety Foundation, told the meeting that aviation is well on the way to becoming the world's safest form of transportation. Despite recent accidents, he said, the airline record as a whole is excellent and has shown steady improvement as speeds increase. In 1954, he said, about one airline pilot in 1000 was killed.

A description of the SAGE system was given by Dr. George E. Valley Jr., associate director of the Lincoln Laboratories of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The system, developed at the laboratories, is designed to dispatch and then provide full control of fighter planes intercepting enemy bombers.

Edward P. Curtis, recently appointed by President Eisenhower as special assistant to the President for aviation facilities planning, outlined the scope of his assignment and the complexity of present problems. An idea of the current volume of air traffic can be gained by the fact that Chicago's Midway Airport handles more traffic than that combined at London, Paris, Rome, Amsterdam and Zurich, he said.

There is a landing or takeoff at Midway every 82 seconds, 24 hours a day, he said. The four major New York airports combined handle more traffic than most of the major cities of Europe put together, Curtis added.

'More Noise, Not Less.'
Present complaints arising from noise of jet military planes are but an indication of the future, Col. Harry W. Shoup, chief of the combat operations center of the Continental Air Defense Command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., told the meeting.

"Only 5 or 6 per cent of all United States airfields are military bases, and only a handful support supersonic operations," Col. Shoup said. "Aviation is tending toward more noise, not less. The complaints already received indicate the future magnitude of the problem. The conflict between communities and air base operations is a problem affecting national politics and national economy, as well as national defense."

"As we give these (reserve) units the first-line planes they want and need, the noise of their operation grows louder," Col. Shoup said. "Let me assure everyone that insofar as it is financially possible and tactically sound, we will continue to try to get our bases away from population centers."

BOARD OFFERS PLAN TO BUY TILLES PARK

Suggests County, Some of Its Municipalities Join in Purchase.

A proposal that St. Louis county and some of its municipalities join in acquiring Tilles Park from the City of St. Louis was advanced yesterday by the County Parks and Recreation Advisory Board after receiving an appraisal of $430,000 on the park.

Charles R. Skow, secretary of the board, said the decision to try to enlist the aid of cities in the purchase was made after a tour of the park and various county parks by eight members of the board and six members of the citizens' bond issue watchdog committee.

The park board named a committee headed by Bertram W. Tremayne Jr. to explore the possibility of joint acquisition but no formal recommendation to the County Council will be made until the municipalities have been sounded out, Skow said.

The park board has received an opinion from the County Counselor's office to the effect that if a joint purchase can be arranged, the county's share could come from the bond issue item of $2,200,000 voted last November for parks and playgrounds and from a surplus of about $100,000 in the park department's budget.

In another action yesterday, the park board unanimously adopted a resolution opposing the expenditure of any public funds at this time for rehabilitation of the "General Grant House" in Jefferson Barracks Historic Monument Park, Skow said.

The resolution followed an inspection of the house which had been built for Gen. U. S. Grant but which was never occupied by him. The board expects to go ahead with plans for a modern museum on the site, preliminary plans for which have been approved by the National Park Service, Skow said.

The board also voted to accept a tentative offer of the Park Service of the services of a staff historian to help in drafting a master plan for development of the historic park area.

Subway Air-Conditioning Test.

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—The Transit Authority said yesterday it would run an experimental air-conditioned subway train on the I.R.T. division beginning July 1. On the success of this train will depend whether the authority decides to have air conditioning put in 259 new cars.

EAST ST. LOUIS MACHINIST STRUCK BY CRANE, KILLED

John Elmer Wick Jr., 1429 North Forty-ninth street, East St. Louis, was killed in an accident today at the Granite City plant of American Steel Co., where he was employed as a machinist.

A company spokesman said he was making repairs on a machine used for cleaning castings when he was struck by a moving crane. He was pronounced dead at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City.

JUDGE SETS ASIDE ANOTHER'S BAR ON SENATE PAMPHLET

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)

—United States District Judge F. Dickinson Letts has set aside an order of fellow Judge Robert N. Wilkin restraining the printing and distribution of a Senate Internal Security subcommittee pamphlet entitled "a handbook for Americans."

The unusual action took place late last night, but was not disclosed until today. The temporary restraining order was signed earlier yesterday by Judge Wilkin.

Judge Letts said that in his judgment the restraining order was an interference with the legislative function of the government and "constituted an unwarranted and unauthorized action by the judiciary."

The restraining order was obtained from Judge Wilkin by the Methodist Federation for Social Action, "A Handbook for Americans" lists this organization as a "religious Communist front."

The federation, which has no official connection with the Methodist Church, denies this and contends it has never been given a chance to contradict the listing at a subcommittee hearing.

CHOTINER IN FIRM CHECKED BY FBI

Company Allegedly Using
Is U.S. Agency.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (UP)—The Secret Service disclosed today that it asked the Federal Bureau of Investigation in 1954 to check on a firm in which Murray M. Chotiner, Vice President Richard M. Nixon's 1952 campaign manager, was listed as a principal.

The Secret Service said it asked the FBI to move into the case after it had been unable to prosecute the firm for allegedly using business forms designed to "create the impression" that it was a government agency.

Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman identified the concern as the National Research Co. of Los Angeles and Washington. He listed Chotiner as one of "several individuals who were active in the administration of the firm."

Baughman made the statements in a letter to the Washington Post & Times-Herald. He said he wanted to counter a "strong implication" in a Drew Pearson article (carried in the Post-Dispatch Wednesday) that the service had failed to act decisively against National Research because of Chotiner's connections with Nixon.

Baughman said the service is charged with the "physical protection" of the Vice President. But he said it is "ridiculous for Pearson or anyone else to say that the Secret Service indulges in another kind of protection of people whose names have been linked with those of the President or the Vice President."

Baughman said the service believed—and still does—that National Research was unethical in using business forms with such headings as "Treasurer's Office" and "Claims Office" with the implication that they came from a Government agency.

He said the service first heard about the practice in July 1954, when a man was arrested in Phoenix, Ariz., for attempting to cash one of the forms as a check.

Baughman said the United States attorney in Phoenix ruled there were insufficient grounds for prosecuting the company at

WEST REICH TRADE WITH RUSSIANS RISING SHARPLY

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 4 (AP)—West German trade with the Soviet Union is increasing sharply as the Russians push their drive for a Bonn-Moscow commercial agreement. Official statistics released yesterday revealed that business between the two countries totaled 73,300,000 marks ($18,635,000) in the first three months of 1956. This compares with a quarterly average of 65,500,000 marks ($15,880,000) last year and one of only 36,500,000 marks ($8,677,000) in 1954.

The business is all private—between German business men and Soviet buying agencies. German exporters have been selling the Russians ships, machinery, steel and sheet metal products, among others. The Russians have been selling the Germans pig iron, cotton, furs, phosphates, wood and aluminum.

At this, Baughman said, the service referred the matter to the Better Business Bureau in Washington, "hoping they might act to stop the use of the forms."

The bureau urged action by the Federal Trade Commission. The FTC said it already had issued a complaint and was proceeding against the firm. Meanwhile, Baughman said, the United States attorney's office in Los Angeles said if there was any law which would apply in the case it was the criminal code provisions against impersonation of Government agencies.

Since these provisions were administered by the FBI, he said, the case was referred to it on Nov. 20, 1954. The FBI said today it would have no immediate comment.

Baughman said FTC examiners issued a cease-and-desist order against National Research last Jan. 12. The company has appealed and the case is still pending before the commission.

In addition, Baughman said the Secret Service had recommended that the Library of Congress deny the company's application to copyright the title: "Treasurer's office, headquarters building, Washington." And, he said, it also had asked the Post Office to look into the matter.

MOTIONS DELAY PAY-OFF TRIALS OF 3 POLICEMEN

Defense Actions Prevent Setting of Dates—Indictments Voted in October.

Numerous defense motions filed on behalf of Detective Capt. William Greenspan, Lt. F. Lyman Davis and Cpl. George Wood, indicted last October on charges of accepting bribes from brothel operators, have delayed the setting of dates for their trials, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

A ruling on one of the most important defense motions was handed down last Monday by Circuit Judge J. Casey Walsh, who overruled a motion to dismiss the indictment against Greenspan. Before trial dates can be set the motions must be disposed of, it was said.

Shortly after the indictments were voted, they were filed in the assignment division of circuit court and on Nov. 10 Morris Shenker appeared as defense attorney. Last Dec. 14, the three policemen were arraigned and their trial was set for Feb. 6.

The Circuit Attorney's office, in an effort to limit the number of defense motions, petitioned the court to set a deadline for filing pre-trial motions. The court set Jan. 6 as the date. On that day, Shenker filed three identical motions on behalf of each officer to dismiss the indictments on the ground that some of the witnesses had been coerced and that improper influence had been brought to bear on the grand jury by the Circuit Attorney's office.

The only continuance asked by the defense came on Jan. 19, the date for the hearing on the motions to dismiss the indictments. It was continued until Feb. 3. On that day, Shenker filed supplemental motions and testimony on the motions to dismiss was heard. Testimony also was taken Feb. 7 and 8 and March 1 and 2.

Meanwhile, Shenker filed subpoenas duces tecum for records of the Police Department in the alleged pay-off inquiry and also of the Post-Dispatch and Globe-Democrats.

At the close of testimony on the dismissal motions, the court gave the defense and the state 10 days to file briefs.

When Judge Walsh ruled on the Greenspan motion, he announced he had not ruled on the Wood motion, because Shenker had asked for additional time to file a brief on some motion other than the motion to dismiss. In the defense motions there are about 35 reasons why the defense believes the indictments should be dismissed.

At the outset, Judge Walsh disqualified himself in the case of Lt. Davis because he said he knew him. Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood was assigned the Davis case. A preliminary hearing was scheduled in this case last Monday, but was continued by the court for two weeks when Shenker did not appear. Shenker was in Washington that day.

Judge Kirkwood said if testimony is not heard within two weeks, the court would order the motions for Davis dismissed.

Observer Says Top Communists Themselves Prefer Him to Other Presidential Possibilities — Danger to U.S. in Talk of Simmering Russian Revolt.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS

A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 4.

THE image of President Eisenhower that dominates in the world today is that of the peacemaker. This is true particularly in Europe and Asia, and with the conferences set for early summer with President Soekarno of Indonesia and Prime Minister Nehru of India the image will be enhanced.

In an election year every Communist relations with the West. As part of what seems to be an exercise in having your cake and eating it, too, the Republicans right is developing a new line on Russia. A revolt, so the line goes, is simmering beneath the surface in the Soviet Union. Now if this is true we can just sit comfortably back and wait for nature to take its course. The risk of "appeasement" in moving toward a settlement can be avoided since you do not need to bother about so unstable a regime which will fall of its own weight.

So much that happens behind the Iron Curtain is shrouded in mystery that the theory of potential revolt could be correct. It happens, however, that those who have the most direct and immediate knowledge consider it to be dangerous nonsense. It is dangerous because it encourages in America the mood of relaxation that is more and more evident. In a thousand different ways this mood, which is part of our boom-time economy, tends to undermine the position of strength this country must maintain if the West is to stand up to the challenge of Communism in peace or in war. To take just one example, the armed services are finding it increasingly difficult in competition with peacetime demands on skilled technicians to maintain standards.

That Distressing Word Again. While it has a potent political appeal at home, this line makes some Republicans distinctly nervous. They are fearful of "appeasement," a word of denunciation they freely applied to the Democrats in their conduct of foreign policy.

No poll taker has as yet penetrated the fastness of the Kremlin to ask the 11 men who make up the Presidium their choice if they could vote for President of the United States. But it is a safe surmise that Mr. Eisenhower would sweep the Kremlin.

The Soviet rulers associate the Democrats with former President Truman, the Korean conflict and the threat of a preventive war against the Communists. This is their identification of Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, Gov. Averell Harriman and others prominent in the Democratic picture.

Soviet Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev demonstrated once again during their British visit that the Soviets believe they can get along with the hardboiled right but that they are bound to quarrel with the Democratic left. At a dinner given by British Laborites, Communist party secretary Khrushchev clashed violently with Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell, who called on the Communists for release of Social Democrats imprisoned in eastern Europe.

Gaitskell is shortly coming to America to address the convention of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union at Atlantic City and he is likely to have some things to say about

Chotiner a Smooth Witness,
Gets Kid Gloves Treatment

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON.

BETWEEN White House calls on behalf of his clients and a Justice Department memorandum directing Justice lawyers to exercise care in dealing with him, Murray Chotiner has made a telling debut on the Senate investigative scene.

Chotiner is the criminal lawyer and public relations expert who has managed all of Vice President Richard M. Nixon's campaigns, including the controversial Nixon tour in the 1954 congressional contests. Recently Chotiner has been conducting G.O.P. education tours over the country.

Chotiner admitted the White House calls. He said they were not about politics but for clients. He defended their propriety and said he had never used the Vice President's name.

Those Who Helped Him. The White House aids who obliged him were Maxwell Rabb, who is secretary of the Cabinet and in charge of minority problems, and Charles F. Willis Jr., a former patronage assistant now back in private business.

Chotiner testified he had never heard of the Justice Department's "take care" memorandum and Chairman John L. McClellan did not elaborate on it.

Subcommittee sources said later the Justice Department had admitted the memorandum and the Senators a copy of it. Their understanding is that it was issued in 1953 and signed by either Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. or Deputy Attorney General William Rogers. McClellan will renew his efforts to get it for the record.

White House calls are a staple of Senate investigations and justly so, such is the power of the presidency. One who picks up the telephone and hears the magic words "The White House calling," may feel pleased, happy and important. He also under-

Space Satellite
Held Likely to Be Up 2 WeeksProject Director Says
Man-Made Moon
Program Is on Schedule.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)

AMERICA'S first space satellite probably will stay aloft two weeks, Dr. John P. Hagen, director of project Vanguard—the earth satellite project—said yesterday.

The man-made moon, a sphere of thin metal 20 inches in diameter and weighing 21½ pounds, will be so small that powerful field glasses will be needed to gain even a glimpse of it, he said. It will be about as difficult to see the satellite as it would to pick up visually a golf ball dropped from a plane at 30,000 feet, he said. "Only at dusk or just before dawn would it be visible," he added.

In soaring to its orbit altitude of 200 to 1500 miles above the earth, the space vehicle will pass through temperature zones dropping to as low as 120 degrees below zero in the first 10 miles, then rising to above normal room temperatures, then declining to below zero and then finally soaring to about 2500 degrees, Hagen said.

He added that the heat will not greatly affect the satellite because of the extremely low air pressure.

Hagen disclosed new details about the satellite program at a luncheon of the Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Association.

Program on Schedule.

In answer to a question, he said the satellite program is on schedule and will meet its deadlines. There has been published speculation that none of the several satellites planned for launching would be ready as announced, either at the start of the International Geophysical Year in July 1957 or by the end of December 1958.

Hagen said that all three stages of the space rocket are well under way. He added:

1. The third and final stage of the rocket will separate from the sphere and, in effect, form a second satellite. Because of its greater weight and its less streamlined shape it probably will drop out of its orbit and disintegrate in the earth's atmosphere, many miles above the ground, sometime before the satellite itself is similarly destroyed. Science will get a "great deal of useful information" from the orbiting third stage rocket as well as from the satellite sphere itself.

2. The three rocket stages and sphere combined will make a structure 72 feet long when stood on end for launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla. It will be 45 inches thick at its widest point, and will weigh 11 tons altogether. Within 120 seconds after being fired, the first stage, traveling 4000 miles an hour, will have burned out, separated and plunged into the Caribbean Sea a few hundred miles east of Florida.

Second Stage. 3. The second stage rocket will carry the vehicle to an altitude of 300 miles and much farther to the east. At the end of the second stage burnout, the satellite will be moving 11,000 miles an hour and will be at the 300-mile peak of its trajectory. The spent second stage rocket will fall into the Atlantic 1500 or 2000 miles from Florida.

4. The third stage will then

In BrainpowerDulles More Worried

Than of Arms.

By JAMES RESTON

The New York Times News Service,
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 4.

THE Research and Development Subcommittee of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee has been listening this week to some profoundly disturbing testimony about the state of technical education in the United States.

While the attention of Congress has been directed to the American air power, this committee has been hearing things about the lag in the development of American brainpower that are in many ways more alarming.

For example, these unchallenged facts have been placed before the subcommittee:

1. The number of trained engineers in the Soviet Union increased from 41,000 in 1929 to 541,000 in 1954, a 1300 per cent increase. In the same period, the United States increase was from 215,000 to 500,000.

2. The number of engineering graduates from Soviet higher institutes rose from 28,000 in 1950 to 63,000 in 1955, while in the same period, the number of United States engineering graduates dropped from 52,000 to 23,000.

Only Half of Need Met.

3. The Soviet Union is graduating 120,000 new engineers and scientists every year to the United States' 70,000, and the United States' new crop of graduate engineers is already only half of the 45,000-50,000 the United States needs each year within its own national boundaries.

4. The number of qualified teachers of science and mathematics in United States high schools has dropped 53 per cent in the last five years, while United States high school enrollment has increased by 16 per cent. Even this gives a misleading impression, because not more than half of the qualified teachers in this field actually go into the teaching profession.

5. Fifty-three per cent of all high schools in the United States do not teach physics and only half of the high schools teach chemistry. In addition, a recent survey indicates that between 250,000 and 400,000

U.S. Embassy in Cairo Opposed
To Selling Arms to IsraelisAmerican Diplomatic Observers Believe Such Action Could Start Full-Scale
War in the Middle East.

By RICHARD DUDMAN

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, May 4.

UNITED STATES diplomatic observers here have recommended in the strongest possible terms against selling arms to Israel. They argue that such action could trigger full-scale war in the Middle East.

Israel's request for arms, pending five and one half months without a yes or no reply, remains a paramount issue in the explosive Middle East situation despite Dag Hammarskjöld's success in obtaining new cease-fire pledges.

Advices reaching Washington from Cairo on the arms question contrasts sharply with the attitude of the United States Ambassador to Israel on the same subject. Edward B. Lawson said neither he nor any other individual Ambassador should recommend for or against the arms sale, since the decision should be based on a world picture not visible from any one of the Middle East capitals.

Henry Byroade, the ambassador to Cairo, has avoided public statements on the subject, but it can be said with assurance that the Embassy here has urged strongly that Israel's request not be granted.

Anyone who has had the opportunity to discuss the Arab-Israeli dispute with American observers both here and in Tel Aviv in the last month must be struck by nearly diametrically opposite reports, of both fact and interpretation. The United States experts on both sides have accepted large chunks of the position and rationale where they are stationed.

In Cairo, Egypt is seen as a peace-loving country, intent on a huge program of public works and social welfare. Premier Nasser is thought to have been willing to get along peaceably with Israel until a series of Israeli raids starting last year forced him to the conclusion that he must make Egypt stronger than Israel or face probable invasion and defeat.

These Israeli attacks are described here as being the only reason Egypt sought arms from the Communists, the move that resulted in the guns and jets for cotton barter agreement between Czechoslovakia and Egypt.

United States observers here believe the Czech arms deal did no more than remove a previous imbalance and possibly leaves Egypt still weaker than Israel.

They predict two possible results if the United States should decide to grant the Israeli request. The new arms, they argue, might well give Israel

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

As to G.O.P. Leadership

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
You are to be congratulated on your recent news stories and editorials exposing and decrying the manner in which the St. Louis City and County Republican Committees selected their delegates.

Doing away with opposition and representation in politics is the first step to political tyranny or political suicide. Considering the importance of the Republican organization in the city, one is impelled to draw the latter conclusion.

This conclusion begets another to the effect that if the present leadership cannot generate enough interest among Republicans and the independent voter, it should step aside for those members who are opposed to the subversion of the principle of true representation, and who are willing to submit their cause to the people themselves.

The time for a change in the thinking of those in the upper echelon of the Missouri G.O.P. is here. Too long has the Republican party in Missouri been dominated and controlled by those seeking to perpetuate their own selfish interests to the detriment of those of the Republican party and the state government itself.

Now is the time to return the Republican party to Republicans and Missouri to its people. It must also come and be recognized that these necessary changes cannot be brought about by candidates for office who are seeking aggrandizement of special interests.

It must be done with independent candidates who have the courage and power of their convictions, and who can create opposition and competition and thereby arouse public interest regardless of where the chips may fall.

GRANVILLE L. GAMBLIN,
General Chairman,
Wheeler for Governor Committee.

'Never Again'

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Please let me say that I approve every word of your editorial, "Never Again," about the tragic loss of six young Marines because they followed the orders of their drunken sergeant. You are entirely right in not being satisfied with having Maj. Gen. Joseph Burger merely transferred to another command. If the sergeant is to be tried by a court martial, why not punishment for the responsible ranking officer who allowed such "training" as this "punitive night march" under his command?

Keep after the crime tragedy. Few newspapers will do it. R.B.

As to a Detour

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I am somewhat nonplussed and a great deal disappointed by the fact that critical comment on the project at Grand and Market has been conspicuously absent from your column. The month of June will mark the first anniversary of the Theresa Avenue detour, toward which by now most motorists feel rather blasé.

At the outset of the project the proposed completion date was tentatively set as December 1955, with allowances made for the vicissitudes of the weather. Weather statistics show, however, that the months of October, November and December were milder and had less precipitation than in most years.

Perhaps I should not be too caustic in my criticism of our city and state policy concerning the facilitating and expediting of traffic flow through antiquated city and county thoroughfares. However, to do so is to reserve the prerogative of losing further vent of my feelings if the planned overpass at Vandeventer and Market is handled the same way.

This construction will bear close scrutiny as our engineers may be somewhat discomfited by the weighty problem of building an overpass that must clear the Wabash Railroad trestle by 22 feet, and yet conform to a gradient of less than 6 per cent. AL PECK.

A Memorial of Katyn

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Permit me to call attention to the very significant fact that the Polish Government in Warsaw never dared to erect a Katyn Memorial in honor of the 4243 Polish patriots massacred at Katyn.

The reason for this negligence of a moral duty is obvious. The Warsaw Government knows too well who killed the Polish officers on Soviet soil.

That government also knows that the Polish people know who their brethren's murderers were. The unimpeachable result of the great American investigation, carried out by Congress, which fixed the responsibility for this crime—the greatest in modern military history—once and for all, became well known to every Pole on earth, before and behind the Iron Curtain.

I therefore suggest that the American people make a gift to the Polish people in the form of a Katyn Memorial to be erected in Warsaw. This memorial should bear on its front the sole inscription:

In Memoriam of the 4243 Polish Patriots Massacred at Katyn.

On the back of the memorial should appear the smaller inscription: "A gift from the American people to the Polish people, their allies in World War II."

To carry out this proposal, an "American National Committee for the Erection of a Katyn Memorial in Warsaw" should be formed as soon as possible. JULIUS EPSTEIN.

New York.

'Too Many Loose Ends'

Everybody back up a week—back up eight days to be exact. Back up eight days because that is the only way to get proper perspective on the political aspects of those White House telephone calls in behalf of Murray M. Chotiner. Mr. Chotiner is the breezy California lawyer who is not only a friend of Richard M. Nixon, but also was campaign manager for the Vice President. He was to have testified before the Senate Permanent Investigating Subcommittee a week ago Thursday, April 26, concerning the alleged graft in Army clothing contracts.

Somehow or other Mr. Chotiner did not keep to his schedule. When he finally appeared just a week later to the day, he denied that he intentionally broke an agreement to testify earlier. The chairman, Senator McClellan of Arkansas, observed cryptically: "There may have been and there may not have been a misunderstanding."

Misunderstanding or not, the delay in Mr. Chotiner's testimony gave Vice President Nixon an opportunity and the Vice President has never been one to pass up opportunities. The Vice President hied himself that very day to the White House and proceeded to chart his own course to the President.

At the end of the charting session, Richard Nixon told reporters he had informed the President that in the event Mr. Eisenhower and the G.O.P. convention "desired" him to serve again, he "would be honored to accept the nomination." Press Secretary Hagerty added that the President had asked him to say "that he was delighted."

A week later Mr. Chotiner finds it more convenient if still not comfortable to meet with the Senate subcommittee. He discloses that his clients include Herman Kravitz, convicted as an embezzler on a Government contract in 1954, and Marco Reginelli, described by subcommittee counsel as "the top hoodlum of the New Jersey-Philadelphia area."

But Mr. Chotiner's really important disclosure is that Maxwell M. Rabb and Charles F. Willis Jr., two White House staff advisers to President Eisenhower, made telephone calls concerning Chotiner clients. Did he attempt to use the name or influence of the Vice President? Oh, no. Or to use Mr. Chotiner's words: "Unequivocally no!" Just the same, word got around that somebody at the White House was making inquiries on behalf of clients of Murray M. Chotiner.

And so the sequence is this:

First, Mr. Chotiner is scheduled to appear before a Senate subcommittee where he will give testimony embarrassing to both President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

Second, Mr. Chotiner does not appear on schedule, but waits a week.

Third, Vice President Nixon meantime obtains clearance for his announcement that he would like to run again in '56.

Fourth, after all this gets into the record and Mr. Nixon's candidacy is widely "accepted" then Mr. Chotiner makes the kind of disclosure that would have been a shocking scandal back in the Truman Administration when William M. Boyle Jr., J. Howard McGrath and Matthew J. Connelly were denounced by the press for their influence calls to Government agencies.

Yes, back up eight days and then back up five years. It is Oct. 5, 1951. A Senator is speaking—a member of the Permanent Investigating Subcommittee. He is California's promising young Richard M. Nixon and he is on the trail of Democratic influence in the affairs of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Says the future Vice President:

"This inquiry has too many loose ends to call it closed, and I think we'll have to resume hearings."

And that, we suspect, is just what a lot of people are going to think about this whole Chotiner-Nixon-White House influence business, now beginning slowly to unfold.

Germany as a Problem

German politics has become a concern to Western statesmen gathering for a reappraisal of NATO. This was indicated by the announcement that French Premier Mollet and Foreign Minister Pineau will talk to Russian leaders about a plan involving both German reunification and world disarmament. The French will make their proposal in Moscow on May 14 with the support of their Western allies and German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

Yet the opposition in Bonn's Parliament already has wrung from von Brentano and Chancellor Adenauer a promise of an independent German approach to Moscow on reunification. Christian Democratic leaders may still feel—as Dr. Arthur Straeter, former Christian Democratic public works minister in North Rhine-Westphalia, said in St. Louis on Thursday—that reunification may be accomplished only by an agreement of the United States and the Soviet Union. But Herr Straeter's own recent political defeat is an indication of the extent to which his party's control of the German government has been weakened.

The promise of direct German-Russian negotiations was a recognition of this political shift. No doubt Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Herr von Brentano, in agreeing that M. Mollet should open the question in Moscow on behalf of the united West, would like to forestall direct negotiations. But what if the Russians insist on talking only to the Germans? And what if they again say they are not ready to discuss the issue?

The situation is further complicated by the fact that Chancellor Adenauer is just opening his parliamentary battle for a conscription law to fill the ranks of the new German army. He is facing the combined opposition of those Germans who do not want to rearm under any circumstances, those who believe the proposed army is out of date in the Atomic Age, the industrialists who do not want to slow down the German boom by worsening the manpower shortage, and his political adversaries. This opposition, which already has chipped away important elements of his coalition, is formidable.

There is reassurance in the fact that Dr. Adenauer's opponents are as fundamentally anti-Communist as are his followers. The Socialist regime in Berlin has demonstrated this splendidly. Nevertheless, these politicians are making the details of the Chancellor's co-operation with the West ever more difficult.

Bonn eased these some by rejecting a Russian trade offer, but that is hardly enough to loosen the new knot of German problems which now challenges not only Dr. Adenauer but all the statesmen of the West.

G.O.P. Fight on Trade

President Eisenhower has suffered another rebuff on foreign trade policy at a place where he had a right to expect support. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, ignoring its own previous policy in behalf of liberalized foreign trade, turned down a White House bid for backing of the OTC bill. This is the measure that would authorize American membership in the Organization for Trade Co-operation, the administrative arm of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The Chamber's action no doubt will strengthen the hands of the hard-shell protectionist Republicans who are fighting the President on this issue, just as they fought him on other tariff issues. Six of the 10 Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee signed a minority report opposing the OTC bill.

Membership in OTC, the President told Congress in his message of April 14, "would demonstrate to the free world our active interest in the promotion of trade among the free nations."

But the six Republicans took another view. The bill, they said, "may be likened to a pair of handcuffs fastened around the hands of Congress."

By approving OTC, said the President, "we would demonstrate our desire to deal with matters of trade in the same co-operative way we do with military matters in NATO."

But the six G.O.P. protectionists say OTC "will create a permanent international bureaucracy susceptible to use as a powerful propaganda agency directed against the essential protection of United States industry, agriculture and labor."

So the President is again notified that he has a fight on his hands to gain the support of his own party on tariff policy. Of the 10 Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee, one—Representative Thomas B. Curtis of Webster Groves—voted to report out the OTC bill without committing himself finally to support it, and these six signed the minority report against it:

Daniel A. Reed, New York.
Thomas A. Jenkins, Ohio.
Richard M. Simpson, Pennsylvania.
Noah M. Mason, Illinois.
Antonio N. Sadlak, Connecticut.
Howard H. Baker, Tennessee.

If these and other Republicans continue to fight the President on tariffs and trade, how is he going to persuade the country this fall that the way to support his policies is to elect a Republican Congress?

How to Help Win

The Citizens' Charter Committee needs and deserves all the help it can get. Faced with the almost solid opposition of the ward groups of both parties, the Citizens find themselves at a serious tactical disadvantage as Tuesday's freeholder election approaches. They have nothing on their side like the experienced precinct-level organizations of the professionals.

That explains the call for volunteers by Chairman Tom K. Smith of the Citizens' Committee. Each of the 500 members of his nonpartisan civic group is attempting to obtain the names of six persons who will be willing to hand out sample ballots at the polls on election day. Anyone willing to lend a hand in behalf of this crusade for good government in St. Louis should telephone Central 1-9999. An important assignment awaits every volunteer.

There is a big ward vote in St. Louis and the pros will get that big ward vote to the polls. The important question is whether the Citizens will be able to stimulate enough independent and non-organizational voting to win. Everyone who has the good of St. Louis at heart will hope the answer is Yes.

Whoop De Doo

The announcement that a commercial exposition will be held in conjunction with the Democratic national convention is a decided step forward for the double-feature business—or backward or sideways, as the case may be. An exposition management firm, Clapp & Poliak, Inc., will put on a display called "The American Showcase," at which 75 companies are expected to exhibit their wares. In return for the privilege, the promoters of the exposition will pay the Democrats rent and some other expenses estimated at $30,000 to $50,000.

We supposed the combined bill will be known as the Democratic National Convention and American Showcase, though here are involved delicate questions of protocol with which we are not altogether familiar. It does seem, however, that the Democrats should get top billing. They have been in business longer, we should think, and the name "Democratic party" must be somewhat the better known of the two.

Presenting the ensemble, of course, will be "The Democratic National Committee and"—or should it be "in conjunction with"—"Clapp & Poliak, Inc." Now we reach the really difficult part. How to characterize this joint enterprise? Under the names of the double features there is often some unifying line, such as "Twin Adventure Thrillers" or "Dual Technicolor Smash." Just as a starter—thinking aloud, as it were—how about: "Political candidates, bottling machinery and plumbing supplies?"

And what of the Republicans? Do they mean to display only a couple of candidates and go home—to say nothing of paying the check?

Prepaid Postelection

Democrats in the House defeated an Administration proposal for prepayment of soil bank benefits on the ground that the checks might be sent out in a timely effort to influence the election in November.

Secretary Benson, as a high-minded man, must resent this slur. Yet there is a point to urging that benefits for next year's compliance with soil bank requirements be at least partially available this year, when farm income needs bolstering.

A simple way out of the dilemma is available if Secretary Benson chooses to use it. Let him propose an amendment to the soil bank bill providing that prepayments for soil bank compliance shall begin Nov. 15—nine days after election. Then nobody would dare to hint that Mr. Benson was trying to influence votes with a gentle rain of checks.

A Penny Saved Is Just Too Bad Between Book Ends

The Mirror
Public Opinion

"If everybody started to save, America would go broke," federal economist tells reporter; nation lives and progresses on credit boom while Treasury and Reserve Board argue whether it has gone too far; Government expected to keep control but can it?

Richard L. Strout, Washington Correspondent, in The Christian Science Monitor

"If everybody in this country started to save, America would go broke." That was an arresting statement made to me the other day by a Government economist.

"But I thought saving was a virtue. All the copybook exercises from the time of Benjamin Franklin have praised thrift! And now you say thrift would ruin us," I answered.

"Thrift is still a virtue," I'm in favor of it," my friend continued. "But the fact is that we have financed this current boom—a boom that has been going on now for years—on credit. Production, industrial expansion, the sale of cars, refrigerators, TV sets, are all now geared to the theory that this credit will continue at the rate it has attained—that the new high ratio of what the average family owes to what it saves will continue."

"Well—if the rumor should once go that hard times were coming; if a shiver should go through the economic nerves of the world's richest nation of a possible recession, then millions and millions of little people would suddenly—Golly! I'd better put aside a bit more for a rainy day. I hadn't stopped to think of it before, but I'm up to my ears in debt on that new car and bedroom set my wife bought, and that 23-inch TV set the children wanted! What if I should lose my job? (shiver). Yes, I'm going to save."

"That," my friend added impressively, "would really cook things up for sure. It would knock the bottom out of things."

That is the paradox of the great American boom. It is postulated on the one basic assumption that it is self-generating and irresistible. It has discounted continuing prosperity by accepting good times as permanent and going into debt in expectation that things will stay good, or get better.

They probably will get better. That is an understatement. They will get better. The history of the United States is that they get better. Better, bigger and boomier. American population alone increases by something over a million a year. Think of the new wants and needs and customers coming up every year. Nothing can stop America.

Ah, but that is in the long run. The trouble is the short run. If once the interim pace slowed down, the fact that debt is widespread would make a difficult situation for the economic engineers in Washington who are trying to spread out the boom without letting it get out of control.

A survey made by a New York finance firm recently showed installment debt outstanding rose $5,400,000,000 last year, or 24 per cent compared to gains in the four preceding years averaging only 12.5 per cent. Corporate indebtedness has reached a point where the independent Federal Reserve Board has increased the discount rate five times in a year.

This has caused not very well-disguised wrath in the Treasury Department. Treasury officials think the Reserve Board should have waited a while before this latest advance. If the brakes are pushed down too sharply against credit expansion, the Treasury thinks it might produce that very slump which everyone is trying to avoid.

The Administration is in no position to protest. President Eisenhower campaigned in 1952 on the slogan of keeping the Federal Reserve System independent of the Treasury. (The Reserve Board was tied to the Treasury in the war and only got liberated in 1951.)

That was one of a number of things that seemed different to the incoming Administration before taking office and after taking office. Now the Reserve Board is pushing down on the brakes, sending up the cost of financing Treasury debt, and the Treasury is unhappy. It will be weeks or months yet before we know what the effect is, if any.

The best rationalization this reporter has seen of the new big debt philosophy is by a Federal Reserve governor, James K. Vardaman, made in 1955. Whether you like it or not, he argued, the new financial custom is here to stay. Fashions have changed. The young couple expects the good things of life and won't wait for them. Sixty per cent of American families now use consumer credit, he said.

I must add one thing. The universal postulate is that if anything happens to the nation's economy the Government will step in. "Washington won't permit a recession." In other words, final responsibility rests on the Administration.

This is all well and good—but it has never yet been definitely shown that Washington can stop a recession if it goes beyond a certain point. Maybe it can. Maybe it can't.

UFO Skeptics Confounded

Wesley Girvan. (Garden City, N.Y., $3.50)

There has been so much nonsense written about flying saucers that this book can serve an admirable purpose in clearing away some of the double-talk and laying bare the arguments for and against belief. The author is a British publisher who has published several books on the subject (including the Adamski account of meeting a Venusian and Cedric Allingham's story of an encounter with a Martian pilot), but he disclaims any commercial bias on the ground that his interest in this controversial matter antedates his publishing venture by several years.

Instead of another rehash of reports of sightings of unidentified flying objects, Mr. Girvan has written a tough-minded analysis of the skeptics' principal objections, vigorously brandishing the facts that still do not fit any of the conventional theories advanced by the doubters. His reasoning is eminently fair even though he is inclined to equate incredulity with churlishness, especially where the critics cry "Hoax!" without troubling to acknowledge that they do not understand.

A major point in Mr. Girvan's favor is that he invites the reader's attention to the undeservedly neglected writings of Charles Fort, a highly original thinker who spent a lifetime collecting data about strange phenomena in the skies during the last century. Many of the unexplained aerial objects described in Fort's writings were seen long before the Wright brothers came into use, and though at the time they were not called "saucers" they tally exactly with the descriptions of saucers seen by observers during the past 10 years.

The long history of these sightings reinforces Mr. Girvan's contention that once you admit the solid reality of just one saucer you are obliged to accept the interplanetary explanation of their origin. JACK ALDRIDGE.

Great Portuguese Painter

NUNO GONCALVES, by Rinaldo Dos Santos.
(Phaidon Press-Garden City, $8.50)

Nuno Goncalves, to quote from Anthony Blunt's foreword to this volume, "is the last great artist of the fifteenth century to have been disintegrated by oblivion." Few art-lovers can name a Portuguese painter of the first rank, yet Goncalves undoubtedly was one. In his lifetime his work as court painter was famous throughout Europe, yet after his death he was forgotten for four centuries. It was the rediscovery of his masterpiece, the altar piece in the Monastery of St. Vincent in Lisbon, 75 years ago that recalled his existence. In this new Phaidon volume the complete altar piece is reproduced on folding pages, after which the impressive details are separately considered. On the strength of this single work alone, it is clear that Goncalves was a master of composition and portraiture of high order.

For American Innocents

THE POOR MAN'S GUIDE TO EUROPE, by David Dodge. (Random House, $3.50)

Ever since the war—and that's 10 years ago—European hoteliers and tradesmen have been skillfully separating American tourists from their dollars, sometimes with finesse, more often without as much as a smile. And just as determinedly David Dodge has been trying these past three years to teach American innocents abroad how to circumvent the vultures by getting what they want in Europe with the minimum dollar wastage.

This is the 1956 edition of his now-anual manual of cash conservation, brought up to date with fresh tips and—pardon me—dodges. Our author's style is light, his advice specific, and he names names—those to be sought out and those to be avoided—all down the line. Unless you are in the six-figure income bracket, you would be well advised to take this little book to Europe with you next time you go.

The Mason-Dixon Party Line

From The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin

Democratic leaders got a hint from Walter Reuther that they can go too far in appeasing the South. The president of the United Automobile Workers said the Democratic party "cannot have Mr. Eastland and have us at the same time."

Senator Eastland of Mississippi is the chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and, aside from his bitter opposition to desegregation, he is no friend of the labor movement.

Because of the seniority rule and Democratic control of Congress, Southern Senators are well entrenched in positions of influence in Washington. Senator Byrd of Virginia is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Senator Ellender of Louisiana of the Agriculture Committee. Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas is majority leader.

These Southerners are all conservatives, having more in common with right-wing Republicans than they have with liberal Democrats of the North.

But if the Democrats have to keep the South in line, they also must carry Northern states to win. Reuther's warning is a reminder of that fact; for the big and little cities of the North are the bases of Democratic strength. How to keep it and not lose the South is the number one problem of Democratic leadership.

MENU FOR THE STUBBORN ONE.

From The Montreal Star.

The foreman reported that the jury was unable to reach a verdict. The judge reproved them, saying that the case was a very clean one and one upon which an early verdict should have been reached. Then he remanded them to the jury room for further deliberations.

"And if you don't reach a verdict before evening," the judge added, "I'll have 12 suppers sent in to you." "May it please your honor," spoke up the foreman, "but I suggest you make it 11 suppers and a bale of hay."

WALTER LIPPMANN

NATO Ground Army Held Out of Date

WASHINGTON. THE SPRING MEETING IN PARIS of the NATO powers has been preceded by considerable headshaking about the prospects of the alliance. The Iceland Parliament would like the American troops to go home. The French have moved large parts of their army from the central front in Germany to North Africa.

Adenauer.

The Germans are putting off a conscription law because military service is unpopular and because business is booming. Just below the official surface in Germany there is a strong disposition to treat the German membership in NATO, not as vital to German security but as a bargaining point in dealing with the Soviet Union.

As Dr. Adenauer's Germany and France are the two big countries most vulnerable to the Red Army, the way they are behaving has made many ask themselves whether NATO is disintegrating. I should like to argue that what is disintegrating is not the foundation of NATO but a superstructure that is obsolete.

Help If Attacked.

What are the foundations of NATO? They consist, to speak plainly, of a North American guarantee to go to war if there is a Soviet military aggression across the frontiers of the members of the NATO alliance.

The fundamental idea is that if the United States, assisted by its NATO allies, has adequate military forces in being, the commitment to act at once will deter aggression. This was the original conception of the North Atlantic alliance, and there is not the slightest reason for thinking that this fundamental guarantee is any less firm today than it ever was before. There is no doubt at all that the United States would go immediately to war if an aggressive attack against the NATO territory were launched.

An Infantry Pact.

Upon this fundamental guarantee there has been erected a superstructure, not originally contemplated when the alliance was formed, consisting of an international army. The superstructure was added on the assumption that if the Soviet Union decided for a war of aggression, it would use the Red army to invade and conquer Western Germany, the Low Countries, Scandinavia and France.

This assumption was adopted before the Soviet Union had developed serious nuclear power.

WASHINGTON.

It was adopted in the days when the main military instrument of the Soviet Union was its infantry. On this assumption, which was most strongly held in the bad days of the Korean war, the NATO powers decided to build up a large European army which was to include strong West German forces. The troubles of NATO have been almost wholly concerned with this army superstructure.

As far as there are signs of disintegration in NATO, it is a disintegration of the plans for this superstructure. Neither the French nor the Germans, the nations presumably most interested in the NATO army, seem to be taking it very seriously.

No Fear of Invasion.

It is often said that their lack of interest is due to the wiles and guiles of the new Soviet tactics. This is, I think, a superficial explanation. The real explanation is that there are few people left in France and in West Germany, or indeed anywhere, who think that World War III could take the form of an attempt to invade Western Europe.

It is not that the Western nations have been lulled into thinking that there is no danger of war. They are very much afraid of war. But they are afraid of a different kind of war. They do not think that the war they are afraid of will be begun or will be decided on the ground in the middle of Europe.

Time for Reappraisal.

This view is not confined to the masses of the people, who, it is often supposed, are beguiled by the new Soviet propaganda. The view is general, though not universal, that invasion by the Red Army is not the real military problem—given the abundance of nuclear weapons on both sides and the nuclear stalemate.

In so far as there is a lack of interest in NATO, it comes from the top down and derives from the feeling that the strategic planning in respect to the ground forces may be out of date.

If this is correct, then what NATO needs first of all is a reappraisal of its strategic concepts. Such a reappraisal will not impair, indeed it would reinforce, the fundamental guarantee which is the heart of the matter.

BOYD CARROLL CITED AS 'GREAT REPORTER'

Post-Dispatch Man Among Five Getting Missouri U. Medals.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 4.—Boyd F. Carroll, Jefferson City correspondent of the Post-Dispatch for 32 years, was cited as "a great reporter" today when he received a medal of honor for distinguished service to journalism at the University of Missouri.

He was one of five newspaper men honored in ceremonies climaxing journalism week. A sixth award went to the Los Angeles Times.

The annual banquet will be held tonight following the dedication of a Sigma Delta Chi plaque commemorating the university as the site of the first school of journalism in the world.

Others honored at the ceremony were Louis N. Bowman, editor and publisher of the Tri-county News, King City, Mo.; Allen Kander, founder and president of Allen Kander and Co., Washington, D.C.; newspaper brokerage firm; Alfred H. Kirshofer, editor of the Buffalo (N.Y.) Evening News, and William Mapel, president of the Publishers' Association of New York.

The Times award was accepted by Irving M. Ramsdell, chief editorial writer.

Text of Citations.

Citations, read to the recipients by Dean Earl English of the School of Journalism as he presented the medals, read as follows:

"To Boyd Carroll, in recognition of his distinguished career, covering nearly a third of a century, as state capital correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; and in recognition of his long and successful career as editor and publisher of one of Missouri's best weekly newspapers; his leadership through many years, in the Missouri Press Association and the Northwest Missouri Press Association; and his devotion to the service of his community and his state."

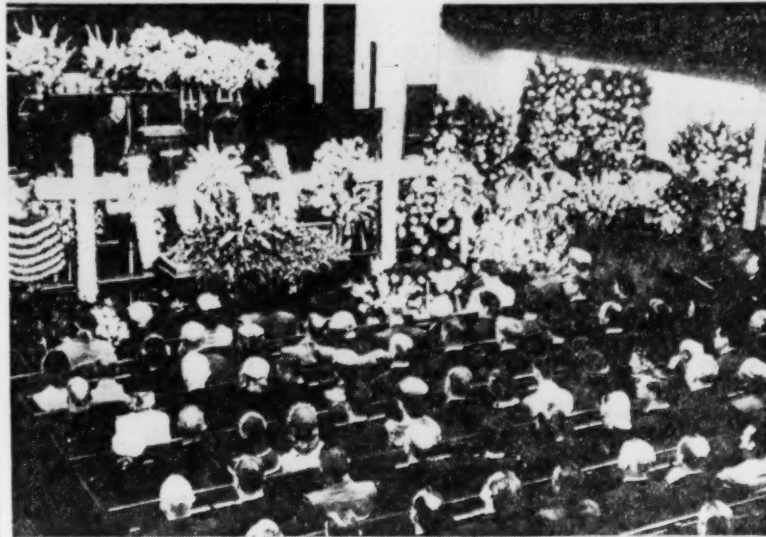

"To Allen Kander, in recognition of his position as the country's leading newspaper broker, together with his excellent philosophy of newspaper ownership, which tends to develop loyalty to newspaper properties and their traditions; and his wide understanding of management problems in publishing, in radio, and in television."

Other Citations.

"To Alfred H. Kirshofer, in recognition of his more than 40 years of wise and skillful service to the Buffalo Evening News, largest New York daily outside Manhattan; his loyalty and unstinting contribution to the work of the professional organizations in journalism, and especially to that of the American Council on Education for Journalism; and his devotion to the ideals of his chosen calling."

"To William Mapel, in recognition of his 75 years of service to the people of Los Angeles and Southern California; his loyalty in these years, through outspoken utterance, to the policies in which his great

BURIED AT PADUCAH

Statesmen and Negro Servants Among Thousands Paying Final Respects.

PADUCAH, Ky., May 4 (AP)—United States Senator Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky's elder statesman with the common touch, was buried in his hometown yesterday with a former United States President, Statesmen and his Negro servants gathered at graveside to pay their final respects.

Fifteen hundred friends filled the Broadway Methodist Church with thousands others ringing the outside during the 25 minute service. It was a simple service. At the request of Mrs. Barkley, the Rev. William Evans, pastor of the church, did not deliver a planned eulogy.

Former President Harry S. Truman was among the thousands who filed past the huge bronze casket at the Harris undertaking establishment for an hour and 20 minutes before the funeral service.

Mr. Barkley, a vice president during the Truman administration and a government official for a half century died Monday of a heart attack at Lexington, Va., when delivering a speech. He was 78 years old.

Among the hundreds gathered in the church were three of the most prominently mentioned men for the Democratic nomination for President—Adlai Stevenson, Estes Kefauver and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

In the church, Negro servants from Mr. Barkley's home, "Angles," sat in the front row.

Mrs. Barkley, Mr. Barkley's son, David Barkley, and the senators two daughters, Mrs. Douglas MacArthur II and Mrs. Max O. Truitt, and a daughter of Mrs. Barkley by a previous marriage, Mrs. Weldon Behrend, all of Washington, sat near the front.

Tomorrow's Events

Meeting: Annual spring meeting of American Association of University Women; McMillan hall, Washington University campus; 12:30 p.m.

Musie: Festival of Music; Graham Memorial chapel, Washington University campus; beginning 8 p.m. through Monday.

Children's program: "The Great Earthquake," by Mrs. Frank Groom Kirtz; Missouri Historical Society, Jefferson Memorial, 10:30 a.m.

Museum programs: Mary Powell, story hour for children 8 to 11, "The Prize Fight," Betty Grossman, for children 12 and older, "The New Decade," Jaquelin Ambler, for adults, "Some Gardens in Europe," City Art Museum, Forest Park; 2:30 p.m.

It was a six mile drive from the church to the Mount Kenton cemetery. People lined the entire route.

Mr. Barkley's body was returned to Paducah from Washington yesterday morning by a special 10-car train on which his widow and 40 of his associates and close friends were passengers.

SCHOOL ART CONTEST

WINNERS SELECTED

St. Louis Wins Scholarship to Academy in Chicago.

Winners in the National High School Art Exhibition in this area were announced today by the sponsors, Stix, Baer & Fuller Department Store and Scholastic Magazine.

Paul White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Acey White, 3732 Cote Brilliante avenue, won a scholarship to the American Academy of Art, Chicago. He was graduated from Vashon High School last January.

Richard Godwin, a senior at Webster Groves High School, was awarded a scholarship to the Art Center Association, Louisville, Ky. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Godwin, 102 Mason road, Webster Groves. In local competition he was awarded three keys and three places.

David T. Dubbink, a senior at Collinsville High School, was awarded a scholarship to Cleveland Institute of Art, Cleveland, O. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Dubbink, 536 St. Louis road, Collinsville. He also was awarded three keys and three places in local competition.

An award of $25 went to Daniel Magidson of John Burroughs School for his work in mixed media. Exhibition pieces mentioned were done by Janet Depping of John Burroughs; Oliver Fancher and Vicky Tolley, both of A. A. Hoeh Junior High School, St. Ann; Linda Dubinsky, John Burroughs, and Richard Godwin.

The Strathmore award of $25 went to Dorene Wilderman of Alton Senior High School. Additional $25 awards went to Hugh Bramhall, Lynda Hower and Marcella Unterbrink, also of Alton Senior High School.

Mentioned for exhibition pieces were Miss Hower, Ralph Coats and Marie Jenkins, both of East Alton Junior High School; David Dubbink of Collinsville High School and Ollie Davidson, George Washington Carver School, East St. Louis.

There were exhibits from 132 junior and senior high schools in the local competition. A total of 148 of these works were sent to Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh to be judged for national honors. The entire exhibition in Pittsburgh will contain 1500 works from all over the country.

This display opens there tomorrow.

His widow and 40 of his associates and close friends were passengers.

JUDGE HOLT ELECTED TO METHODIST POST

St. Louisan to Serve 8 Years on Church's 'Supreme Court.'

By JOHN T. STEWART

Church Editor of the Post-Dispatch

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 4.—St. Louis Circuit Judge Ivan Lee Holt Jr. was elected last night to the judicial council of the Methodist Church.

The nine-member council of the supreme court of the church passes on all constitutional matters and on disputed rulings by bishops, and interprets the meaning of church law and of rules laid down in the Methodist Discipline. Its decisions are final.

A council member serves eight years. The council must sit at all meetings of the General Conference, and meets at other times on call.

Elected on Fifth Ballot.

Judge Holt was elected on the fifth secret ballot, with 214 votes necessary to elect. He received 352 votes. He is 43 years old today. He had to be 40 to be eligible for election.

One more layman and three ministers were elected to the judicial council by this General Conference; one minister and one layman were re-elected, and there are two holdovers, one minister and one layman.

Bishop Holt was not present when his son, Judge Holt, was elected; he had returned to St. Louis to conduct the funeral service of Mrs. Gale Johnston. He performed the marriage ceremony for Mr. and Mrs. Johnston when he was pastor of St. John's Methodist Church in St. Louis.

Bishop Holt has been named to preside over the closing session of this General Conference tentatively set for Monday. It will be his last appearance at a conference as an active bishop of his church; he retires at the end of June.

$12,200,000 Contributions Sought.

Methodists will be asked to contribute $12,200,000 a year to their church's world program for the next four years.

This annual service budget adopted yesterday by the General Conference is an increase of 26 per cent over the last four years. The record amount does not include administrative costs.

Almost three-fifths of the world service budget is earmarked for missions. Smaller amounts go to education, ministerial training, pensions, evangelism, and other programs.

The General Conference voted yesterday to consolidate the two offices of the Board of Pensions, Chicago, and St. Louis, at the Chicago office. The pensions program for min-

WOMEN VOTERS PICK 2-YEAR STUDY TOPICS

League to Investigate Individual Liberties and Water Resources.

The New York Times News Service.

CHICAGO, May 4.—The League of Women Voters re-elected Mrs. John G. Lee of Farmington, Conn., president yesterday at its twenty-second biennial convention here. It also adopted a program of study and action to be pursued for the next two years by its 125,000 members in the forty-eight states.

By overwhelming majorities, the 1200 delegates voted to concentrate on individual liberties and evaluation of the nation's water resources.

An attempt to add a third project, promotion of international economic development and economic assistance, was defeated. It was held that it would have put too heavy a work load on local leagues. It will remain on the list of items supported by the league, but not intensively studied and acted upon.

The convention voted for "evaluation of the federal loyalty-security programs, recognizing the need for safeguarding national security and protecting individual liberties. Proponents declared the evaluation was needed to determine whether government policies were meeting present needs.

These policies, one speaker said, are based on the fear of Communism, which she said was "a negligible threat today." They should be designed to combat espionage, which she asserted was "the real danger today."

Other delegates argued that United States foreign policy could not compete abroad with the Soviet Union unless it demonstrated to the world that American citizens truly enjoyed democratic rights.

An alarming picture of the nation's water situation was drawn as delegates from all regions debated the conservation topic. Women from states where water is now plentiful were as apprehensive about the future as those from drought and dustbowl areas.

In other elections yesterday, Mrs. Harold D. Dyke of Syracuse, was chosen first vice president, and Mrs. John F. Latimer of Washington, D. C., second vice president.

isters lists permanent endowment funds as more than $46,000,000.

The St. Louis office will be maintained as an investment office only. The Rev. Dr. Archie T. McIlwain, executive secretary in charge of the St. Louis office, is retiring by age limitation.

St. Louisans Need Adventurous Spirit To Uplift Downtown

By TED SCHAFERS and RAY NOONAN
Globe-Democrat Staff Writers
(Last of a Series)

St. Louis needs a fresh spirit of adventure, daring, and individualism—qualities which have begun to slip in the city's downtown area. The city's downtown area is the heart of the city's business and financial life. It is the area where the city's future is being built. It is the area where the city's spirit is being tested. It is the area where the city's soul is being saved.

TAX ATTORNEYS FIGHTING OUSTER OF ELLIS N. SLACK

Raising Funds to Help Tax Official Suspended After Clash With Judge Moore.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—A group of Washington and St. Louis attorneys specializing in tax matters is fighting the suspension of Ellis N. Slack, Justice Department official who figured prominently in the Truman administration tax scandals, it was learned today.

For some months, the group, which calls itself "The Ellis Slack Defense Committee," has been raising money to help Slack in his efforts to win reinstatement as chief of the appellate section of the Justice Department's tax division.

The committee is headed by Samuel O. Clark Jr., a Washington lawyer and a former assistant attorney general in charge of the tax division in the Roosevelt Administration.

Suspended Without Pay. Slack was suspended without pay last Dec. 1. The charges against him were not made public by the Justice Department but were understood to relate in part to his alleged interference with a St. Louis grand jury which investigated tax fixing.

Slack reportedly suggested to the grand jurors on March 21, 1951, that they issue a partial report saying they could find no evidence of tax fixing.

The report angered United States District Judge George H. Moore of St. Louis, and he gave the jury new instructions blueprinting a method of getting at the facts. The jury resumed its inquiry and returned an indictment against James P. Finnegan, former collector of Internal Revenue in St. Louis.

Joseph A. Fanelli, Washington attorney representing Slack in the present suspension case, told the Post-Dispatch the defense committee has raised a "substantial" sum of money to the ousted official. He declined to specify the amount.

Fanelli said members of the committee, many of whom know Slack, believe he has been done an "injustice." Slack has consistently denied that he interfered in the grand jury inquiry.

Press Conference Monday. The committee has called a press conference for next Monday, at which time it will discuss its efforts and make public material relating to the charges against Slack, Fanelli said. He added that he was not a member of the defense group.

Fanelli said Miss Carolyn E. Agger, a Washington tax attorney, was treasurer of the group and that he had been receiving his checks from her.

Until his death recently, Randolph E. Paul, a former general counsel of the Department of the Treasury and a special presidential assistant, was a member of the defense committee, Fanelli said. Paul was well known as an author in the field of federal tax law.

Another member of the committee reportedly is Charles S. Lyon, assistant attorney general in charge of the tax division in 1952 and 1953 and former deputy chief counsel in the Nuernberg war trials.

Month to Answer Charges. Under Justice Department procedure, Slack has until the end of this month to answer the charges. After he does that, the department will make a decision and if it goes against Slack, he has the right to a hearing before the Civil Service Commission and a Commission review of his case, Fanelli said.

At one point in the 1951 inquiry, Judge Moore told J. Howard McGrath, then Attorney General, that Slack "seemed to want" the grand jury to write the partial report, which was referred to as a "whitewash."

The late Drake Watson, who was United States Attorney in St. Louis, told Judge Moore the report was prepared by one of his assistants at Slack's suggestion.

Watson told the judge he read the report to Slack over the telephone and "Mr. Slack approved of it and said, 'Yes, that is just what I wanted! It is short and to the point, and all that sort of thing.'"

1869 BIAS BAR EXTENDED IN DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—The commissioners of the District of Columbia yesterday extended to the entire district an 1869 bar by the old city of Washington against racial discrimination in places of amusement. The old city included only about the central fifth of the present district.

The commissioners, acting under their power to issue police regulations, said violation of the order would be punished by a fine of $50 to $300.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People requested the order last week.

PARIS, May 4 (AP)—Yugoslav President Josip (Tito) Broz is due in France Monday for a state visit. A Foreign Office announcement said the Communist chief of state would stay five days as the guest of President Rene Coty.

Tito's visit has been in the works for almost two years. He visited Britain in March 1953. The Foreign Office said the Yugoslav chief would be accompanied by his wife, Jovanka—who didn't make the British trip—and Foreign Secretary Koca Popovic.

KIDNAPPED!

Official Washington first learned the shocking truth from Newsweek on April 18 and wasted no time...

The 5 Russian seamen who'd requested and received political asylum in this country seemed to have changed their minds when they boarded the plane at New York for Russia on April 7. . . .

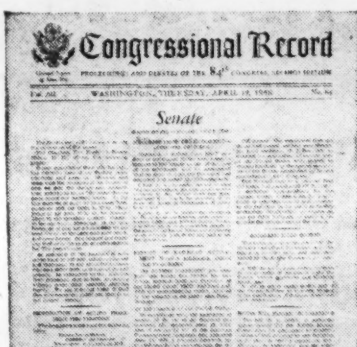

But one man smelled a rat—Leon Volkov, former Soviet air force colonel and for three years Newsweek's expert on Russian affairs. Just last Christmastime he'd reported in Newsweek that the expatriates (quite happy here, above) were being pressured to return by top Kremlin diplomats in the U.S.

Having gathered evidence from fellow crewmen still here, from friends and even a fiancée, Newsweek on April 18 broke the story that the five had been terrorized into returning home.

Immediately the Senate Internal Security subcommittee launched a searching investigation inspired by the Newsweek disclosure. And Newsweek (shown above on the table) was used as a guide during the examination of witnesses. The evidence was conclusive.

Newsweek's key role was read into the Congressional Record on April 19, and the U.S. State Department effected the dismissal of two members of the Soviet U.N. delegation, involved in the kidnapping.

Senators Walker and Jenner of the Internal Security subcommittee asked also for the expulsion of Arkady Sobolev (shown above), chief Russian delegate to the United Nations, named by Newsweek as the chief engineer of the abduction plan.

. . . And Volkov, member of Newsweek's tremendously accomplished Washington Bureau, was commended by the subcommittee's chairman . . . with assurances that the loopholes which made the kidnapping possible would be plugged.

The foregoing case history is one example from one issue of Newsweek, revealing why this magazine commands top respect among the key government people in the nation's capital—and in the influence and decision echelons of all areas of American life.

FROM Washington, D.C. to Washington State, America's key people read Newsweek because it provides a unique and vital news service which itself "makes news."

Newsweek gives the news and its significance—probes the underlying forces and people; and from this enlightened vantage point, estimates the most likely outcome.

This has drawn to Newsweek a circulation of more than one million, concentrated almost exclusively in Business, Industry and Government. By any measurement, America's most significant million.

AMERICA ALSO READ THESE GREAT "NEWS FIRSTS" IN NEWSWEEK

U.S. Air Force Brainwashing of Own Men Revealed (Newsweek, September 7, 1955)—subsequently featured by newspapers coast to coast. Acknowledged by Secretary of the Air Force Donald A. Quarles (Newsweek, September 14, 1955).

Nixon's Decision on Running is up to Nixon, President declares (Newsweek, March 7, 1956). Confirmed by Mr. Eisenhower later the same day, and in the nation's headlines that same night.

U.S. LAGGING BEHIND RUSSIA IN BRAINPOWER

United States high school students are taking their mathematics and scientific training from teachers who are not qualified to teach these subjects.

"See for Yourself," William Benton, former assistant Secretary of State, told the Congressmen Tuesday. "I urge the entire membership of this subcommittee to go to the Soviet Union and see for yourself. . . . Take some key members of the Appropriations committee along with you. . . . Talk to the students and see them work. You will come back prepared to convey that sense of urgency which is so urgently necessary."

Official Washington has been quietly worried about this problem for a long time. Secretary of State Dulles has been telling the National Security Council and the congressional leaders that he is more worried about the export of Russian scientists and engineers in the next 10 years than he is about the export of Russian arms or consumer goods.

Returning American diplomats have been reporting other aspects of the same problem to the President and the Secretary of State. One of them, returned from Libya, reported that the Russians moved into that country with a mission of 15 Arabic speaking diplomats, while the United States mission at that time had only one language officer who was shortly thereafter transferred to another post out of the Arabic speaking area.

Language Program Improved. The Government language training programs are improving. The Army language school at Monterey, Calif., is apparently doing an outstanding job. It has 550 language teachers and 2300 language students. Congress has greatly increased the funds for language training in the foreign service and the embassies in the last year. There are now three main language schools in Tokyo for Japanese, in Formosa for Chinese, and in Beirut for Arabic. Also, language training is going on in over 100 embassies and legations elsewhere in the world, and in eight countries for Air Force personnel.

The record in United States high schools, however, is not encouraging. Though six years of foreign language study is compulsory for every Russian boy and girl in the first 10 years of school, only 14 per cent of all United States public high school students are now enrolled in any modern language class, and over 56 per cent of United States public high schools offer no modern foreign language instruction at all.

Dulles recently conceded that the United States was at a serious disadvantage because of the difficulty in finding persons who can deal with foreign languages. Likewise, the Hoover Commission reported that "lack of adequate linguistic preparation often has proved a serious handicap to our representatives abroad."

Nevertheless, while the lag in air power has occupied the headlines all week, the lag in brainpower training has been almost totally ignored.

Meanwhile, the Administration's school-building legislation, designed to help deal with the mounting school population, is bottled up in the committees of the House and Senate and deeply entangled in election-year politics.

Nevertheless, Washington is gradually waking up to the long-range educational problems of a nation with worldwide responsibilities.

ness. He was thoroughly composed and his answers were clear.

Others on the witness stand so far are the usual run of unappetizing characters and they are setting up new records for the number of times they plead the privilege against self-incrimination.

Chotiner flatly denied using influence on their behalf, in any way, shape or form. The Senators — fellow politicians and, all but one, fellow lawyers — were super-polite to the Vice President's associate and repeatedly assured him he was well within his rights in his practice and his testimony.

ignite and, burning only a short time, will accelerate the vehicle to 18,000 miles an hour, 25,000 feet a second. It will then separate from the sphere, and the two bodies will move on their own ways. Ten minutes after launching, the vehicle will be 1500 miles away from Florida and in its orbit.

The satellite will encircle the earth every 90 minutes.

From the satellites to be sent up, science hopes to learn much of value as to the composition of the atmosphere, the nature of cosmic rays, electron densities, electric currents, radiation fields and "new things about the activity of the sun," Hagen said.

U.S. REPORTED OFFERING AFGHANS MILLIONS IN AID

KARACHI, May 4 (UP) — High American sources in Pakistan's capital said today the United States would offer Afghanistan millions of dollars worth of economic aid in an effort to keep the "hermit kingdom" from going Communist.

They said United States authorities agreed to aid Afghanistan last month, after Ambassador Angus Ward resigned in protest against State Department indecision. Sheldon T. Mills has arrived in Kabul to take Ward's place.

3-YEAR-OLD GIRL FOUND ON STREET, PARENTS SOUGHT

A golden-haired girl about 3 years old was being cared for at City Hospital today while police tried to find her parents. She was found wandering in the 1000 block of Mississippi avenue about 7 o'clock last night, wearing a yellow sunsuit. She weighs about 30 pounds, and says her name is Alice, but that is all.

The child was taken first to the Lynch street district station, but a policeman there could get no clue to where she lives. When no one had reported a lost child by shortly before midnight she was taken to the hospital.

RED BIG BOMBER OUTPUT BELIEVED 100 TO 47 OF U.S.

Estimate Reported Given to Senate Inquiry Group by American Intelligence.

By ANTHONY LEVIERO
The New York Times News Service.
Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.

WASHINGTON, May 4—Russia was reported yesterday to have produced slightly more than 100 B-52s, the bomber comparable to the Boeing B-52 intercontinental bomber. It was understood this was an intelligence estimate passed on to the Senate subcommittee on the Air Force which is investigating the adequacy of United States air power in the face of the Russian threat.

The intelligence report was the latest disturbing note in the story of mounting Soviet air power that is being pieced together in Washington.

The 100 B-52s compared with the total of 78 B-52s thus far produced, only 47 of which have been accepted by the Air Force. But Gen. Curtis LeMay, commander of the Strategic Air Command, disclosed Wednesday that the Air Force had to reject 31 of the Boeing strato-cruisers because of a "serious" defect that will be corrected in a relatively short time.

Gen. LeMay's appearance before the subcommittee headed by Senator Stuart Symington (Dem., Missouri), climaxed a long series of reports to Congress, speeches by civilian and military officials of the Administration and members of Congress on the rise of Soviet airpower.

Slight Concern Shown. Yesterday the House Appropriations Committee reported out the Administration's $34,147,850,000 defense appropriation bill with no great change and expressed only slight concern over the condition of United States airpower.

The piecemeal flow of reports and opinions on Soviet developments, which began with the flights of new aircraft in unexpected numbers over Moscow on May day 1955, has caused confusion and dismay in Washington.

Nevertheless the predominant note even in the Administration's own reports was that Russia was forging ahead of this country in two respects: In total number of aircraft and in a few types that could strike this country from only at home and in its overseas bases.

It is understood that Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chief of staff of the Air Force, will seek to restore some balance to the airpower issue. In a future appearance before the Symington committee he is expected to remind the country that the backbone of the Strategic Air Command consists neither of B-52s nor of B-36s.

1500 B-47 Bombers. The backbone is made up of 1500 B-47 medium jet bombers, which are capable of carrying the hydrogen or any other kind of bomb. And there are 1500 of these Boeing B-47s actually on the ready lines of Strategic Air Force bases not only at home but deployed all over the world.

The point about the B-47s is that this country has a great deal more of them than Russia has of its comparable Badgers. In discussing the swift rise of Soviet airpower last February before the House Armed Services Committee, Twining said: "To sum up, they (the Russians) have overtaken us, or can overtake us, in all categories of warplanes except that of the medium jet bomber."

There is general agreement that the United States Air Force is more than a match for the Soviet air force today. But on Monday Gen. LeMay laid before the subcommittee a challenge that neither Congress nor the Administration is likely to ignore.

LeMay said in essence that on the basis of present planning, this country will run into a crisis period in 1958-59 when the Soviet long range air force will have more striking power than the Strategic Air Command.

LeMay Preparing Plan. The committee took up the challenge by asking LeMay to submit his personal plan of what is needed to meet the Soviet threat in terms of B-52s, additional bases, equipment, refueling airborne tankers and personnel. LeMay has now gone to his headquarters in Omaha to prepare the plan which will not have to be submitted to Defense Department security censorship.

As yet there is no indication that the Administration will do more than let Defense Department representatives make the answer. In an effort to offset criticism of the defense program, President Eisenhower asked Congress on April 9 to add $547,000,000 to the budget, of which the major part was to increase the number and rate of production of B-52s and modifications of several bases to accommodate them. But LeMay took into account this additional request in his prediction of the crisis year.

In budgetary quarters in the Pentagon it was said the next new planning of B-52 production would be in the fiscal 1958 budget. The first firm estimates for this will be made in August or September. And on Tuesday Charles E. Wilson, Secretary of Defense, said in a press conference that the present schedule for B-52s was "very satisfactory" to Twining.

In reporting the defense appropriation bill with only minor reductions, the House Appropriations Committee expressed this view on the airpower problem:

"It has become evident that Soviet Russia is now a first-class airpower with a rapidly developing offensive as well as defensive capability. It has become evident that Soviet Russia will probably equal the United States in offensive airpower capability within a very few years unless the United States is to expand the overall size of its air force and substantially step up the production of aircraft."

The question to be resolved is what to do about it. Should we attempt to stay ahead of the Soviets in the overall size of our air force and in the numbers of aircraft to be produced, or should we attempt to maintain what is determined to be a sufficient air force equipped with the best modern aircraft to act as a deterrent to any possible aggression?

"As was testified by the Secretary of Defense and others, the current air force budget is based upon the latter determination."

BILL WOULD UPGRADE 32 WEST END BLOCKS

Measure Given to Aldermen Would Halt Spread of Rooming Houses.

A bill to rezone 32 West End blocks from multiple dwelling to two-family occupancy in an effort to halt the spread of rooming houses was introduced in the Board of Aldermen today.

Introduced by Alderman William C. Brady of the Twenty-sixth Ward, the bill would cover the area bounded roughly by N. 10th and N. 12th streets, E. 10th and E. 12th streets, and E. 14th and E. 16th streets. It is sponsored by the West End Community Conference. It would not affect presently licensed rooming houses in the area.

Another bill was offered that would prohibit discrimination in places of public accommodation because of race or color and would establish a division of anti-discrimination in the Council on Human Relations. On receipt of complaints, the division would investigate and try to induce compliance. If the effort failed, the division would refer the complaint to authorities for prosecution.

A companion bill would make it illegal to refuse to sell "necessities" in the same room to persons of different race or color and would set fines ranging from $5 to $25 for each offense. Penalties on the anti-discrimination bill would be fines of $25 to $500.

A uniform automobile allowance for all city employees who use their own cars would be set at $35 a month plus 4¢ a mile for each mile in excess of 100 each month in another bill introduced. It is sponsored by the AFL State County and Municipal Employees Union which has charged that widely varying and inadequate allowances are now in effect in the city service.

In accordance with a decision at a meeting of the board as a committee of the whole last week, the aldermen appointed a committee to study the transportation problem in St. Louis. Members named were Clinton Watson, Raymond Leisner, James E. Geisler, Archie Blaine, A. J. Cervantes, William Stolar and Carl Gassel.

Because the budget bill for the current fiscal year was not ready for introduction, the board recessed until May 18.

2 FINED, LOSE LICENSES FOR DRIVING WHEN DRUNK

Edwin J. Ollar, a supervisor, 2734 Osceola street, was sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse after he was found guilty today of driving when intoxicated by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd. Ollar also was fined $100 for leaving the scene of an accident, $50 for careless driving, and his driver's license was suspended for 90 days.

Police testified they arrested Ollar March 2 in the 3600 block of McDonald avenue after the automobile he was driving struck a parked car. They said that a short time earlier his car struck the rear of another automobile at Grand boulevard and Gravois avenue. Ollar denied the charges.

George Quest Sr., 2728A Accomac street, was fined $150 by Judge Dowd who found him guilty today of driving when intoxicated. Quest also was fined $25 for careless driving, and his driver's license was suspended for 90 days. Police testified that on April 23 the car he was driving struck a parked automobile.

AUTHOR OF SPEED LAW ASKS JUDGE TO BE LENIENT

Alderman Raymond Leisner, author of a traffic ordinance that has caused arrests of several of his relatives and many of his constituents, today wrote to Police Judge Robert G. Dowd asking him to go easy on the violators.

Leisner, Seventh ward Democrat, suggested that Judge Dowd "be as lenient as possible" for the present on persons caught exceeding the 20-mile-an-hour speed limit on streets surrounding the Clinton Peabody housing project.

He said he did not intend to "create a speed trap or financial hardship for citizens" but was merely trying to protect school children with his bill, which reduced the speed limit to 20 from 30 miles an hour near the housing project.

From a political viewpoint, the bill boomeranged, and many constituents have made life hard for Leisner, even threatening to throw rocks through windows of his tavern. The first group of persons arrested in the new speed zone is to appear before Judge Dowd Tuesday, including Mrs. E. G. Brungard, director of public welfare.

ATOM-POWERED PLANE BILL IS SIGNED BY EISENHOWER

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed legislation authorizing $70,000,000 for test facilities for atom-powered airplanes.

The sums are included in a $295,495,000 Atomic Energy Commission authorization measure. The actual money must be provided through separate legislation.

In signing the bill, the President asked Congress for a supplemental appropriation of $144,200,000 for projects authorized in the measure. James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said $138,300,000 is available from prior appropriations to help finance the projects.

JUDGE FACES COURT ORDER FOR BARRING REPORTERS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 4 (AP)—A Santa Rosa judge has orders from an appellate court to either open a murder trial to the press or tell the court next week the reasons for his refusal.

Superior Judge Donald Geary told reporters he would continue to bar reporters and thus "facilitate" a decision on the question of closed trials. The Third District Court of Appeal, acting on the request of four newspapers, yesterday ordered Judge Geary to appear next Thursday to show cause if he keeps courtroom doors locked to the press.

He barred reporters Tuesday after the defendant, Mrs. Charlotte Black, 63 years old, requested a closed trial. She is charged with shooting her husband last February.

MAYOR DESIGNATES WEEK FOR GOODWILL INDUSTRIES

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker designated the week beginning

Sunday as "Goodwill Week" yesterday in honor of Missouri Goodwill Industries.

The organization, which provides employment for disabled persons, assisted almost 500 handicapped workers last year, it was reported. Goodwill agencies in other states also will be honored next week in similar observances throughout the country.

INSPECTOR PARKER LIKELY TO RETIRE

Job Because of Auto Injuries.

St. Louis Police Inspector George Parker is expected to apply for retirement within a week because of injuries suffered in an automobile accident last year, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

His successor in all likelihood will be Maj. James F. Thompson, who has been acting inspector since last Nov. 7, when Parker was granted an indefinite sick leave by the Board of Police Commissioners.

Parker, who was named inspector in 1953 to succeed Otto F. Sells as part of a far-reaching shakeup of the entire department, suffered serious head injuries last June 7 in an automobile collision when he was hurrying to a riot at City Workhouse.

A member of the department since 1932, Parker was assistant chief of detectives until his appointment as inspector, a top assignment which carries the rank of lieutenant colonel and involves investigation of complaints against officers and other personnel problems.

Parker began as a patrolman in the Lynch street district and received special citations three times for his frequent captures of burglars and holdup men.

In 1940, he was promoted to detective sergeant and in 1944 was made a lieutenant in the Lynch street district. A year later, he became captain of the Lucas avenue district, a position he held until 1947, when he was promoted to assistant chief of detectives.

Parker is 55 years old. His probable successor, Maj. Thompson, also 55, headed the gambling squad until he became acting inspector. He has long been regarded as one of the most capable officers in the department.

E. B. MEISSNER JR. HEADS STATE HUMANE SOCIETY

Edwin B. Meissner Jr., executive vice president of St. Louis Car Co., was elected chairman of the board of the Humane Society of Missouri at its annual meeting last night at Forest Park Hotel. Winners in the "Be Kind to Animals" school competition were awarded prizes at the meeting.

Other officers elected for a one-year term include: R. Ford Buckley, vice chairman; Fritz K. Grobeck, president; G. Alex Hope, secretary; Floyd B. Ryan, treasurer, and Mrs. Elizabeth N. Parrish, assistant treasurer.

First place winners in the four contest divisions were Dorothy Wilson, student at Vashon High School; Dixie Lee, Eliot School, seventh and eighth grade group; Jean Grasser, Dewey School, fifth and sixth grade; and Kenneth Tucker, third and fourth grade division.

U.S. ASKED TO STUDY GAME REFUGE ON BOTTOM LAND

Clarence Davis, acting Secretary of the Interior, has been asked to explore the possibility of using land at the confluence of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers as a wild life refuge or historical monument, or a combination of both, it was announced today.

Representative Thomas B. Curtis of Webster Groves, in a letter to Davis, asked him to comment on the feasibility of the Federal Government acquiring the land for development. Curtis pointed out that a large portion of the land was acquired by the City of St. Louis for a second major airport and that considerable doubt now exists as to the suitability of the area for such a purpose.

Curtis also noted that the area was the starting point for the Lewis and Clark expedition, and is in the center of a wild fowl concentration now being heavily hunted.

635-TON BLAST FURNACE SHELL TO BE PUT IN PLACE

A 635-ton blast furnace steel shell was to be lowered onto a permanent position today on furnace columns at Granite City Steel Co., Granite City. The operation, which will require the shell be lowered about four feet, is expected to take about six hours.

Yesterday the 172-foot structure was moved a distance of 84 feet on steel rollers while company officials and spectators looked on.

The shell is part of a new blast furnace being constructed for the steel firm. It is expected to enable production to increase to 1200 tons of pig iron daily.

STOCK PRICE RALLY CUT INTO A CLOSE

Aircrafts and Oils Leaders in Upward Period — Rail Shares Lag.

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—The stock market advanced substantially today in early dealings and then sold off sharply at the finish to close with a moderate net gain on the day.

The rise put the market up close to its old record high levels reached last April 6 before it went into an irregular reaction.

Prices today were up around 4 points at the outside while losses extended to around a point or a little more.

Aircrafts and oils were leaders in the advance while the railroads were lagged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 40 cents at $191.30, only 20 cents under the record high.

The industrial component of the average was up 80 cents but the railroads backed down 20 cents, and the utilities were up 20 cents.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 241 points higher at $16.44 at the close.

The 20 rails reached the highest points since 1929 at 178.23, up 22 of a point for the day.

The 15 utilities gained 18 at 65.66.

There were 1205 individual issues traded, of which 615 issues advanced and 392 declined, with 117 new highs and 25 new lows for the year.

Trading amounted to an aggregate 2,860,000 shares, the day as compared with 2,640,000 shares traded yesterday when the market also was higher.

The best showing in the market came on the heels of President Eisenhower's press conference remarks that the Government's policy is to assure an adequate money supply.

William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, in a speech today defended the policy of the Reserve Board in raising money rates as a defense against inflation—a move that tends to choke off loans for unproductive business deals.

Higher with the oils and aircrafts were the coppers, railroads, chemicals and many of the higher priced individual issues.

Going up were New York Central, Sinclair Oil, T.X.I. Oil, Minnesota Mining, Du Pont, Aluminum, General Dynamics, Smith-Douglas, and Dixie Cup.

The new Standard Oil of California "when issued" stock began trading today at $39 on 10,000 shares, and 6000 shares of the old stock changed hands at 115 1/2 up 5 points. A block of 13,000 shares of Standard Oil of Indiana traded up 4 at $13 1/2.

BUSINESS WORLD

American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Co., declared a quarterly net earnings of $689,969, equivalent to 59 cents a share, compared with $508,745 or 43 cents a share in the like 1955 period. The increase in the net was 36 per cent. Sales and other income amounted to $18,776,705, against $18,792,778.

Miami Copper Co. declared a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share and an extra dividend of 75 cents a share, both payable June 12 to record date June 6. The company paid an extra dividend of 50 cents a share last June.

Phelps Dodge Corp., one of the nation's largest copper producers, reported first quarter earnings totaled $2,430,339, compared to $1,777,757 in the like 1955 period. Per share earnings were $2.31, compared to $1.50 for the preceding year. The company's sales for the period were $112,488,802 this year against $77,738,561 a year ago.

Republic Aviation Corp. reported earnings for the first quarter of 1956 were $2,129,663, or $1.45 a share. This compares with $3,929,383, or $2.96 a share, earned in like period last year.

Midwest Piping Co., Inc. reported net earnings for fiscal year ended Feb. 29 of $913,379, equivalent to $1.18 a share, compared with $1,466,441 or $1.90 a share for the preceding fiscal year. Sales for the year totaled $19,910,542, against $22,021,933. The decline in sales, the company said, reflected general conditions in the industry. This, coupled with the absorption of a considerable amount of nonrecurring plant modernization and consolidation cost during the year, resulted in decline in earnings.

Time deposits largely savings in St. Louis Clearing House banks for the second consecutive week made a new record high. This account rose $91,000 to a total of $212,147,000, compared with $212,056,000 last week. Demand deposits increased $8,064,000 in the week; loans and discounts increased $5,306,000 and stock accounts increased $3,341,000.

Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. announced a $7,500,000 expansion program to double electrolytic production of chlorine and caustic soda at the McIntosh (Ala.) plant.

U.S. Economy Today

BOTTLENECKS AND SOFT SPOTS

By Sam Dawson

THE ECONOMIC signs are so jumbled today that what's ahead for you depends a great deal on where you live and what you do. One set of business men are beset by material shortages, rising labor and material costs and a tight supply of skilled labor. For them, and for the bankers who are having a hard time to find the money to finance them, "the storm signals of inflation are flying."

Another set of business men are beset by slumping markets, declining sales, spreading employee layoffs and falling income. For them, and for the merchants in the towns where these industries operate, it looks as if deflation is on the way. "Bottle-necks and soft spots exist together," the First National City Bank of New York points out in its June letter.

"THE BUSINESS SITUATION IS CONCOCTED of a variety of inflationary and depressive forces, lacking any single tell-tale characteristic," the economists of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York confess. The difference in opinion apparently extends to Washington. One group there fears inflation and wants the money supply tightened and possibly a return to federal controls on credit. Another fears that the soft spots in the auto-farming industries will spread to others, and wants a stimulant to be given the economy now.

ANOTHER FACTOR TO CONFUSE THE SITUATION now—and one which the bankers don't mention—is that in a presidential election year any discussion of the economy and its future course must be explained for possible political purpose. On one point most observers agree now. As the First National City Bank puts it, "for the remainder of 1956 at least, the prospects of any material slackening in the heavy goods industries are small indeed." The bank sees an inflation danger in this because in some cases output is bumping against the ceiling of capacity. It notes:

"LACK OF STEEL, COPPER AND ALUMINUM imposes limits on durable goods output and heavy construction. Other materials, including cement, paper and nickel, are in short supply despite peak output. Skilled workers are becoming increasingly hard to find. For all these reasons production cannot rise proportionately with demand." The end result: Prices go up. Ray D. Murphy, chairman of the board of Equitable Life Assurance Society, sees the chief danger of inflation lying in the fact that the more than normal growth in the economy in recent months was achieved by going heavily into debt. C. A. Sienkiewicz of Philadelphia, president of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association, feels that the mood of confidence has "stimulated over-spending, over-borrowing and over-investing."

MANY BANKERS ARE ALSO WORRIED LEST another wage-price spiral be forming this year. Wages went up for most workers in the oil industry the first of the year. A 12½ cent an hour wage boost has just been given 150,000 men and boys' clothing workers. A big cement company has raised pay scales by 18 cents an hour. The steel workers will soon negotiate on their demands for a substantial pay boost. In these industries there is considerable talk of price rises to follow. What will happen when these forces making for inflation collide with the soft spots in the economy—especially if these should grow—is what has economists scratching their heads today.

BREAKING ALL ADVERTISING RECORDS . . .

THE ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH published approximately 3,700,000 lines of advertising during April, 1956 . . . a new high record for a single month.

Month after month during 1956, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is exceeding the record-breaking year of 1955. Here are the monthly gains in advertising:

January, 1956	185,690 Lines Gain or 6.9%
February, 1956	383,470 " " " 14.5%
March, 1956	203,360 " " " 6.3%
April, 1956	467,790 " " " 14.5%
First 4 Months, 1,240,310	" " " 10.5%

During the first 4 months of 1956, the Post-Dispatch published more than 13,000,000 lines of Paid Advertising to break all records for a St. Louis newspaper. The reason:

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch offers advertisers the most thorough and economical coverage available of the important St. Louis market.

TOUGH SPEEDING RULE PAYS OFF IN CONNECTICUT

HARTFORD, Conn., May 4 (UP)—When you drive into Connecticut a highway sign warns: "Don't speed. Conviction means loss of license."

Connecticut isn't kidding. For four months motorists in this state have been experiencing an unusual crackdown on highway speeding.

Traffic judges are under threat of losing their jobs if they "fix" speeding tickets. Any motorist convicted of speeding loses his driving license—30 days for first offenders, 60 days for repeaters.

Gov. Abraham Ribicoff ordered the crackdown four months ago and the first returns are in. In the first three months there were 10 fewer traffic deaths than in the corresponding period of 1955.

"This is highly gratifying," Ribicoff said, "but we still have a long way to go." The accident statistics also show that of the 19 fatalities that did occur in March, 16 were attributed to speeding.

The Governor says, "It's ironic that drivers won't slow down to save their lives but will slow to save their licenses."

TEXTILE TARGETS INCREASED BY RED CHINESE AUTHORITIES

HONG KONG, May 4 (INS)—Following the complete conversion of trade and industry into joint state-private enterprises the Communist Chinese authorities immediately revised their 1956 production targets for the textile industry. This year textile mills and factories will be expected to produce 22 per cent more cotton yarn, 25 per cent more cotton cloth and 87 per cent more floral prints than in 1955.

Ford Trucks Cost Less!

The pay-off is in the payload! New Ford T-800 tandem-axle model lets you carry up to 3,000 lbs. more payload than most other 6-wheelers. GCW 65,000 lbs.

More loadspace than any other 1/2-ton pickup —up to 19 cu. ft. more! New Ford F-100, GVW 5,000 lbs., now offers full 8-ft. box, 6 1/2-ft. box is standard.

Ford costs start low—
Ford costs stay low...

Certified studies show Ford Trucks last longer than any of the other four leading makes Compare Ford model for model with any other truck line and you'll find that, based on factory-suggested list prices, Ford has more models priced under competition than any other line.

But low initial cost is only one of the reasons why Fords cost less. Take resale value—it stays high, thanks to the demand for used Ford Trucks. Take operating costs—no other trucks give you the dependability of Ford's rugged chassis design with the gas and oil economy of a modern Short Stroke engine. Only Ford gives you a Short Stroke engine, V-8 or Six, in every truck—and at no extra cost.

Ford Trucks cost less to maintain because they last longer. This is a fact certified by independent life insurance experts. There are plenty of reasons why. Ford Pickups, for example, have the highest combined front and rear axle capacity in the half-ton field. Ford Heavy Duty engines have sodium-cooled valves that last up to five times longer because they run up to 225 degrees cooler.

When you take everything into consideration, you'll agree it costs less to own a FORD Truck. Before you buy any truck, see your Ford Dealer.

FORD TRUCKS LAST LONGER

Certified by independent insurance actuaries for the ninth consecutive year! Studies of over 10,068,600 current license registrations show that Ford Trucks last up to 9.9% longer than any of the other 4 leading truck makes!

PLANE EXPLOSION MURDER CASE IS READY FOR JURY

John Graham Charged With Planting Bomb
That Killed His Mother, 43 Others.

DENVER, May 4 (AP)—The state's charge that John Gilbert Graham killed his mother and 43 others by blowing up an airliner is ready for a jury of seven men and five women.

All evidence was completed yesterday in the case charging the 24-year-old defendant with putting a 25-stick dynamite time bomb in the suitcase of his mother, Mrs. Daisy E. King, 43.

She died in the explosion of a United Air Lines plane last Nov. 1 near Longmont, Colo., 11 minutes after taking off from Denver.

Final arguments by state and defense attorneys and instructions by the court will be given the jury today before it begins deliberations.

The defense rested after less than three hours of testimony that presented eight witnesses and 13 exhibits.

Graham did not take the stand before the jury. Previously he testified in the absence of the jury that his "confession" to the FBI was not true—that it was given under a threat the FBI was going to arrest his wife, Gloria, 22 for lying.

Three of the defense witnesses testified that Graham was in Denver last Oct. 22. That was the day a country storekeeper fixed as the probable date he sold "20 or 25 sticks" of dynamite to Graham.

Two of the witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Elson, parents of Graham's wife.

Graham's three court-appointed lawyers rested their case after Graham signed a waiver in which he said he did not want to testify. He also ruled out testimony by his wife or a court-appointed psychiatrist.

All of the jurors said before they would consider the death penalty "in the proper case." The court's instructions will include that the jury consider first degree murder punishable by death or life imprisonment. The penalty is fixed by the jury.

In contrast to the brief defense case, the prosecution presented 75 witnesses and more than 130 exhibits.

C.A.B. HOLDS UP ST. LOUIS-NEW YORK NON-STOP SERVICE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 4—The Civil Aeronautics Board declined today to permit American Airlines and Eastern Air Lines to offer immediately non-stop service between St. Louis and New York City, a service which also had been requested by the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis.

The St. Louis-New York service is a primary issue in CAB's eastern routes proceedings which will be heard this summer and there would be no useful purpose in acting on Eastern's and American's request separately, CAB officials said.

Meanwhile, North American Airlines, a group of non-scheduled airlines, petitioned CAB for a certificate to operate a network of scheduled routes, one of which would link San Francisco and Chicago by way of St. Louis.

JUDGE JOSEPH SABATH DIES, DOMESTIC RELATIONS EXPERT

CHICAGO, May 4 (AP)—Former Superior Court Judge Joseph Sabath, who was estimated to have handled 100,000 divorces and to have helped reconcile nearly 10,000 estranged pairs, died yesterday. He was 86 years old.

Judge Sabath retired in 1952 after 42 years of continuous services in municipal and superior courts. He attracted wide attention with his warm words of advice and bits of wit directed at estranged pairs who were not sure they wanted a divorce.

He was a brother of Adolph J. Sabath, Democratic Representative in Congress for 45 years, who died in 1951. Judge Sabath was born in Czechoslovakia and arrived in Chicago at the age of 15, penniless and worked at odd jobs by day and unable to speak English. He studied law at night to establish himself in his career.

MADISON PLANT WORKER KILLED IN 35-FOOT FALL

Clarence J. Leroy, 5400 Rosemont avenue, East St. Louis, a steamfitter, was killed in a 35-foot fall yesterday at the Dow Chemical Co. plant in Madison.

He was on some scaffolding working when a wind gust blew him off. He was knocked to the concrete floor by a piece of pipe. He was pronounced dead at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City.

PLAN OUTLINED HERE TO BACK STEVENSON

Organization Seeks Support
In Every Area of City and County.

Plans for setting up an organization to support the candidacy of Adlai Stevenson in every ward in St. Louis and every township in St. Louis county were outlined last night by the Stevenson-for-President Committee of Greater St. Louis.

The group, meeting at the Machinists' building, 3547 Olive street, also announced plans to raise $40,000 in the St. Louis area to be used in supporting his candidacy. A door-to-door campaign will be sponsored by the committee May 17 to solicit donations.

Lemone Skinner Jr., head of a public relations firm and chairman of the committee, said the organization hopes to obtain enough money from Stevenson supporters to sponsor him on a nationally televised program prior to the primary in California June 5.

Skinner said that chairmen already have been appointed in nine of the city's 28 wards and in seven St. Louis county townships. In addition, several precinct captains have been appointed and many workers recruited, he said.

Archibald S. Alexander, New York attorney, director of the National Stevenson for President committee, said, "I don't believe Stevenson is the underdog, but nobody is in this kind of a race."

The Stevenson-for-President Committee of Greater St. Louis has an office at Room 408, 511 Locust street.

DR. ARTHUR GUNDLACH'S 50TH YEAR AS PHYSICIAN

Dr. Arthur Gundlach, 73 years old, celebrated his fiftieth year today as a physician. He received more than 250 congratulatory cards from former and present patients in a surprise card shower promoted by his nurse, Miss Virginia Held, who has been working for him for the past 15 years.

Dr. Gundlach was graduated in 1906 from Washington University School of Medicine. He interned at St. Louis City Hospital, took his residency at St. Anthony Hospital and has practiced actively since then from the same office, 2202 University street, which was his home as a child.

He now lives at 8 Alden lane, Creve Coeur. He is married, has a daughter, Mrs. James Ingham of Webster Groves, and three grandchildren.

Belleville Has a $23,427 Deficit, First in 10 Years

A deficit of $23,427, the first deficit in 10 years, was announced yesterday for the city of Belleville by City Clerk Vic Geolot Jr.

For the year ending April 30, receipts totaled $928,205 and expenditures $952,232. The deficit was actually $2102 greater due to a cash surplus from the previous year.

Expenditures for the current year are expected to be somewhat greater due to an anticipated salary increase for city employees and the addition of 15 more employees for the police, fire and sanitation departments. However, revenues also are expected to be higher due to the one-half of 1 per cent city sales tax which went into effect last September.

KEFAUVER SAYS U.S. LAGS IN ATOM WORK

Blames Policy of Drift for Little Progress Toward Peaceful Uses.

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 4—Senator Estes Kefauver charged last night that "the Eisenhower Administration's policy of drift has lost us the lead in the struggle to put atomic power into the channels of peaceful use."

The Tennessee candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination spoke at a political rally here.

Kefauver and his rival for the presidential nomination, Adlai E. Stevenson, are vying for Florida's 28 votes at the Democratic National Convention in August. The issue will be decided in Florida's presidential preference primary May 29.

Laggardness Predicted. Kefauver said that "we Democrats knew when we fought against the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, sponsored by the Eisenhower Administration, that something like this kind of laggardness was going to take place."

He said that the Atomic Energy Commission "to date has sold $36 worth of electricity from a prototype reactor designed for use in submarines at West Milton, N.Y."

He said another reactor is being constructed "to date has sold $36 worth of electricity from a prototype reactor designed for use in submarines at West Milton, N.Y."

BRITISH FROGMAN BELIEVED CAUGHT BY SOVIET SEAMEN

LONDON, May 4 (AP)—London newspapers speculated today that a missing British frogman may have been caught by Russian sailors while engaged in underwater spying on the cruiser which brought Soviet Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev to London.

The Daily Sketch quoted an unnamed Royal Navy officer as saying the diver—Comdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb—may have been a prisoner on the Ordzhonikidze when it sailed off last week with the two Kremlin leaders.

Crabb disappeared April 19. That was the day after the cruiser arrived in Portsmouth harbor with the Kremlin chiefs.

The Admiralty announced last week that Crabb was "missing and presumed drowned" on a secret underwater experiment off Portsmouth. It confirmed it had hired Crabb, a retired member of the naval service, but declined to say what kind of work he was doing.

The Daily Telegraph suggested that Crabb, who had been working as a skin diver with foot fins and an oxygen tank, was "possibly checking on the astatic apparatus underneath the Russian cruiser."

Asdic is a sound system for detecting the presence of submarines. The Telegraph said Crabb also visited Portsmouth six months ago when two Russian cruisers and four destroyers made a good will stop there.

CONGRESS DEFENDED ON RIGHT TO GET DATA

Brief Says Executives' Refusal Is 'Naked Claim of Privilege.'

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Contentions that the President and heads of departments can deny information to Congress were called "a naked claim of privilege" in a House Government Operations Committee brief yesterday.

In releasing the brief, Representative William L. Dawson (Dem., Illinois) said the study "suggests that Congress, in appropriate circumstances, can force a federal official to divulge information by imprisoning him on contempt charges."

The report was prepared by the committee staff.

"This brief clearly shows," Dawson said in a statement, "that when the President or a department head has refused information to Congress, such refusal has been a naked claim of privilege. It has never been upheld in the courts; it has been a mere executive ipse dixit (assertion made but not proved)."

The first "conclusion" of the brief said: "Refusals by the President and heads of departments to furnish information to the Congress are not constitutional law. . . . The judiciary has never specifically ruled on the direct problem involved. . . ."

In another "conclusion," the report said: "Judicial precedent shows that even the President has been held to be subject to the power of subpoena of the courts. While this is so, it may be that the only recourse against the President himself is impeachment if he fails to comply with a subpoena of either the courts or the Congress."

Dawson said the brief was released at this time for use in a panel discussion to be held by the Government Information Subcommittee next Tuesday and Wednesday. This group, headed by Representative John E. Moss (Dem., California), has been holding a series of hearings this year on release of Government information.

MAJOR URGES FLAG DISPLAY FOR ARMED FORCES WEEK

The week beginning May 13 was designated as "Armed Forces week" yesterday by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker. In a proclamation asking St. Louisans to display the United States flag during the period.

He also urged them to attend the Armed Forces day parade which will be held May 19 as the climax of the week's observance.

SEGREGATION A BAR TO CAA AIRPORT AID

U.S. Funds Denied for Facilities Where Races Are Separated.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration said today it would deny federal funds for construction of airport facilities which are to be used on a racially segregated basis.

The CAA said its order provided that the Government would not contribute any money for that part of a building from which persons may be barred for reasons of race, creed or color.

The agency, which parcels out money for airport purposes, said its new rule would apply to construction and remodeling and repair of existing facilities at airports. It will apply to single dining rooms or rest rooms if they are limited to one race and also to construction of duplicate facilities provided for different races.

The CAA said that in computing how much federal funds would go to the projects the entire cost of the construction or repair must be figured and a deduction made for the entire cost of any part of the

BRITISH NATIONALIZED COAL MINES LOSE $54,880,000

LONDON, May 4 (AP)—Britain's nationalized coal industry lost £19,600,000 ($54,880,000) last year, the greatest deficit since the state took over the mines nine years ago, it was announced yesterday.

James Bowman, national coal board chairman, blamed one major strike and many lesser disputes for hampering production.

ARMY TO CALL 13,000 MEN IN JULY, QUOTA INCREASED

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 13,000 men in July, 1000 more than the previously announced quotas for May and June.

None of the other services is now using the draft. The increase in the Army call reflects decisions to boost Army strength slightly in the fiscal year starting July 1.

The July call brings to 2,057,430 the total number of men drafted or earmarked for induction since the resumption of selective service in September 1950.

CARDS' LAGGING PITCHERS TAKE 7-3 DODGER PASTING

STU MILLER YIELDS THREE HOME RUNS IN ONE INNING

By Bob Broeg

From the time he threw his first change-up that didn't change—when his baby rattle landed in the batted beans back home in Massachusetts—Stu Miller must have learned that there'd be days like this. If a fella's mother isn't spanking him, it's a big bruiser or three taking the joy out of a ball player's midnight snack.

At a hastily convened meeting of the Society for the Self-Preservation of Pitchers, the absent Miller drew sympathetic cluckings from fellow Cardinal hurlers last night in the Redbird clubhouse. And Stu needed the kind words after a quick clobbering from Brooklyn's world champion Dodgers, who gave him the needle as well as the business.

There's probably something to be said for an observation Larry Jackson and other laggard pitchers made after the contest in which Brooklyn, breaking a four-game losing streak, dropped the Cards out of the National League lead. The Dodgers' 12 hits were scored in 23 batters in an easy-does-it 7-3 triumph.

"It's nobody's fault, understand," Jackson made it plain he wasn't blaming, "but a lot of us haven't had much work lately" because of the postponements we've run into. That's true, Ben Flowers and Miller I know, and a deception guy like Stu, in particular, has to have awfully sharp control."

Nine Pitchers in Two Games. Uh-huh, an outsider to the romance of hurlers grunted, and interjected, a bit nastily, that on the strength of the last two games in which Manager Fred Hutchinson employed nine pitchers, it probably wouldn't take long for the entire staff to be in the groove.

Jackson ignored the sarcasm. "That's right," said the sophomore right-hander, who has worked in relief the last three nights, "and I'll bet you'll see the results in better pitching within a week."

It's to be hoped the Idaho athlete knows his pitching as well as his potatoes, for Redbird hurling still is frightfully unsettled. And it's to be hoped, too, that the reformation coaches—and soon—that Miller will be front and center among those to be rewarded for their humiliation.

—Stu really took it last night, more than what just met the eye, too, and that was an awful sight. Three gargantuan home runs sprang off Dodger bats in one inning and a total of six sharp-hit blows and a walk were achieved by the 14 Brooklyners he faced.

Miller wasn't the starter, if that comes as a surprise. The first Redbird hurler was Flowers, who hadn't worked in 11 days since leaving for a sixth-inning pinch-hitter while trailing Milwaukee, 2 to 0.

This time the North Carolina right-hander, regarded as important to first-division ambitions, gave up a double to Pee Wee Reese with one out in the first inning, walked Duke Snider and yielded a run-scoring single to Roy Campanella. Gil Hodges flied out, but the veteran Jackie Robinson hammered a tremendous two-run triple to center.

Exit Flowers and enter Miller, who hadn't worked in 11 days either. He immediately gave up a fourth run on a double stroked by Carl Furillo. Then in the third, with Hutchinson hoping to use a pinch-hitter for Miller in the home half, Stu ran into the tury of Brooklyn bats and the biting humor of baseball bench jockeys.

The second brought a trip to the mound and a warning for the pitcher from Plate Umpire Jocko Conlan—and a chuckle from Robinson.

The soft-throwing, slender Miller's brush-back efforts with a fast ball that really isn't fast amused rather than angered the aging Dodger star.

"I don't blame you, Stu," Robinson reportedly called out in his high-pitched voice. "If they'd just hit two like those off me, I'd be sore, too."

Jackie finally fouled out, but Furillo unfurled the third, and the Brooklyn bench gave the miffed Miller the full treatment. Someone shouted that he was ready for a ticket back to Omaha. And Don Bessent, conversing with Dodger pitcher who'd just rejoined his club, jumped on that one.

"Ticket!" Bessent exclaimed, "why if he got aboard those three homers, they'd carry him clear to Omaha!"

Double Trouble: Red and Stan Out

What promised to be a fruitful first inning came to a sudden halt when Stan Musial hit a double play. Brooklyn's rookie second baseman, CHARLEY NEAL, is shown leaping to avoid a collision with the sliding RED SCHOENDIENST, as Neal's throw goes to first base in time to double Musial. Don Blasingame's double and Schoendienst's single had produced one run. The Cards lost the game at Busch Stadium, 7-3.

Brandt Likely to Start Tonight; Schmidt and Templeton to Pitch

Jackie Brandt, the 22-year-old flash who was the International League's outstanding rookie last season, probably will make his debut as a starting outfielder tonight, Manager Fred Hutchinson said.

With a lefthander scheduled for Brooklyn in the 8 o'clock game at Busch Stadium and Bill Virdon in a batting slump, the Cardinal manager said he planned tentatively to use the right-handed-hitting Brandt in center field.

The agile, strong-armed Cornhusker, who hit .366, .313 and .305 in three minor league seasons, has had one single in five times at bat with the Cardinals. Virdon, National League Rookie-of-the-Year last season when he preceded Brandt here from Rochester, ended a string of 13 hitless trips with a ninth-inning single last night. He is batting only .211 after a troublesome spring at the plate.

"I think Bill is fighting himself up there and a rest might do him some good," said Hutchinson.

One-Hitter Against Tribe. The probable pitcher in tonight's game is Redbird right-hander Willard Schmidt, knocked out in his only start 12 days ago, and Chuck Templeton, big Brooklyn southpaw who held Cleveland to one hit for nine scoreless innings in an exhibition last Monday at Jersey City. Templeton, 23, 6-foot-3 and 210 pounds, had a 14-9 record last year at St. Paul and appeared in five scattered innings with the Dodgers late in the season.

Tomorrow afternoon's game with Brooklyn will be Ladies Day and women will be admitted for a 50-cent tax and service charge. . . . Solly Hemus was fined $50 by National League President Warren Giles for "remarks and general conduct" when the Redbird infielder was ejected by Plate Umpire Bill Engeln for too strenuously protesting a called third strike Tuesday night against Pittsburgh. . . . Temperatures was a pleasant 74 degrees, but only 14,734, a poor crowd for a Brooklyn game here, came out for the Dodgers' first John (Beans) Reardon, former National League umpire and now a Budweiser distributor in Long Beach, Calif., was a pressbox visitor.

2000 for Stan. Stan Musial, enthusiastically cheered at the announcement he was playing his 2000th major league game, hit into a double play in the first inning. Former teammate Enos Slaughter is the only other active major leaguer to have played in more than 2000 contests. Musial's sixth-inning double, his 542nd, enabled Stan to pass Rogers Hornsby on the all-time list of two-base hits. . . . The Cards haven't won from Don Newcombe since August, 1951, and have lost five straight to the strapping Brooklyn right-hander. They did force his removal, however, after four unsuccessful tries last year.

Ken Boyer, playing despite a pulled leg muscle, singled twice to boost his league-leading average to .473. . . . Hank Sauer is expected to be a spectator tonight, General Manager Frank Lane said, but is unlikely to play for another 10 days after the heavy stitching necessary to close ear and lip wounds after he was hit by a bat the other night. . . . Red Schoendienst, Gil Hodges, Rip Repulski and Boyer turned in the top fielding plays. . . . Newcombe allowed 11 hits, including four doubles and a homer, but didn't walk a man—B.B.

brought relief ace Clem Labine to the rescue in the ninth. Meanwhile, Jones and Jackson, last night's chairman of the meeting of the Society for the Self-Preservation of Pitchers, checked the Dodgers' and in absentia gave buddy Stu Miller the encouragement and sympathy he must have needed after a most rough evening. After all, Brooklyn hit three homers in one inning Wednesday at Cincinnati, too.

98 in Midwest Fencing Event At St. Louis U.

The Midwest Fencing Championships will be held tomorrow and Sunday in the St. Louis University gymnasium, with 98 competitors from eight states entered.

Herman Velasco, a student at the University of Illinois, will defend his title in the men's foil, and Judy Goodrich, 17-year-old from Detroit, will put her crown on the line in the women's foil.

Other defenders are James Campoli of Detroit in the men's saber competition and Albert Wolff of Louisville, Ky., in the epee.

Fencing champions from Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Columbus, O., Minnesota, Kentucky, Tennessee and St. Louis are included in the complete count of participants.

Competition will be held in three weapons, the foil, the dueling sword and the saber. A preview provided by the local sponsoring group, the St. Louis division of the Amateur Fencers League of America, identifies the foil as "the most popular fencing weapon, accurate and speedy," presents the dueling sword competition as a chance to determine if "movie duels are accurately portrayed," establishes the saber as "the flashing, clashing and spectacular weapon that is not for the beginner nor the faint-hearted," and as final excitement notes there will be no admission charge.

The program will begin at 9 o'clock each morning. The final event tomorrow is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., and Sunday's final event is scheduled for 4 p.m.

Doris Hart to Appear At Triple A Clinic

Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., first ranking women's tennis player for the past two years, will appear on a special clinic program tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Triple A Club in Forest Park. The public, especially elementary and high schools youths, are invited to attend free of charge.

Miss Hart, who will come here from Memphis, will oppose Earl (Butch) Buchholz, St. Louis junior champion and a ranking United States player, and Mary Clendenin in special matches.

John Fowler of Chicago, Bill Schick, Frank Thompson and Miss Hart will compete in a doubles match today at 5:30 p.m. at the St. Louis Country Club. Thompson, Triple A tennis chairman, has charge of the clinic.

Thursday's Stars.

PITCHING: BOB FRIEND. Pirates—Snapped Cincinnati's six-game winning streak with five-hit, 5-1 victory.
BATTING: JIM BUSBY. Indians—Hit homer, double and single good for three runs-batted-in in Cleveland's 7-1 victory over Baltimore.

Movies for Parilli.

CLEVELAND, May 4 (UP)—Babe Parilli's pre-season preparations for his new job as a ranking Browns quarterback will include watching a movie devoted solely to examples of Otto Graham and George Ratterman handling the team's 1955 drive to the National Football League title. Assistant Coach Fritz Heiser spent a month preparing the film and Parilli will study it here this month.

Three Golfers Tied for Lead In Texas Play

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 4 (AP)—Three of golf's rising young men—Dow Finsterwald, Paul Harney and Peter Thomson—led the $25,000 Colonial national invitation tournament into its second round today but three members of the old guard were making threatening gestures.

Finsterwald, who plays out of Bedford Heights, O.; Harney, who comes from Bolton, Mass.; and Thomson, the 26-year-old British open champion from Melbourne, Australia, shot one-under-par 69 yesterday to take the first round lead.

One stroke back were three noted shot makers from Texas—Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Tommy Bolt.

Cary Middlecoff had all sorts of trouble on the front nine, taking a three-over-par 32. He had to be satisfied with 73. Tied at 72 are Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City, Jack Burke of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., Roberto de Vicenzo of Mexico City, Gordon Brydon of Toronto, Canada, and Stan Leonard of Le Chute, Canada.

Fight Results.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES—Art Aragon 15½, Los Angeles, outpointed Jimmy Carter, 10½.
DALLAS—Ruddy Turman, 18½, T. J. Lee, knocked out Dick Wasy, 20½.
BOISE, Idaho—J. J. Charles, 16½, 16½, Los Angeles, knocked out Harry Taylor, 18½.
PHILADELPHIA—Frankie (Kid) Amare 15½, Philadelphia, outpointed Morris Gordon, 15½.
ALBANY, N.Y.—Al Andrews, 16½, N. York, outpointed Jesse Turner, 15½.
ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Amos Lincoln, 15½, Portland, outpointed Howard King, 19½.
ROME, Italy—10.

Jockey Maher Wins Last Two At Fairmount

Although the Fairmount meeting is only four days old, 21 jockeys already have been in the winner's circle. Nine of these have piloted two or more firsts.

L. J. (Jake) Colclasure of Louisville, Ill., is making an early run for the riding title. He brought home his seventh winner of the meeting when he won with Go Jeep Go, the 6-to-10 favorite, in the fifth race Thursday, beating Go Go Go by a head.

Frank Maher, who won with Battle Day ($8.60) and All East ($18.60) is second with three triumphs. W. T. Stevens, M. Huser, Clarence Mesius, John Delahoussaye, N. Hays, R. E. Young and Billy Gummow have each been in the winner's circle on two occasions.

Jo Mah in the fourth was the long shot winner of the night, paying $62 to $2. Delphy and Screen Star combined to make up a daily double worth $223.20. The attendance was 4191 and the handle $163,123.

Udo Reinach, a winner at the juicy payoff of $80.80 for $2 on opening night, will seek its second win of the meeting in the fifth, a six-furlong sprint. In the seventh and feature will be Pima, Eternal Sam, Miss Kirkwood, Blue Errand and others.

Sutton Uninjured in 500-Mile Test Crash

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 4 (UP)—Veteran Pat O'Connor and Rookie Bob Christy smashed through the 140-mile-an-hour speed barrier yesterday after newcomer Len Sutton crashed his racer during practice for the 500-mile speedway race.

O'Connor, of North Vernon, Ind., hit an unofficial 142 miles an hour around the 2 1/2-mile oval—the fastest turn turned in this season. Christy was clocked unofficially at 141.5 m.p.h. in the roadster in which the late Jack McGrath set the qualification records of 143.793 and 142.580 for one and four laps, respectively, last year.

Sutton, 30, Portland, Ore., lost control of his racer in the southeast turn 24 hours after passing his driver's test. He went into a 250-foot slide, spun nearly three times, slid another 370 feet and hit the inside guard rail. He climbed out unhurt and the car was not damaged.

Former Empire Files
$46,200 Damage Suit
MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 4 (UP)—Former baseball umpire John W. (Ziggy) Seila brought suit for $46,200 damages yesterday for an eye injury he claims he suffered due to First Baseman George Crowe's negligence. He said Crowe, playing with the Milwaukee Brewers in 1951, let a thrown ball bounce off his glove and hit Seila's face. He charged Crowe's fielding of the ball amounted to negligence. Crowe is now a first baseman with the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Olympic Track Honor Roll

High school athletes in the district will compete in the second annual Olympic Fund track and field championships at Public School Stadium May 29, June 3 and June 1 under the sponsorship of the Marine Corps reserve units of St. Louis.

Proceeds from the event, which is being held to stimulate interest in the Olympic program, will go to the United States Olympic Fund. Last year's meet attracted 250 boys within a 60-mile radius of St. Louis and $1160 was contributed to the Olympic Fund.

The field will be limited to the 16 boys in each event who have registered the best times or distances in selected meets. Preliminaries May 29 will start at 4:30 p. m. The finals June 1 will begin at 7:30 p. m.

A special attraction will be the decathlon May 31 and June 1 with entry by invitation. Bill Miller, Beaumont High coach, heads the field committee and Capt. Bill Blackwell of the Marine Corps, a former national intercollegiate pole vault champion, is representative of the sponsoring organizations.

TEXAS TOWER RESCUE MISSION

An injured seaman (feet showing amidships) being hoisted to deck of Texas tower radar warning station in one phase of rescue mission off the New England coast Wednesday. The seaman, Harold M. Swisher Jr., of Vienna, Ga., suffered a head injury on the destroyer escort Lloyd (background). Brought to the tower by boat, he was transferred to an Air Force helicopter and carried 150 miles to a hospital on Cape Cod for treatment.

Spring in the Ozarks

Peak of the Dogwood On Display This Week

By Leonard Hall

THIS week will see the peak of the dogwood, considered by many to be the high point of spring in the Missouri woodland. The moment of maximum bloom is not easy to predict, since the flowering date varies in different parts of the state and from year to year. Nor to our eye has the season produced quite so spectacular a display as usual, though this verdict may apply only to areas we've seen. Ordinarily our hill country south of St. Louis is about 10 days behind St. Louis county, so that on roads leading from the city the dogwood blossoms may already have passed their prime. We have reports, however, from Hugh Denny at Blue Spring Lodge on Current river and from Ben Davis at Van Buren that the season is now at its height. And I believe that over this weekend such roads as Highway 8 from Potosi to Steelville and Highway 22 from Bellevue to Salem will offer a fine display. Better still, turn aside from these traveled routes and drop down the little gravel roads along the creeks. Here is where you will see the white tiers of blossoming dogwood scattered like snow along the sides of steep hollows.

MOST OF THE REDBUD, which was especially beautiful this year, is on the wane and now the leaves that follow the blossoms are beginning to show. But blackhaw is at its best and hawthorns are coming into flower; moreover, there are innumerable blossoms to be found across the floor of the woodland and along country roadsides. In all our memory, this has been the finest season for birdsfoot violets. This beautiful member of the violet family, Viola pedata, has some blossoms of clear blue and others in which the two lower petals are a deep velvety purple. It prefers the poorest soils and can be found in masses along raw road embankments or on the floor of the forest where it has been burned, over-grazed and eroded down to the flinty subsoil.

ALONG LIMESTONE LEDGES and in old worn fields grow wild verbena, the Verbena canadensis of the vernal family which is sometimes called Sweet William. But there are many arguments about this common name, since some apply it to one or another of the varieties of wild phlox, an unrelated species. Commonest in the Ozarks is Phlox pilosa, of which four varieties are known; although we also find others including maculata and our favorite bifida, which is smaller than the rest, grows deep in the woodland and has a marked indentation in each flower petal. One interesting thing is that the color of wild phlox seems to vary with its location and the amount of sunlight, from white through many tones of pink, blue, rose and lavender. It should be added, however, that certain colors predominate in the different varieties of phlox.

THESE ARE, OF COURSE, just a few of the wildflowers which will be found just now. Last week, along the highway bordering Washington State Park, we came upon a magnificent bed of wild hyacinths, blooming in tall and graceful spikes of pale lavender and blue. This member of the lily family, Camassia scilloides, is sometimes found in open woods and wet spots on the prairie, but in our country prefers the limestone glades. Shooting stars are about to bloom and also the deep-red fire pink, Silene virginica, which is one of the handsomest flowers of the Ozark woodland. The rest of the list is too long to name, but hiking out the bluff this afternoon we found the odd little flowers of wild ginger hidden beneath the oak leaves, as well as Jack-in-the-Pulpit and its cousin, green dragon. Then there were the drooping yellow flowers of bellwort which has an equally unattractive scientific name, Uvularia grandiflora, so that we use the Eastern colloquialism Merrybells. Bellwort also has a smaller cousin, sessile bellwort or Oxalis sessilifolia.

STILL THE LIST is not complete, for we found the odd purple blossoms of paw paw, of the wild columbines, and both true and false Solomon's seal. The first of these is Polygonatum canadense, with little bell-like flowers drooping beneath the stem; the second is Smilacina racemosa, with its blossoms at the top of the stem. White flowers of the May-apple hide beneath umbrella-like leaves and the trilliums are still at the peak of bloom. Poke weed is making shoots; just the right size to cut for greens. But the morel mushrooms seem to have run their course.

THE BEST WAY to see the dogwood—and the wildflowers, as well—is to get out into the woods and fields and glades. But sprinkle yourself well with a good insect repellent, for this is the worst tick year in history; at least in areas where cattle have grazed the past few years. To eliminate the bad custom of unnecessary "collecting" or just plain picking of wildflowers, wear a coat with pockets big enough to accommodate a field guide. Thus you can identify your flower on the spot and enjoy it without destroying it. Often it seems to me we over-do this business of collecting when it serves no honest scientific purpose, practically every species of plant, as well as bird and animal, having already been taken for identification many times and properly mounted and classified.

ANOTHER GOOD IDEA for your spring hike is to swing the binoculars around your neck and, since you're wearing that big coat anyway, slip Peterson's "Field Guide to the Birds" into another pocket. For the migration is in full swing and each day brings new arrivals; some of our latest being the white-eyed vireo, yellow breasted chat, brown thrasher, wood thrush, indigo bunting and Louisiana water thrush. The main thing, however, is to shake the cares of the workaday world for a few hours and get out into the hills while Missouri's spring is at its best. This we did last week when we joined St. Louis Friends of the Land on a junket to our newest State Park, the beautiful Johnson Shut-Ins on Black River. Long the property of Joseph Desloge, the area will now be developed for the enjoyment of all Missourians.

Try and Stop Me

MYRON ZOBEL, a well-heeled citizen of South Pasadena, Calif., goes in for very fancy trailers. His last one, which he calls the Continental Clipper, set him back $20,000. Its interior is paneled in Australian satinwood, and features indirect lighting and a radiotelephone-equipped desk.

The first day Mr. Zobel ventured forth in this elegant vehicle, California state police nabbed him for driving a trailer in excess of the specified maximum length of 43 feet. Mr. Zobel produced a tape forthwith, acquired for such an emergency, and let the cops measure the trailer themselves. It proved to be 42 feet, 9 inches long, and the cops, scratching their heads, handed him back his tape and waved him on his way.

Mr. Zobel neglected to tell them that he had added three feet to the center of the tape.

A Woman Who Is Boss Of Family

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

WHEN a woman is boss of the family, it is sometimes much against her will. She would ask nothing better than to have a big, strong, decisive man as a husband, a man who would consider her wishes and needs but would very definitely make the plans and assume the responsibilities in the home. Mrs. P. wants to know how she can have one.

"Several months ago you told a husband how he might make himself more dominant," she writes me. "My problem is a little different. How can I make my husband more dominant without his knowing it? Several of my friends face the same problem. We have to run things because our husbands refuse to do so. Can't you give me some suggestions as to how I can make him behave like the boss? I'll gladly turn things over to him any time."

FIRST, you must decide why he is not more dominant. Mrs. P. The probability is that he was overshadowed by his mother who did everything for him. He grew up supposing that it is a woman's place to do everything for him. You will have to change that point of view and help him to acquire some new habits. It's a slow job, but it can be done. Don't argue or scold or tell him he ought to do this for his own good. You're quite right in believing that you must accomplish this without his knowledge.

Build up his health. Be sure that he's not too tired when he comes home at night to take the responsibilities and make the decisions that belong to him.

Ask his advice concerning matters that you know he can handle satisfactorily. Doubtless, you would handle them just as well without asking him, but it's important that these decisions well run off so that he can say that his opinions are correct and helpful.

Encourage him to associate more with men, especially in groups where he can take an active part.

Divide up the responsibilities and chores around the place and depend on him to do what he agrees to do. Praise his success and ignore his failures.

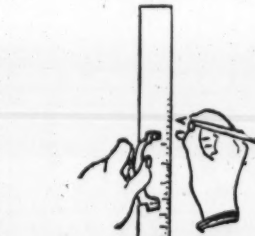

WORK for a better sex adjustment. It's a good guess that he needs to have his self-confidence built up at this point. Increase his physical activity, though not to the point of over-fatigue. Such things as folk dancing will help him to feel that he can do his share in any enterprise.

Psychologist Margaret Benton has prepared a valuable discussion on "How to Decrease Submissiveness." While this is written for the one who wants to be less submissive, you can easily apply many of the suggestions to your husband. Dr. Popenoe will send a free copy to any reader who encloses a stamped, self-addressed envelope with the request. Write him in care of The Post-Dispatch.

Cashmere Sweaters The "lilly" silhouette that is among the popular trends for spring is seen in a group of imported cashmere sweaters. Although waistlines are placed low, there is an emphasis upon the high, Empire effect with bows, deep yokes, and trimming at the upper part of the garment.

Secrets of Charm Beauty Quiz

HOW DO YOU RATE?

THIS being leap year, each woman has certain occasions when she wants to put her best foot forward and look her very best. Yet too often it is just those times when instead of looking like a glamour girl, she may look her worst, and her competition steps right in and takes her place.

Why? Because she hasn't learned a basic rule—and that is to make yourself as attractive as possible, you must work on a long-range program of glamour. That is, if you want to be a part of that charmed circle of the world's truly glamorous women.

ASK YOURSELF the following questions about your home-work and beauty life. Give yourself 10 for each "Yes" answer, zero for each "No." If you are perfect, you get a grade of 100.

Are you brushing your hair daily, shampooing it at least once a week and keeping it neat and well-groomed?

Do you take a daily 15-minute outdoor walk?

Is your posture a beauty asset? Are you consciously prac-

ARE YOU TAKING at least five minutes of general and special exercises, and have you succeeded in maintaining a normal weight for your height and age throughout the past two years?

Do you know your type and stick to it in the selection of your clothes?

Are you more beautiful and well-groomed today than you were two years ago?

Are you having fun, enjoying life and smiling often and spontaneously? When you enter a room are people happy to see you?

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

1. IS LOVE THE ONLY WAY TO ACHIEVE ROMANCE? YOUR OPINION

Answer to Question 1. If so, this would be a dull world. Making scientific discoveries, painting pictures, building, organizing business, leading men, climbing mountains, etc., all these make life a "high romance." The humblest man or woman can find romance in doing a job well—whether it is keeping house, rearing children, washing autos, or carving statues. Romance is found in the conquest of one's heart, control of habits, and emotions, and bringing more happiness into the world.

Answer to Question 2. False and mostly bossy. If you start out to do everything perfectly, you will wind up with nervous exhaustion or in an insane asylum. There is a type of maladjusted person known as the "perfectionist." Everything must be perfect, from the way the table is set, to golf and bridge games, dress and house-keeping. Select the few things in life you can ever hope to do well and do the rest "fair to middlin'." I started out to be a top golfer, but I discovered two things: First, I was missing most of the fun; second, it gave me insomnia. Now I get a lot of fun no matter how I play.

Answer to Question 3. Women would probably never have thought of shaking hands, since they had no reason to do so; and the men greeted them with a more ardent embrace. The habit doubtless came from the fact that when all men went armed, it was a wise precaution for a man to hold out his right hand and let the other fellow grasp it to show he was holding a weapon. From this it gradually became a universal form of friendly greeting.

Whole, Half Ham Usually A Good Buy

By Edith M. Barber

MOST of us find there is no better investment than a whole or a half ham. Perhaps we will bake and glaze it for Sunday dinner. The second day it will probably be served cold and sliced.

Of course there are all sorts of things that can be done with the remainder. If there is still enough to slice well, it is deliciously grilled lightly in the skillet and served with or without a sauce. By the way, among that line of frozen sauces that originated in a famous Paris restaurant, but which are now made in this country, is a Cumberland sauce especially developed for ham.

ONE of my favorite dishes in which diced ham can be used to advantage, is a combination of noodles or macaroni with the ham and a rich cheese sauce. By rich I mean plenty of grated cheese. Although it is not necessary, I usually place the mixture in a casserole and bake it 20 minutes or so until thoroughly heated. There may be a sprinkle of Parmesan cheese on the top, if you like.

If there is still some meat clinging to the bone, as there may well be, it may be combined with cottage or cream cheese for a sandwich filling. It may also be added to a cream sauce, not too thick, for service around an omelet or over poached eggs.

BY THE WAY, I like to poach the eggs in butter rather than in water. Of course only about a tablespoonful is needed. This should be allowed to melt but not to brown, although it must be very hot. As soon as the eggs are dropped into this the heat should be turned off and the skillet covered. With the retained heat they will set in a few minutes.

EGGS Poached in Butter. Two tablespoons butter, six eggs.

Melt butter in heavy skillet. Break eggs, one at a time into saucer and slip into pan. Turn off heat, cover and let stand five minutes until firm. If eggs are not quite set by that time, let stand over very low heat for one more minute.

Note: If an egg poacher is used, place one-half teaspoon butter in each egg cup and steam over boiling water.

Ham With Cheese and Noodles.

Ingredients: One-half package noodles, two cups cream sauce, one and one-half cups grated cheese, one tablespoon

A Master Chest

By Elizabeth Hillyer

THE furnishings of most homes don't take a clear stand about who's boss—or maybe they do. The tendency is to create an effect of femininity rather than masculinity. The head man seldom makes much headway about what he wants and needs, and with the exception of the chair he appropriates in the living room, very little is especially for him.

A man should have his own wardrobe chest. The dimensions of his clothes make them more difficult to fit into an average dresser chest than a woman's, although she'd never agree.

For this practical reason and for others such as making it easier to keep clothes in good condition and to find things, a man's special chest is even a boon to a woman who must keep the room in good order.

And designer Paul McCobb, in this stand-out master chest for the master of the house,

The New Films

By Myles Standish

A Little Masterpiece

DISARMINGLY simple, touching and utterly charming film has been fashioned by Director William A. Wellman from James Street's novel, "GOOD-BYE, MY LADY." It will open tonight at the PAGEANT.

This gentle little story, somewhat reminiscent of "The Yearling," is deceptively slight in its framework and modest and homely in its approach. It is merely that a lad, living with his old grandfather in the Mississippi backwoods, learns to be a man one day because he learns to give up, honestly and without bitterness, a wild dog which he had captured by kindness and had given all his lonely young heart to.

The dog amazes everyone by its peculiar traits. It doesn't bark, but utters a laugh like a jackal. It cries when spoken harshly to, but can fight like a demon. It washes its face with its paws like a cat. It points birds in a peculiar squatting stance, and has a phenomenal nose. Its prowess as a hunting dog gives it great local fame. But one day an advertisement in an outdoor magazine reveals it is being sought after having been lost from a shipment. It is a rare and highly valuable Basenji, an ancient African breed of hunter. The boy has to make a wrenching decision, and he faces up to it.

This is the sort of thing that could easily have been spoiled by heavy sentiment, but Wellman has done it perfectly. It has been told warmly, but with a delicate restraint. There is a joy of life in the enthusiasm of the boy, his grandpop and the local store owner over hunting dogs, and there is a combination of colloquial fidelity and muted poetry in the telling. The simple people it mirrors are wholly admirable, perhaps backward and narrow to a sophisticated view, but forthright, independent and conscientious. There are little gems of performances by Brandon de Wilde as the lad, Walter Brennan as the grandfather, and Phil Harris, of all people, as the storekeeper. This is a perfect miniature.

Bitter Indictment

As was the Budd Schulberg novel from which it was taken, "THE HARDER THEY FALL," at LOEW'S STATE THEATRE, is a tough, coldly angry, disgusted and graphic account of some vultures, a racketeer fight-manager-gambler and his mob, who exploit a dumb

'Argentine giant who has no fighting ability at all. By circus hallyhoo methods, a long string of fixed fights, and ruthless pressures, they build him up to a championship bout. They force an ex-champ, who is in bad shape from injuries from his last defeat, into the ring with their palooka to "take a dive" for $100,000, and the ex-champ suffers a hemorrhage and dies. They callously exploit this, coldly watch their lumbering giant undergo a pitiful beating in the championship bout, then cheat him of all his earnings and discard him by selling his contract to a small-time promoter.

The story obviously parallels in many respects the case of Primo Carnera, the Italian giant who was built up to heavyweight champion, then lost the championship to Max Baer (who plays the champ in the picture). As a matter of fact, Carnera, now a wrestler, is suing the producers of the film for $1,500,000. The film has aroused some indignant bellos from the boxing world. It undoubtedly does leave a bad taste in the mouth for the whole fight-business setup, and in that it may be unfair. But there is no doubt about the dramatic strength of its bitter indictment.

Using Philip Yordan's screenplay, Director Mark Robson has turned out a strikingly realistic picture. You can smell the corruption from the sleazy crowd that surrounds Nick Benko, the racketeer. Rod Steiger plays Benko with fanatical force—a greedy, driving, utterly ruthless, glibly lying, unscrupulously deadly man, who buys and sells fighters like a butcher sells meat. His opposite number is Humphrey Bogart as Eddie Willis, a sports writer out of a job, who consents to become the hallyhoo artist and manager of the troupe but who finally sickens of it and turns against his boss. As a cynical man smothering his conscience and disgusted with himself, Bogart has the weaker role compared to Steiger's tornado of evil, and for once finds himself overshadowed.

The giant, Toro Moreno, is played by Mike Lane, former circus strong man and wrestler (six feet, ten, 275 pounds). He does well as the bewildered, pathetic, courageous creature who is led around like a bull with a ring in his nose. Among the others who lend an authentic touch are Baer as the cocky, arrogant champion (although Maxie has put on some flesh around the waist), former heavyweight champ Jersey Joe Walcott as a sympathetic trainer, and Pat Comiskey (although also too flabby) as the pug who is killed. Jan Sterling plays Eddie's wife and voice of his conscience.

De Sica Study of a Pitiful Old Man

Vittorio De Sica's "UMBERTO D.," made in Italy five years ago, was acclaimed by most critics as a masterpiece when it first showed in New York that fall. I can't say it struck me with that impact, but the film, which opens tonight at the SHADY OAK, is an extremely affecting, honest and subtly evocative study of a pitiful and lonely old man at the end of his rope. The man is all alone in life—there is no mention of whether he was ever married, or ever had children—and is falling behind on his meager pension as a retired civil servant. His harsh, hand-some landlady is trying to evict him for being behind on the rent. His only companions are a sweet-faced but rather stupid slavey, who has troubles of her own—she is pregnant and isn't sure which of her two soldier-lovers is the father—and his little mongrel dog.

The old man, clean and neatly dressed, has an innate dignity which makes his predicament doubly hard for him. There is no sentimentality in our view of him—he is not especially lovable, but rather testy at times. But your heart is wrenched as his shame when he unsuccessfully tries to beg or borrow money from old acquaintances is reflected in the agony on his gentle, refined face. He cannot even commit suicide successfully. As he tries to step in front of a speeding train, his dog struggles out of his arms and distracts him. We last see him in the park, smiling and playing with his pet, momentarily forgetting his troubles—this may have a symbolism that escapes me, but I found its inconclusiveness rather disappointing.

De Sica, the exponent of cinema neo-realism, says he has attempted to do this in the "poetic and limpid style of Robert Flaherty," but I suspect there was a great deal of Chaplin influence in it—as a matter of fact, the old man seems a more tragic extension of Chaplin's classic tramp. The old man is wonderfully played by Carlo Battisti, a university professor who had never acted before. His face is a haunting mirror of emotions.

Western Stinker

"THE MAVERICK QUEEN," at the FOX is said to be based on a novel by Zane Grey, but, though I never read it, it is hard to imagine Mr. Grey, who was a colorful story teller, turning out anything as utterly trite as this.

The story is solid Western cliché, propounded by such anachronisms as using "big wheel" to describe an important person and "caper" for a robbery. The direction is horrible, the story witless, the acting wooden. Barbara Stanwyck should be ashamed of herself for her phony playing of even such a phony character as the saloon queen who is head of a robber gang.

Small, Hard Working and Vigorous

This Describes Ada Sommer, Only Woman Indorsed by Charter Committee for Freeholder Post

By Clarissa Start

THE scene in the Conrad Sommer living room at 5327 Waterman avenue is a familiar one to anyone who has ever run for political office or helped anyone else in a political campaign. The typewriter, the card table. The boxes of letters. The stacks of envelopes to be stuffed. The rubber-banded armloads of envelopes stuffed and sealed. The friend and neighbor volunteers. The ever-ringing telephone.

In the midst of it all is the central figure, Ada Sommer, wife of Dr. Conrad Sommer, and the only woman candidate on the list of 13 indorsed by the St. Louis Citizens Charter Committee for the Board of Freeholders election next Tuesday. Tiny, hardworking, vigorous Mrs. Sommer who is church, civic, and school volunteer as well as homemaker and mother, is waging an active campaign, although like all candidates sometimes finds herself wondering, "How did I ever get into this?"

"Sometimes I think I'm insane to do it," she says. "I haven't the time, I have to make the time. I suppose it's just a case of feeling I have to practice what I've been preaching all these years."

As a past-president of the League of Women Voters, Mrs. Sommer has preached citizen participation in civic affairs to such an extent that she eventually found herself trapped by her own sales talk. As recently as January of this year, she had no intention of being an active candidate for anything. She had aided in the presentation of the League's Institute on the new charter and the Board of Freeholders.

"I thought we'd present facts, get people interested, and inform them of the issues," she says. "Then I planned to retire to my family. But I found I couldn't quiet my conscience. I feel I'm one of those fortunate people who can have the luxury of independence. I can think and act as I believe without hurting anyone's position including my own. Many people do not have this luxury. And I do believe that our Government is only as good as we make it. Finally, after enough friends had urged me to do it, I decided to file."

Mrs. Sommer also felt that

her background had given her a diversified education in government and public welfare. A native of Stoddard county, Mo., Mrs. Sommer, whose maiden name was Ada Medcalf, lived in Cape Girardeau with her brother and widowed mother, attended college there and then did graduate study in social work at the University of Chicago. For 10 years she worked in Chicago and Illinois, always with children.

She spent four years with a private family agency in Chicago, then set up a rural child welfare program for the United States Children's Bureau in Illinois. By 1942, she was supervisor of casework for the Illinois Division of Child Welfare in Springfield.

"So I feel I learned about government from the big city point of view, and at the county and state level, too," she says.

One of the nicest things about her job is that she met a psychiatrist, Dr. Conrad Sommer, who was called in to do a special job for the state hospitals of Illinois. The Sommers were married in 1945 just about the time he came to St. Louis to be a consultant at the Forest Park Children's Center, set up a psychiatric clinic at County Hospital, and teach at Washington University. His university teaching now comprises the major part of his work.

Looking back on her introduction to St. Louis, Mrs. Sommer admits, "I cut my teeth fast." She had been here only a few months when she was asked to join the board of the League of Women Voters to help their work in implementing the Children's Code legislation. That summer, 1946, she organized candidates' meetings and did the voters' service job. She was chairman of the earnings tax committee, in charge of rounding up people to attend hearings in Jefferson City. In 1949 she became president of the League and served through 1951.

course, has put all other work in the background. With the aid of friends and neighbors, she's helped get out 10,000 letters to lists of voters supplied by the same friends and neighbors.

Her favorite writing position is to sit on the floor, typewriter on a stool. She's attended conferences, made speeches at Ys, church groups, neighborhood discussion groups, and political meetings.

ONE of her more hectic experiences occurred at a ward political meeting to which she'd been invited. "I think the committee regretted that he'd invited me after I got there," she says, "because he got up and made the most distorted, inaccurate statements about the charter and the election in general. When I got up to speak I said that first I wanted to correct some 'mistakes' which he had made. As I went on, he got up to shout at me and argue with me, until finally I said, 'You don't have to agree with me—it's your privilege to disagree—but if you distort the truth then you're a corrupt person.' He left and I went on with my speech, pointing out, I think, the areas of controversy, and the obligations these people had as citizens to help make the decisions."

There was another man there who then got up to attack me. He said, 'This woman is just a tool of Ray Tucker. She's a silk stocking. Her husband has more money than he knows what to do with. She's only interested in doing what the bankers and industrialists want done.' He left then and I went on talking and I was amazed at the interest the people showed. Many of them were surprised to learn we would not receive any pay for this job; the other two speakers had left the impression that we did. They responded to the idea that sincere people motivated only by public interest would want the job. I don't know how much good it did but I think it helped."

Mrs. Sommer won't predict whether voters will go through the list of 45 alphabetically listed candidates to seek out the 13 candidates recommended. She only knows she'll be working toward that end up to the last minute. At present, all her friends, neighbors and family are helping, including a group of 10-year-olds who are stuffing envelopes.

"We tried our 7-year-old," she says, "but found out you have to be 10."

Dr. Sommer has been helping his wife all along the way. "He goes with me to meetings, helps address envelopes, baby sits with the children, and," she laughed, "is against my candidacy."

"At night after the children are in bed and the telephone has quieted down, I get out my scratch pad and write down the things that have to be done the next day and the order in which they must be done," she says. "The next morning I assign jobs, write out instructions if necessary. I don't suppose that kind of organization is very unusual; I don't see how anyone in a similar position could get along without doing it."

Mrs. Sommer has taken on in recent years have included PTA participation, and work with the toddlers' class at St. John's Methodist Church, as well as work in the St. John's Women's Society of Christian Service.

"And I expect Cubs and Scouts are ahead of me," she laughs.

Refinishing Floors.

WHEN the subject gets around to refinishing floors, most people start thinking of a sanding operation. Now an electric floor sander is a fine thing for removing the old finish from the floor and for smoothing it. But it is not a little too difficult to handle and in some cases the wood does not need smoothing—all that is required is to remove the old finish. Well, if this is the case it can be done with a liquid or paste paint and varnish remover.

Start off by getting all the furniture out of the room and sealing off any electrical wall outlets near the floor with masking tape. If you are not a too careful workman it's a good idea to mask off the baseboard so there won't be any chance of the remover getting on this woodwork. Some paint and varnish removers are inflammable and some are not. If you use an inflammable type be sure the room you are working in does not contain any open flame. Regardless of whether or not the remover is inflammable, be sure that the room you are working in is well ventilated. Select a warm day so that all windows can be left wide open while you work.

A good way to apply the remover is in a two-foot-wide strip down the length of the room. Allow the remover a few minutes to soften up the finish and then scrape off the softened finish with a broad putty knife or a wad of excelsior. When one strip is completed, apply the remover to another two-foot strip and continue until all the finish is off the floor. Small spots of the old finish that can't be removed with the putty knife or excelsior should respond to a little rubbing with steel wool. After the finish is off, wipe the floor down with alcohol and then let the floor dry overnight before applying a new finish.

Tasty Tricks

Like the French, you can make delicious custards with egg yolks and cream. Bake them in little bowls and call them pots de creme. These can be made with chocolate or with almond flavor and topped with whipped cream.

Asparagus Soup
Grated cheddar cheese looks pretty atop cream of asparagus soup.

My Neighbor Says:

Birthday party coming up? Surround the birthday cake with balls of ice cream rolled in tinted coconut.

Thin rings, cut from both red and white onions, make a pretty garnish for salads. They add good taste, too!

Iron clothes without shine. Tailor a cover of heavy muslin to fit your steam iron. Handier than a press cloth. You can see your work as you iron.

Nice to serve with a veal roast: egg noodles tossed, after cooking, with poppy seeds, blanched almonds and melted butter. Sprinkle the noodles with paprika before serving.

Dip sliced bread into an egg-and-milk mixture as you would for French toast; bake right at the table on your waffle iron.

Actually, the killing defense on most hands, if it is discovered at all, is discovered after the opening lead.

The opening lead is blind in that the opener has not yet seen the cards in dummy. After the first trick, however, he has seen those cards and they may be sharply at variance with the mental picture he had formed, based on the bidding.

He may have had it in mind to lead a certain suit the next time he got in. But the looks of the dummy and the play to the first few tricks may show that lead to be absolutely hopeless. He then turns his attention to some other possibility which, however remote its apparent chances for success, still offers the only hope.

In today's deal Mr. Dale opened the king of diamonds. Mr. Champion flashed the nine and Mr. Dale continued with the ace and a third diamond. Winning the third trick with the queen, Mr. Champion paused to think.

For his jump bid in spades, Mr. Muzzy must have a six-card suit. He had already shown three diamonds, leaving him four cards in the other two suits. Apparently those four could be taken care of by dummy's high cards in hearts and clubs. Therefore, if the defenders could win a fourth trick, it would have to be a spade.

Mr. Champion therefore led the thirteenth diamond at trick four and that was the killer. If Mr. Muzzy ruffed low or discarded, Mr. Dale would win with the nine of spades. If he ruffed high with the queen or jack, he could not avoid losing a trump trick to Mr. Champion.

Grand Opera Guild Plans Annual Fashion Show

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

MEMBERS and friends of the St. Louis Grand Opera Guild, which now boasts of more than 700 members, have received invitations to a fashion show, the eighth in a series of similar events, to be given at 3 o'clock the afternoon of May 23. As in previous years, the scene of the show will be the garden back of Mrs. Thomas M. Sayman's home, 5399 Lindell boulevard. Mrs. Sayman is president of the guild; Mrs. Henry Bry is vice president, and Mrs. Henry Belz is general chairman of the forthcoming event, with Mrs. Wallace Persons as co-chairman.

This gala spring party is one of the social functions held by the guild which sponsors opera workshop performances of the Washington University Opera Theater throughout the year to provide scholarships for talented young artists.

Summer fashions from Montaldo's will be modeled by Miss Audrey Wallace, Veiled Prophet Queen; Miss Elizabeth Busch and Miss Kate Broders, two of her special maids of honor, and a group of professionals. They will enter the garden over a small bridge in view of an audience estimated at more than 300. An orchestra will play and special musical entertainment will be provided by previous scholarship winners.

Before the fashion show Leigh Gerdine, head of the Washington University music department, will speak on the relationship between the university workshop and the Grand Opera Guild.

The following guild board members will serve as hostesses: Mrs. J. Edwin Allen, Mrs. Howard Armstrong, Mrs. Carl Peyton Daniel, Mrs. Willis Taylor Engle, Mrs. John Engle, Mrs. Gertrude Lampel Florida, Miss Florence Fleishel, Mrs. Maurice Frank, Miss Aurelia Gerhard, Mrs. Grover Godwin, Miss Helen Graves, Mrs. Sanford McDonnell, Mrs. Louis Michie, Miss Helen Prange, Mrs. Marcus Rice, Mrs. Carl H. Schlapp, Mrs. Theodore F. Schroth, Mrs. Rufus Lackland Taylor, Mrs. Chester H. Volkman, Mrs. Henry H. Whittemore and Miss Dorothy Ziegler.

Mrs. Sayman will be home from Europe in time for the show. For the past month she has been in London and Winchester, England, visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smithers, and their family. She went to England at this time in order to be present when Mr. Smithers was installed as master of the Turners' Guild, in London, at a spectacular ceremony. An ancient organization which had its beginning in 1310 when it was chartered by King James I, the guild was originally a fellowship of wood potter in the manufacture of household furniture.

The Smithers family and Mrs. Sayman have spent the weekends at the country home of Mr. Smithers' mother in Winchester, where he was elected to Parliament.

French Consul From Chicago to Visit Here

THE French Consul-General in Chicago, M. Jean Strauss, will be in St. Louis the weekend of May 11 and 12. On the night of his arrival he will attend the Bal Masque at the City Art Museum, and the next afternoon will speak at a meeting of the Alliance Francaise. The meeting will be held in the Georgian room of the Park Plaza Hotel at 3:15 o'clock, and tea will be served afterward. Mr. Strauss's subject will be "The North African Question."

At the ball the visitor will be the guest of Miss Elizabeth Gemp, president of the Alliance Francaise, who will give a small dinner in his honor at the Park Plaza earlier in the evening.

St. Louisans Attend Class Reunion

THE twenty-fifth reunion celebration of their class at Manhattanville College is the reason two St. Louisans are in New York this week. Mrs. Robert C. Corley, 13 Upper Ladue road, Ladue, and Mrs. Samuel M. Kennard III, 4970 Pershing avenue, who were roommates at the college, departed Monday for Purchase, N.Y., where Manhattanville has been situated since it was moved from New York City a few years ago. They were met in New York by another classmate, Mrs. John M. Bradley Jr. of Petersburg, Va. Mrs. Bradley and her husband, a colonel in the Army, lived in St. Louis during the war while he was stationed here.

While at Manhattanville Mrs. Corley will visit her daughter, Miss Catharine Betts Corley, a sophomore and president of her class, and Miss Corley will spend the weekend in New York with her mother. Before returning to St. Louis Mrs. Corley will also go to Portsmouth, R.I., to see her son, Robert Jr., who attends the Portsmouth Priory. She and Mrs. Kennard will return home the end of next week.

St. Louisan to Study Art Abroad

MISS SUE SULLIVAN, a senior at Pembroke College in Brown University, has been awarded the Stuart Alumnae Scholarship, for the school year 1956-57, for study in Florence, Italy. Miss Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hicks Sullivan, 6950 Kingsbury boulevard, University City, will depart for Europe early in October accompanied by several other young women students.

While in Florence she will live at the home of Miss Katherine Childs, who formerly headed a Boston art school and later one in Rome. Now retired, Miss Childs lives in a villa on Via del Ronco near the Boboli Gardens and the Pitti Palace. Miss Sullivan will study French and Italian at the University of Florence and will receive private criticism in painting and sculpture from artists selected by Miss Childs.

Miss Sullivan will be graduated Monday, June 4, from Pembroke. Her parents plan to attend commencement, departing in time to take part in the many festivities starting June 1 at the college.

The first of a series of spring parties at Glen Echo Country Club will be a ladies' luncheon and card party next Tuesday afternoon. The second will be the spring dance May 26, for which red and white polka-dotted invitations have been sent. A feature of the entertainment will be songs and skits from "South Pacific" by members of Phi Delta Theta fraternity at Washington University. Mr. and Mrs. D. Kenneth Ashby are co-chairmen of entertainment.

Spring Vacation in Arizona

MR. AND MRS. WEBSTER TILTON (ALICE BUSCH) HAVE LUNCHEON AT A POOLSIDE TABLE AT CAMELBACK INN, PHOENIX. THE TILTONS, WHO LIVE IN COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., WILL END THEIR VACATION IN PHOENIX TOMORROW. MRS. TILTON WILL STOP IN ST. LOUIS TO VISIT HER MOTHER, MRS. AUGUST A. BUSCH OF GRANT'S FARM.

Pan-Hellenic Activities in Early May of Mrs. Robert A. Busse, 711 Hawbrook, Glendale, Harold Bourgeois will talk on "Activities at Wesley House." Mrs. Stuart D. Hines is luncheon chairman.

Alumnae of Chi Omega will elect officers Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ralph C. Wilson, 424 Yorkshire avenue, Webster Groves.

Alpha Gamma Delta alumnae will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. William T. Shive, 8500 Country Club, Belleville, Ill. Mrs. Fred Warner will be chairman.

Members of Lambda Chi Alpha Mothers' Club will be guests of their sons at a Mothers' day dinner Sunday, May 13, at the Missouri University chapter house in Columbia. Student members will present a program of songs and skits. The club will meet Thursday evening, May 10, at the home of Mrs. Edwin N. LeVander, 3951 Flad avenue.

Kappa Alpha Theta alumnae chapter's May meeting will be a luncheon Wednesday at the home of Mrs. F. Mark Garlinghouse, 69 Clermont lane, Ladue. Miss Helen Adsit will speak on "The Influence of Color in Your Life." As a local project of St. Louis alumnae, announcement is made of a gift of $500 to the Girl Scouts of St. Louis to build an Adirondack shelter at their summer camp.

St. Louis Panhellenic Association will meet for a coffee hour Monday at 12:45 p.m. in the Alpha Chi Omega rooms at Washington University. Hostesses will be Mrs. Paul C. Ford and Mrs. James C. Greene of Alpha Chi Omega and Mrs. James F. Alexander and Mrs. Clement Orf of Alpha Sigma Tau. A report on the recent scholarship benefit bridge will be given.

To Address Monday Club

MRS. GEORGE H. PRING will be the speaker at the last general meeting of the season of the Monday Club of Webster Groves Monday at 2 p.m. in the club auditorium, 37 South Maple avenue, Webster Groves. Mrs. Otto S. McDaniel, program chairman, will introduce Mrs. Pring whose subject will be "Mr. Shaw's Garden." Wife of the superintendent of Missouri Botanical Garden, Mrs. Pring is chairman of Operation Henry Shaw Home, and is active in the Eighth District Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs. Under her direction members of the district clubs serve as hostesses at the home every afternoon.

Mrs. Claborn L. Jennings, president of the club, will preside at the meeting at which the recently elected section officers will be installed. The chairmen of the various sections are: Mrs. Theodore S. Vickroy, art; Mrs. James S. Malsbary, better homes; Mrs. Lawrence B. Murdoch, current literature; Mrs. Arthur R. Zohorsky, drama; Mrs. Oliver W. Kriege, education and current topics; Mrs. Harry E. O. Heineman, history and literature; and Mrs. Arnold H. Smith, music.

After the program tea will be served in the club dining room under the supervision of Mrs. James MacNish, hospitality chairman. Lawson, first vice president; Mrs. H. Burnham Tinker, second vice president; Mrs. Paul de Coster, secretary; Mrs. Edmund Smith, treasurer, and Mrs. Joseph Bolasina, historian.

Webster College Women's Club will install officers after a breakfast Monday following 8:30 a.m. mass in the Chapel of All Saints at the college. New officers are: Mrs. Herbert Winterer, president; Mrs. F. E.

My Day

A Pleasant Journey to St. John

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N.Y. TUESDAY morning turned out to be a beautiful one for flying and I had a wonderful plane trip from here to Boston, then along the Maine coast to St. John, New Brunswick, Canada. My husband and the boys were very familiar with the coast, for they used to go on cruises there together, and recently my son, James, went up to St. John to speak. But I never remember being there before.

It is a charming city and I was highly honored to be received by the Mayor and his council and to be the first woman ever given the freedom of the city. I shall put my certificate attesting to this honor in the Library at Hyde Park.

AFTER THE ceremonies at City Hall I was taken to the Lieutenant Governor's house, and there we had a pleasant tea. I was delighted to see so many people who had come to Campobello when the memorial to my husband was unveiled. The Mental Health Association, for which I was speaking in St. John, is just being reactivated and everyone seemed pleased with the amount of interest shown at the dinner. My own subject was "International Tensions" and their relation to the whole question of mental health. I told them that I had been to a similar meeting Monday in New York City, an indication that both Canada and the United States seem to be making an effort to emphasize the importance of the layman's understanding of his part in mental health.

I WAS GIVEN a charming little piece of pottery which was made by hand by Mr. and Mrs. Deichman. They are of Danish origin and have settled in St. John to carry on their work in ceramics. I was delighted to have a sample of their beautiful pottery and only wished I could have gone to their house to see more of their work.

I flew back Wednesday morning on an equally clear day and the pilot was kind enough to take us right along Campobello island, where I spent so many happy summers when my children were young.

I found on my return a mountain of mail on my desk. The amount of mail that can accumulate in a few days is positively frightening, but in the little while I have been here much of it has been attended to. So we are back to normal and my day on Thursday can begin with a sense of freedom.

Art Club Plans Hawaiian Party As Spring Event

By Fay Profilet

HAWAII will be featured in decorations, the menu and the program for the annual spring luncheon of the Twentieth Century Art Club to be given Monday in the dining room of Union Avenue Christian Church at 12:30 p.m. Decorations, many of the costumes and some of the food were bought from Hawaii by Mr. and Mrs. William Charles Rainford who recently visited there. Mrs. Rainford, special entertainment chairman, is in charge of the party. The club president, Mrs. Clark Cox, will preside at the luncheon.

Table decorations will be under direction of Mrs. Arthur T. Bard. About 200 members and guests will be seated at a U-shaped table, the focal point of decorations to be a large basket filled with pineapples and guarded by two toy monkeys. At intervals along the table will be pyramids of pineapples garlanded with leis in tropical colors. The large room will be lighted with brightly colored paper lanterns. The following menu will be served: Fresh pineapple; salad of spring chicken chiolata on pol; Mauna Loa rolls; Kona coffee and passion fruit pie.

During luncheon five native Hawaiians will provide the music and afterward a chorus, under the direction of Mrs. William A. Knox with Mrs. James O. Eadie as accompanist, will sing songs of the islands. A sound color film on Hawaii will be shown. A collection of attractive Hawaiian jewelry will be offered for sale by Mrs. James Lewald, the proceeds to go to the club's fund which supports various art projects.

A highlight of the afternoon will be a dancing chorus composed of club members. Mrs. Rainford, as the solo dancer, will present "Aloha Oe." The other dancers will be Mrs. Herbert G. Niemoeller, Mrs. Lucas L. Bergfeld, Mrs. Flavius G. Pernoud Jr., Mrs. George A. Dashi, Mrs. Paul McHugh, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. S. Gailther Clark, Mrs. Edward P. Huck, Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Eben T. Bradbury. All those appearing on the program will be in costume and each member and guest will be presented a lei.

Charles Nagel, director of the City Art Museum, and Mrs. Nagel, and Miss Mary Powell and Miss Jacquelin Ambler of the museum staff have been invited as guests of honor.

St. Louis College Club To Hear Guest Speaker

MISS SHULAMIT BEN-YISHAI will speak on "A Glimpse of Israel" at the annual spring luncheon of the St. Louis College Club, St. Louis branch of the American Association of University Women, tomorrow at McMillan Hall, Washington University.

Miss Ben-Yishai is the branch's international grant student for 1955-56. She is doing post-graduate work in law at the University of Chicago. The speaker was born in Jerusalem and later lived in Tel Aviv. She received a teacher's diploma from the Levinsky Teachers Seminary and studied for a year at the School of Law and Economics in Tel Aviv and for three years at the Faculty of Law of the Hebrew University, Jerusalem. She received her master's degree in 1954 cum laude and served as a law clerk with the deputy president of the Supreme Court of Israel.

The luncheon will be under the auspices of the international relations committee, of which Mrs. Frank W. Moody is chairman. Mrs. Hallowell Davis and Miss Leona J. Beckmann are in charge of reservations. After the program Mrs. Willis H. Reals, 7032 Westmoreland avenue, will give a reception for Miss Ben-Yishai.

Martha Carr's

OPINION

Today's column is devoted to teen-agers who are invited to submit their questions to Martha Carr.

Dear Martha:

There are nine of us girls in a club. One girl always gets mad at every little thing. She called up and asked if I could go some place with her and I said I didn't know. She called me again when I was visiting someone.

But that person said I wasn't there. The girl who was calling really knew I was there but we were playing a joke on her. The next day at school she was mad and said no one liked her. We have thought of putting her out of the club but do not want to hurt her feelings. We are all sorry we played that joke and won't do it again. What can we do?

QUESTIONING GROUP.

Well, if she already thinks no one likes her, she'll really be hurt if you throw her out of the club. And even though she does have that one bad fault of being too sensitive, don't the other members have their faults too? She thought you were making fun of her when you played that joke on her and naturally she was hurt. You would be too—because you were the victim of a practical joke but because the others had ganged up and made you feel an outsider. You don't have to cater to her sensitivity in order to be kind. Go out of your way to be pleasant. Act like you like her and she'll reflect that treatment in less martyrdom and more happiness.

Dear Martha: I AM A MAN OF 18. I'm good looking and I think the best-dressed man in my class. The trouble is I'm trying to get to know a girl in my class but can never get to her on account of the other girls. How can I break it to the other girls that I don't care for them without hurting their feelings?

You mean there are so many girls around you that you can't get a chance to talk to this one you particularly like? Then I'm afraid you'll have to make other arrangements to meet her. Get a classmate to introduce you or if you have a speaking acquaintance with her, call her up for a date. You don't have to be rude to the others to seek out the one you think you'd like.

Dear Martha: I AM 12 YEARS OLD. I like a boy who is also 12. He says he likes me as much as I like him but he doesn't show it. The question is, do you think I should drop him to teach him a lesson?

At 12, I doubt that you are really so interested in one particular boy that you have to decide whether to "drop him." If you like him, be pleasant and friendly, but don't let yourself take it so seriously. Enjoy his friendship, and that of the other boys and girls in your class.

Send today for Martha Carr's leaflet prepared especially for teen-agers, "E for Etiquette." Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

What to Wear

By Louise Trescott

IT IS figure proportion that counts, not height. The short woman, if of correct weight and approximate ideal measurements, is not curtailed in styles she can wear. Any silhouette is possible. Her only taboo is too bulky fabrics and too big accessories.

Although here, too, the exception occasionally proves the rule. L.W. writes: "I need a lift for summer. I am 5 feet 1 1/2 inch tall, weigh 95 pounds, am 46 years old and have graying hair, once brown. It is really gray around my face. I have green eyes and a warm yellow complexion. Please suggest something suitable but perky for summer. Pink is my best color (I think) and I have mostly pink summer clothes. I don't have much except a gray fitted coat, which I could do without. I would appreciate your help. No special occasion, luncheons occasionally, church, etc. I always feel a short older woman must be careful not to look silly."

YOUR SMALL, trim figure is no problem for I am sure you can wear slim or full silhouettes. You have a choice of necklines and all general construction lines in clothes, because your proportions are good. There's not the slightest danger of looking "silly" unless you don't baby puff sleeves, flounced skirts or ankle bracelets. I believe color is where you need reassurance.

I only imagine pink being good for you if it is a peach, shrimp or coral pink, a pink having some orange in it. This would blend into your warm complexion, while a true pink is likely to be harsh. Since you are fond of this color (I am assuming it has an orange or yellow cast) and since you are a size that can wear more color than some, I suggest concentrating on a lovely grayed coral for your summer basic. A full length coat in this, a suit in finely checked coral and gray, black patent shoes and bag, small black turban type hat, gray gloves, silver jewelry.

NOW YOUR present pink summer clothes should be fine under this coat as well as under your gray one. Same accessories will do with both coats. When wearing pink dresses by themselves, try gray shoes and bag, white gloves and hat. Also have shoes dyed to match some of the pink dresses.

Plan one beige sheer dress with coral jewelry. This freshens costumes considerably. Do not be concerned that you have lots of pink in your summer wardrobe. It is never wrong to repeat good colors numberless times.

The Question Box

By Josephine Lowman

"I THINK I AM OVERWEIGHT but am not sure. I weigh 112 pounds and am 5 feet 1 1/2 inches tall. My measurements are bust 32, waist 25 and hips 37 inches. The other girls are popular and I would like to be, too. When I am around boys and other girls they pay attention to the other girls. I hope you can help me. If you think I should lose weight please tell me how."

A. You certainly are not fat. Your weight is just perfect. Since your hips are a little large, you might try hip reducing exercises.

There must be some other reason for not being popular. Perhaps you are shy and self-conscious. Try to forget yourself and concentrate on others. Take a real interest in what they are saying and join in with the group. Sometimes a shy person gets the reputation of being snobbish. Talk with others even if you are shy and soon you will no longer feel that way. Also be certain that you are well groomed.

Film Deal for Jayne Mansfield

By Sheila Graham

HOLLYWOOD.

JAYNE MANSFIELD, hit of Broadway's "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" is signing a seven-year deal with Twentieth Century-Fox that starts her off with $60,000 a year. But she can't begin the Twentieth-Fox deal until the stage play is over.

I hear that Fred Astaire would like to star in "Doh Quixote" on the stage if Rodgers and Hammerstein would do the words and music. That would be a very enchanted evening.

The Ronald Reagans are building a new home, with a swimming pool this time. And their small daughter will take swimming lessons. . . . David Wayne, star of "The Ponder Heart" on Broadway, turns producer-director next season with Ken Englund's play, "So Few for Love." . . . And Basil Rathbone, who was once described as "two profiles," is working hard at his writing. The Readers Digest bought Basil's story, "Day Dream."

AGENT BILL WHITE has Brian Donlevy sold for a television series. . . . But even her agent can reach Jean Peters, who obviously is sitting out her contract with Twentieth-Fox. I'd like to see her back on the screen, wouldn't you? . . . Rod Steiger, before leaving for the Cannes Film Festival, recorded his first song, "I Saw a Robin," with lyrics by Rod himself. . . . Raymond Burr will combine his annual Christmas trip to Korea with the filming of his first independent picture, "Listen World," which has a Korean locale.

Joan Crawford gets her usual $200,000 for "The Story of Esther Costello," which won't have Marisa Pavan or Susan Strasberg. The British labor law insists on an English actress who will probably be Heather Sears, under contract to Jimmy John Woolf.

AUDREY HEPBURN, so cooperative about everything with "Funny Face," is anxious about her dancing and the set is closed for her numbers.

"This is the first time I have ever really danced for the screen and I want to do a good job and it bothers me to have people around," says Audrey. "If I did something less than my best I could hardly have a card flashed on the screen, "Sorry folks, I was distracted."

There's a campaign afoot to bring Gina Lollobrigida to Indianapolis for the famous 500-mile auto race on Memorial day.

Wendell Corey has a busy time ahead—a date in New York with Guthrie McClintic to discuss "A for Adult," and Judith Anderson wants him for "Tiger at the Gates" to open the Ann Arbor festival in June.

It'll be D-day June 1 when Doris D. takes to the road for the first time since she was a singer with the Les Brown band 10 years ago. This time she tours to sell her independent picture, "Juliet." And you can expect something new in freckle-faced charm.

Ginger Rogers has a movie all set in Paris—and she'll make it in French. It's a story about three girls and Ginger plays all three. I hope her French is now as good as husband Jacques Bergerac's English. Ginger's "First Traveling Saleslady" hits the road this summer.

Dolores Del Rio returns to this country to star in a summer stock tour of "Anastasia." Her one-time secretary, Veda Cleveland, who has been working for Jennifer Jones, goes east to join Dolores on the tour.

They've been put to use every night since Christmas and still have years of mileage in them. Families with several children would find them even more worth while.

WE'LL HAVE these blocks on sale, also wonderful sturdy wooden wagons and trucks and flatpots with airplanes under the deck and a combination wagon and seesaw cart we volunteers have had lots of fun riding. Also books, also such suggestions for the harried vacation season ahead as clay, paint, scissors, and paper.

Now for a quick commercial. The fair will be held at Faith Congregational Church, 210 Chestnut street in Webster Groves, two blocks south of Big Bend road near Elm avenue. You'll recognize the mamas behind the counters. They'll be the ones with the worried looks. Wondering what the kids are getting into at home.

A Teener's Question On Parties

By Elinor Williams

"TIME to go home from the party" is the cause of many long, gruesome arguments between teenagers and parents. A 14-year-old girl asks:

"I want to give a party, but am afraid my mother will ruin it. She says the party must end at the time she wants. I don't think it should end at the very exact time stated as she does. Recently, she made me leave a party when she wanted me to, almost an hour earlier than the others left. I had four friends with me going home and they were angry because of leaving before the others. . . . at the time my mother thought best. Does a party have to break up at the exact time stated? What right has my mother to make me look stupid in front of everybody else?"

ANSWER—If you read books on good manners—for teenagers and everybody else—you'll find your mother was trying to make you look well-mannered, not stupid.

It is socially correct, also good manners and good sense, for parties to break up at the time stated in the invitation. That's why the time is included . . . to end the party at the time desired by the people giving it. . . .

People giving the party have a right to decide when it shall begin and end, and, as a guest, it's your duty (good manners) to follow their time limit and not "wear out your welcome" . . . whether their "go-home" time happens to coincide with your idea of time-to-go-home or not.

A Code for Quarreling

By Ruth Millett

COUPLES don't have to agree all the time in order to have a happy marriage. But if they are going to quarrel they ought to abide by a few gentlemanly rules.

One. Any quarrel should be confined to the incident that starts it. Dragging old arguments, disagreements and disappointments into a new argument is what leaves a bitter taste and a sense of disillusionment.

Two. Traits of character shouldn't be attacked. While you may get by with telling a man you think he is making a mistake in a certain instance you won't get by with telling him he has poor judgment.

Three. Neither the husband nor the wife should drag the other's family into a quarrel. It isn't easy to either forget or forgive unkind things said about one's family however true they happen to be.

Four. It is better to say exactly what you mean than to use sarcasm. The sting of sarcasm lasts much longer than plain and honestly angry reproaches.

Five. A couple should never quarrel before a third person. It is harder to forgive harsh words that have been overheard by someone else.

Six. Neither husband nor wife should be ashamed to say, "I'm sorry" and try to make up a quarrel. It doesn't matter who started it or who is in the wrong. The one who calms down first should say, "I'm sorry."

Seven. This is, perhaps, the most important rule of all. Once it is over, a quarrel should be put out of the mind and never mentioned again. It isn't quarrelling that ruins marriages—but nursing grudges afterwards.

Whether or not a quarrel clears the air or leaves a lasting hurt depends largely on whether or not a couple follows these rules for fair fighting.

Accident Proneness In Children

By Frances Ilg, M.D., and Louise Ames, Ph.D.
Of the Gesell Institute of Child Development.

"A SUBJECT that I have been hoping you would discuss is that of accident proneness in children," a mother writes. "We have a seven-year-old boy who is constantly contracting injuries, both minor and serious, in spite of reasonable precautions on our part and awareness and intelligence on his."

"Jim has had three minor concussions, an automobile accident, a dislocated shoulder, a ruptured spleen in a fall from a bicycle, a lacerated sclera, and a fractured radius. He has also had a fractured zygomatic process and black eyes and cuts requiring sutures too often to mention. Fortunately, there has been no lasting disability from any of these, but perhaps he will not always be so lucky."

"At home he is a pleasant child; in fact, even at six he did not go through that obnoxious stage. He is always busy, either in the woods behind the house or building in the basement. He never reads or plays quiet games. He is very cooperative with household projects and is very susceptible to praise. Contrarywise, when punishments are given he never gives us the satisfaction of appearing chastised."

"I would appreciate any suggestions you can make regarding the accident-prone aspect, short of drastically limiting his physical activities. He is such a high motor child that he has to be doing something all the time and is perfectly miserable when kept quiet. Incidentally, he is good in sports, is an excellent swimmer and diver, throws well and has little fear."

THERE is unquestionably a consistency in the behavior of certain children. It looks as though Jim has had a very consistent accident history. And certainly it is true that some children do seem to have many more accidents than others.

According to our experience these tend to be the more active, athletic (mesomorphic) children who have a high motor drive and often are good at athletic activities. But they do not seem to possess the necessary amount of caution. (There is a theory that some of the people who have repeated accidents are suffering from feelings of guilt and hurt themselves by accident in order to punish themselves. We ourselves do not find this a too useful theory when applied to children.)

The only thing that can really help these boys is to become more and more adept in their motor capacity, so that their coordination is better and their movements surer. You don't hold them back; rather, you try to help them to be surer and more skillful.

IN THIS seven-year period we would recommend a full development-visual examination for Jim to be sure that his eyes and his motor system are working well together. Visual training might possibly improve his co-ordination.

As a rule, the seven-year-old is more cautious than earlier in his movements. However, the eight-year-old is more adventurous, and does need to be protected from experiences, such as bicycling in traffic, which are beyond his capacity.

We're afraid that Jim isn't going to change much. But most of these boys do live to tell the tale.

Mince-meat Turnovers

Ingredients: one cup sifted flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup firmly packed brown sugar, one-half cup shortening (soft), two to three tablespoons water, one cup quick rolled oats, one cup moist mince-meat.

Method: Sift flour and salt into a bowl; mix with sugar. Cut in shortening until particles are fine. Mix in water lightly until dry ingredients are dampened. Mix in rolled oats. Roll dough out thin on lightly floured board. Using a coffee-can lid as a cutter, cut into five-inch circles. Place two tablespoons mince-meat on half of each. Fold over; seal edges by pressing together with tines of fork. Prick to allow escape of steam. Place on greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate (375°) oven 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot with orange sauce. Sauce may be made by heating one-half of a can (six fluid ounces) of undiluted frozen orange concentrate.

Family Meat Loaf

Ingredients: One egg, one-half cup milk, two slices bread, one small onion, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon crushed dried thyme, one-half teaspoon paprika, one pound ground beef chuck.

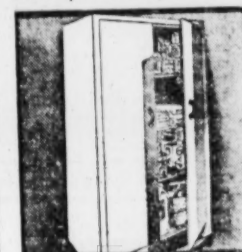

Method: Beat egg in mixing bowl enough to combine yolk and white. Beat in milk. Cut bread (including crusts) into tiny cubes and stir in. Grate onion fine and add with salt, pepper, thyme and paprika. Mix well. Work in meat thoroughly with fork or fingers. Rinse small loaf pan (7½ by 4 by 2 inches) with cold water; pack meat mixture into it; loosen sides with knife; turn out on small oven platter or shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven one hour. Makes four servings.

Supper Menu

Swedish supper: your best meat balls made miniature size along with a casserole of scalloped potatoes and paper-thin slices of cucumber marinated in vinegar, sugar, salt and pepper. Apple pudding for desert.

The Strike

MOST people are so occupied with their own affairs that it is refreshing to find a man who is interested in those of other people.

It is welcome to have him inquire into a person's health and listen to an account of symptoms, and, instead of taking them lightly, suggest that they may lead to something serious and he would advise losing no time in consulting a doctor.

It is as agreeable as it is surprising to have him pay compliments on a person's taste in dress. A man who is interested in others as much as he is in himself will no doubt find an opportunity to make flattering comments on the suit a person is wearing, or the necktie or the overcoat, ask where it was bought and promise to go out and get one of the same general type.

Very likely some job a person has done will have come to his attention and he will remark favorably on it. Such a man will also want to know the latest details about another person's children and grandchildren. He will show no restlessness as the contents of the latest letter received is being recited.

If the suggestion is made that there are a number of recent snapshots of the children or grandchildren close at hand, he will not plead an engagement and hurry off. On the contrary, he will beg to see them.

And, when he sees the snapshots, he will exclaim over the healthy appearance of the children and their good looks. He will note the astonishing resemblance of the children to the person showing their pictures. There is no denying that by doing a man makes an excellent impression, and one wishes there were more people like him.

CHRISTOPHER BILLOPP.

What a pity he should spoil it all just as he is about to leave by asking, "By the way, could you let me have a couple of dollars until payday?"

USE DELICIOUS, VERSATILE QUALITY DAIRY SMOOTH CREAMED CHEESE

Play Safe While You Drive!

Keep alert--chew gum
Avoid traffic jitters and driving drowsiness. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension--helps keep you feeling fresh and alert for safer driving. Chew any brand of gum you like but chew while you drive. Naturally, we recommend Wrigley's Spearmint Gum--for lively, satisfying flavor and real chewing enjoyment.
